Some GOP contenders closing gap

Democratic landslide eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic landslide appeared imminent today on the eve of the first election to feel the full brunt of Watergate and a staggering economy.

The final pre-election survey by The Associated Press shows Democrats have a shot at two-thirds control of both houses of Congress and a record number of governorships.

Confident Democratic leaders predicted Sunday their party would carry a virtual sweep of Tuesday's elections, while Republicans talked about holding down their losses.

The balloting for 35 governorships, 34 Senate seats and all 435 House posts will be the first since Richard M. Nixon resigned as president and was pardoned by his chosen successor, Gerald R. Ford.

The election also comes amid mounting inflation and unemployment and national debate over what to do about both. Ford has campaigned for GOP candidates saying he needs a Congress he can work with to cure the economy, while Democrats have called for the congressional strength to put through their own solutions.

Ironically, the anticipated Democratic romp comes just two years after Nixon had won for the Republicans one of history's two biggest presidential landslides. But it was reminiscent of 1966 when Republicans turned the same trick after their presidential disaster in the Barry Goldwater campaign of 1964.

Although Republicans contended that their embattled candidates were closing gaps across the country, the latest available information showed Democrats still ahead in most of the key races.

The AP survey, based on reports from bureaus in all 50 states, late polls and interviews with political strategists for the major parties and candidates gives this picture:

Senate — The Democrats likely to gain from 5 to 7 of the 14 GOP seats at stake and with a good chance to hold all 20 of their own. This could mean 63 to 65 Democrats in the new Senate, compared to the 58-42 margin they already hold.

House — The Democratic gain could be as high as 50 seats and probably no less than 30 if present trends hold. They now hold a 248-187 edge and could approach the massive 295-140 majority they achieved in Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide.

Governors — The Democrats hold the record for most governorships in the hands of one party — 39 in 1939. Already holding 32 of the 50 statehouses, they now appear likely to gain from 7 to as many as 10.

The party out of the White House normally gains in offyear elections — an average 4 senators and 26 House members in the last five.

"Our mission is to keep it under the average losses," Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" show Sunday.

"Frankly, I would like to keep it in the range of 20 to 25" House seats, Michel said, the number of GOP congressmen he concedes are in deep trouble.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee in the Senate, said losing 4 or 5 Senate seats would be normal in the offyear following a presidential landslide like Nixon's but predicted "we'll do better than that."

But that was as close as any Republican leaders — including President Ford — would come to putting numbers on their expected fate Tuesday. When asked for his prediction, Ford brushed aside the question with "not on Sunday."

On another television panel show, GOP party chairman Mary Louise Smith also ducked the "numbers game" but said she saw a "turnaround" in the Watergate backlash that has been hampering Republican campaigns.

However, Democratic chairman Robert Strauss, appearing with Mrs. Smith on "Meet the Press," predicted a gain of 4 to 6 Senate seats, 27 to 32 in the House and statehouse victories to place 85 to 90 per cent of the population under Democratic governors.

The AP survey shows at least four Republican senators in the greatest danger of defeat — in Colorado, Kentucky, Oklahoma and North Dakota.

A fifth, Robert Dole of Kansas, has overcome a deficit in the polls against Democrat William Roy and the race is now rated a toss-up.

A sixth Senate race apparently has turned around but still is too close to call with Democrat Wayne Ownes ahead of the GOP's Jake Garn in Utah by a narrow margin in three recent polls. They are seeking the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett.

FALL SUNRISE AND WINTER SKIES — This photograph was taken early Sunday morning, while a light rain was falling. Although Sunday's overcast skies sealed in the warm air below, a cold front started moving in during evening. The weatherman believes it will be wet through Wednesday, with conditions becoming more fair Thursday and Friday. As for donning your winter coat, temperatures should be in the 40's and 50's throughout the week.

Election tempo hits high point in county

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

The tempo of the 1974 general election campaign has reached a fever pitch in Fayette County and will culminate Tuesday night when the votes are counted in the Fayette County Board of Elections office.

The hotly-contested gubernatorial election and keen interest in a race for a seat in the Ohio House of Representatives from the 77th District between Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford, of Washington C.H., and Bob McEwen, of Hillsboro, plus several local tax issues are expected to bring out a heavy turnout of Fayette County voters to cast ballots at the polls, depending upon weather conditions.

THE POLLING places in the 44 county precincts were rather lifeless as a mere 3,273 voters turned out for the May primary election. A total of 5,768 voters cast ballots in the last general election and this year's turnout is expected to top that figure.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has predicted about 3,650,000 voters will go to the polls. That figure represents about 73 per cent of the 4,975,900 persons estimated to be eligible to vote and would be a record turnout for a gubernatorial election in Ohio.

Ohio voters will have an extra hour to get to the polls on election day. The legislature recently added the extra hour so the polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Ohio voters will choose Tuesday between Republican James A. Rhodes, 65, who ran state government eight years from 1963 to 1971, and his successor John J. Gilligan, 53, the Democrat incumbent.

Despite the advantages of incumbency for Gilligan and the disadvantages of most Republicans in the first election following the full Watergate scandal disclosures, most election observers agree the governor's race is a down-to-the-wire situation. Both candidates, of course, predict victories.

Of major interest to most Fayette Countians will be the race between Dumford, a Democrat and former three-term county commissioner, and McEwen, a 24-year-old Republican from Hillsboro.

Only voters in Washington C.H., and Concord, Green, Jasper, Jefferson and Union townships will cast ballots in the race between Dumford and McEwen. The 77th District also includes all of Madison County, six townships plus Wilmington in Clinton County, seven townships plus Greenfield, Leesburg and Hillsboro in Highland County and seven townships plus Jamestown in Greene County.

COMMANDING additional interest will be five local tax issues.

Washington C.H. City Council has offered voters a reduction of 4.3-mills in property taxes in exchange for approval of a 1.25 per cent income tax. The Miami Trace School District is seeking approval of a $2.25 million bond issue to construct a new junior high school and passage of a three-mill additional operating levy. An issue facing all voters in Fayette County will be an increase of .65-mill for operation of the mental retardation program.

Voters in Perry Township will decide a liquor question and residents of Jefferson Township will be asked to renew a one-mill fire protection tax levy.

All voters in the state will be asked to repeal a section of the state constitution and add two new articles. The proposed amendments would permit the state to help finance business expansions and installation of pollution-control facilities; permit real estate tax reductions for permanently disabled property owners, and eliminate from the constitution a provision for the appointment of a public works superintendent.

The only contested race in the county is for a seat on the Fayette County Board of Commissioners. Incumbent Robert J. Mace, a Democrat is seeking an unprecedented fourth term. He is challenged by Republican J.W. (Boots) Sears.

Unopposed candidates seeking reelection are county auditor Mary

Hunting mishap wound fatal to county man

A Fayette County man died in Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus, Sunday morning some 11 hours after suffering a self-inflicted gunshot wound sustained while hunting.

Edward Wayne Walker, 26, of 3031 Old Springfield Rd., died at 7 a.m. Sunday of a gunshot wound in the head.

According to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, Walker was hunting with two companions, Marty and John Long, of Jeffersonville, Saturday night. The trio was on the M.C. Creamer farm, Milledgeville-Jeffersonville Road, just north of U.S. 35. At approximately 8 p.m., the Longs heard a shot and rushed over to where Walker had been standing.

He had suffered a wound to the head which apparently came from his own .22 caliber rifle.

WALKER WAS taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and was then transported to Mount Carmel Hospital. He died there 10 hours after his arrival. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the mishap.

A 1967 graduate of Miami Trace High School, the Good Hope native had lived all his life in Fayette County. He was employed as a mechanic with the Wilson Freight Co., South Charleston, and was a ministerial servant with the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witness.

He is survived by his wife, the former Joyce Williams; his parents, Lester and Ada Stout Walker, 828 Broadway; and three sisters, Mrs. James (Daisy) Wyatt, 325 Fifth St., Mrs. Dan (Shirley) Hopkins, Dayton, and Mrs. Robert (Carolyn) Hunter, Columbus.

EDWARD W. WALKER

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., with Leslie Rogers officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Five more charged in MTHS vandalism

Five more youths have been arrested and charged in connection with a vandalism incident at Miami Trace High School early Saturday.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson said a total of nine persons have been arrested in connection with the incident.

Arrested and charged over the weekend by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies were two 16-year-old Washington C.H. boys for destruction of property, a 17-year-old Washington C.H. boy, a 17-year-old Lakeland, Fla. boy and a 15-year-old Washington C.H. boy for vandalism.

Robert F. Angus Jr., 18, of 713 Oak Drive, and Phillip K. Moore, 18, of 323 N. Hinde St., and two 17-year-old Washington C.H. youths were arrested early Saturday by sheriff's deputies on charges of vandalism.

Angus and Moore were scheculed to appear in Washington C.H. Municipal Court on the vandalism charges Monday. The seven other youths will appear in juvenile court.

The high school building and school parking lot were splashed with paint and nine windows in the building had been broken with paint cans. Preliminary damage estimates totaled $500, according to Sheriff Thompson.

House burglary ring cracked by deputies

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department believes it has cracked one of the biggest house burglary rings it has ever been confronted with, which may have been engineered by one man named James C. Jones, 50, of Columbus.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported that through the investigative efforts of Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks in conjunction with the Pickaway Sheriff's Department, Jones is now lodged in the Pickaway County jail on charges of aggravated burglary.

A car registered under Jones' name had been noticed in the Lakewood Hills area on Oct. 3, when a house belonging to Kenneth Blade was broken into and an antique clock, a color television and some jewelry was stolen.

A second car also registered under Jones was seen parked nearby the location where another burglary occurred in Pickaway County.

A check on Jones was run and he was found to be wanted in Carroll County for probation violation for house burglaries there in the past.

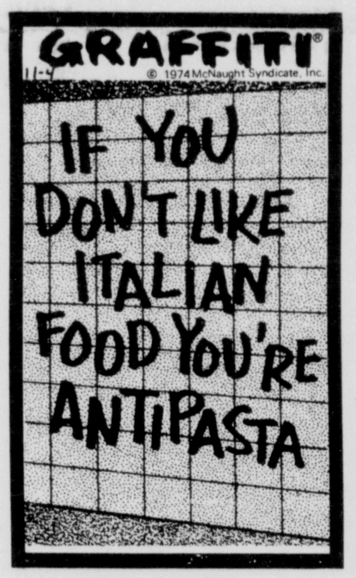
Jones was arrested in Columbus on the probation violation charge Friday and when questioned by Sgt. Crooks, admitted the burglary of Blade's home.

The antique clock owned by Blade was recovered in Jones' home and a search warrant was obtained for a Whitehall residence owned by Stephen and Marie Eichhorn, ages 33 and 32 respectively, who were believed to have been connected with the burglaries.

Sgt. Crooks and Sheriff's Deputy Donald Cox, along with two Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies and two Franklin County detectives conducted the search, during which, Blade's color television and the missing jewelry was discovered. The house also yielded other items believed to have been taken during other house burglaries in the central Ohio area.

Eichhorn and his wife have been charged in Franklin County with receiving stolen property.

Additional charges against Jones are expected to be filed by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, according to Sheriff Thompson in the future.



Nixon off critical list; buoyed up by Ford visit

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is off the critical list after complications from phlebitis surgery, but medical officials say there is no word on when he may leave the hospital.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said Sunday that his patient is now receiving "sub-intensive care," which Lungren described as a step down from critical care.

Nixon had been in critical condition for six days after experiencing shock following an operation to partially close a vein in his left groin area. The surgery was designed to keep blood clots from movin to his lungs or heart.

"It's his best morning since hospitalization began," Lungren said in a statement issued at Memorial Hospital Medical Center on Sunday.

It was also reported that the 61-year-old former chief executive began a soft food diet, including custard and vegetables, and would sit up in bed for the first time since re-entering the hospital for treatment of his phlebitis condition Oct. 23.

Nixon had been fed intravenously during the critical period, until Saturday when he was first allowed to take consomme and gelatin.

Officials said Nixon was also being permitted to see his wife, Pat, and daughters, Tricia Nixon Cox and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, but only for five minutes each hour. The family has been staying near the hospital.

A hospital source said Nixon was not reading books, watching television or carrying on much conversation.

Doctors said the blood clot in Nixon's left leg which prompted the surgery last Tuesday had not enlarged. They also said that postoperative internal bleeding had been stopped.

During a briefing of newsmen, Connie Hamilton, director of critical care nursing at the hospital, described Nixon as "physically quite ill."

She said two nurses had been in Nixon's room at all times during the critical period, but now there would be only one nurse in the room. A backup nurse will remain on the same floor, she said.

Lungren said Nixon was buoyed by his visit from President Ford Friday and was receiving positive pressure breathing treatments administered by a respiratory therapist.

New auto sales here better than implied, dealers say

By SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

With the skyrocketing of prices and cutbacks in production nationally, newspapers, radios and television have concentrated recently on one of the hardest hit industries this fall — automobiles.

However, according to several local car dealers, business is much better than the national news media imply.

WITH THE new 1975 model prices increasing anywhere from $300 to $800 a car depending on the vehicle, and the addition of a catalytic converter which requires non-leaded gasoline, various analysts have forecast even lower auto sales in 1975.

But Bud Meriweather, of Meriweather Motor Co., claims his business has been almost "a virtual parallel of last October's sales," with "maybe a 10 per cent reduction" from record July and August sales.

While sales are generally running far behind last year's, local dealers contacted unanimously believe it is not due to the addition of the antipollution device but totally inflation.

"People are just not interested in looking at long-term debts because of national and world-wide problems," said Ron Farmer, of Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket, who stated that 1975 prices have increased "probably 12 per cent" over 1974 prices.

According to the local dealers, the reasons for the price increase are as varied as the number of car models on the market today. Some believe the government has caused the prices to rise through the requirements of additional safety features, others feel general inflationary costs of all raw materials being used in the manufacturing of automobiles and additional costs of labor are inportant factors.

Dave Ogan, of Carroll Halliday Inc., stated the situation as thus: "The higher prices have been mandated by the government in Washington D.C. through the additions of safety features. The people we voted for have put it on us."

Farmer said the price hikes is "total inflation" with the price of everything going up, including wages, steel, nylon upholstery, and other products involved in the automotive industry.

However, all the local dealers contacted, said the price increase is not that high when one considers the standard equipment included in the 1975 models that were optional on automobiles last year. The addition of the anti-pollution device, radial tires, high energy ignition system and power door locks on the luxury cars are a few of the now standard equipment.

"The 1975 models are getting about 25 per cent more mileage than the '74s or any previous cars," said Don Ward of Don's Auto Sales.

FARMER STATED the 1975 autos have "smoother operation, less maintenance and overall, owner's overhead is much less on the '75s."

The local dealers said there has been no major concern or any real problems encountered with the antipollution devices included on most of the 1975 vehicles.

The main problem they appear to be facing is the delivering of the 1975s and obtaining the models of automobiles to fill the present demand.

The shortage of automobiles has

Inflation tops campaign issues

NEW YORK (AP) — Voter see inflation as the No. 1 issue in the election Tuesday and will be skeptical of any candidate who hasn't discussed it in terms they can understand, private pollsters say.

"Let's not kid ourselves, in this election there is one overriding problem on people's minds, and that's the economy," Frank Goldsmith of Oliver Quayle & Co. said.

Harry O'Neill of Opinion Research Corp. in Princeton, N.J., also used the word "overriding" to describe worry about inflation, adding, "The situation is similar to the way Vietnam was the big issue several years ago."

Goldsmith, O'Neil and three other pollsters declined to discuss details of the information they have supplied to candidates, but they did describe what their studies show about voter concerns.

Dick Wirthlin of Decision Making Information in Los Angeles and Tully Plesser of Cambridge Opinion Studies in New York emphasized the advantage of discussing inflation in specific terms.

"The electorate needs something it can understand," Wirthlin said. "For example, cut government spending, soak the oil companies, hold the line against defense spending. But this all must be played against the background of what the electorate wants to hear. There seems to be much sympathy toward making sacrifices if the electorate can be assured that these sacrifices will help curb inflation."

Plesser said voters will respond best to a candidate who identifies a cause of inflation "and holds it up as an enemy to be attacked — you need something to clarify the issue for voters, who can't dope out the nuisances of the problem."

Goldsmith said a candidate would be a "fool if he says he's going to lick the inflation problem.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service's new national program cooperative, begun this year, has gotten the green light for the 1975-76 season. But a big hurdle remains.

And PBS chief Hartford Gunn says that is to persuade the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the Ford Foundation to increase, not decrease, the financial support they gave the system for 1974-75.

The cooperative, created amid dwindling foundation support for public TV, aims at stimulating great local financial help for public TV as well as giving stations more direct say in choosing national programs.

Under the system, the stations are asked to pay a fairshare percentage of some national programming they once got free from PBS, helping to "buy" shows offered in a PBS program catalogue.

To get it startd this season, CPB, which administers federal funds earmarked for public broadcasting, put up $4.5 million. The Ford Foundation put up $5 million and stations raised $4 million, Gunn said. The $13.5 million total paid for 40 per cent of the cost of this season's national public TV programs, he added.

PBS' executive committee, in renewing the program cooperative for another season, said it should be financed at a level of from $19 million to $23 million. Gunn is aiming for a $21 million level.

"Our hope is that the stations would put up $7 million and CPB and the Ford Foundation $7 million each," he said. "It's a reasonable figure and the program choices the stations could make would be considerably greater than they were under this year's funding."

He said that by this he meant that financially pressed stations this year tended to buy low-cost series lasting weeks rather than expensive programs — such as documentaries — of only one or several segments.

What sort of financial commitment has CPB and the Ford Foundation made to the cooperative for next season?

"Well, the corporation has said it could put up $3.7 million," Gunn said.

He said the Ford Foundation, which is gradually phasing out its long-time support of public broadcasting, "has not said what it'd put up, but it did indicate earlier it'd match what CPB puts up."

Plain Dealer strike continues

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— No more bargaining was scheduled today between The Plain Dealer and striking members of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild, after contract talks broke off Sunday with no progress reported, the Guild said.

Guild Executive Secretary Jack Weir said no more talks were scheduled because Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge Francis Sweeney, who had been mediating the dispute, had a trial today and would not be available until late this afternoon.

Milledgeville solons hold brief meeting

MILLEDGEVILLE — The Milledgeville Council met Saturday in a brief session. It was noted that some of the village air wells are becoming blocked by leaves and debris. Anyone who knows of wells which are clogged should contact Ronnie Anderson at 948-2536.

The council also paid routine bills.

KSU trial in recess to Tuesday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Prosecution and defense rest today in the trial of eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

The trial is in recess and resumes Tuesday.

Testimony in the second week of the trial is expected to return to the government's contention that guardsmen were not threatened when they opened fire on students protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The May fourth shootings killed four students and wounded nine.

The prosecution has provided evidence that students pelted guardsmen with rocks before the gunfire broke out and even threw back some tear gas canisters guardsmen had fired into the crowd.

But defense cross-examination has brought out testimony that most students were more than 300 feet away when the troops started shooting.

Three photographers on campus that day told the court last week they saw no rush of students that could have precipitated the firing.

At the beginning of the week, the jury and seven of the eight defendants toured the campus, exploring the site of an Army Reserve Officers Training Corps building burned two days before the shootings, the hill from which guardsmen fired and the parking lot below where students fell.

The ex-guardsmen are charged with assaulting and intimidating the shooting victims and others by firing weapons in their direction and depriving them of their civil rights without due process of law.

ENDORSED BY JOHN GLENN

"As a commissioner of Fayette County for 12 years, he proved himself a capable servant of the public. His interests: public school financing, tax revision and law enforcement are of vital concern to the people of the 77th. district. He strongly stresses the importance of local government, which is refreshing in an age of increasingly centralization and depersonalization of government."

COMMENTS OF CHESTER HUMMELL, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY OF THE OHIO TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES AND CLERKS ASSOCIATION.

"Larry's ability was recognized in the county commissioner's association when he served as it's president a few years ago. I know Larry Dumford to be a person who is very much interested in the problems of local government and has the experience to deal with them."

ENDORSED BY THE OHIO EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION

"After discussing the answers given by both candidates, the committee decided through a unanimous vote to endorse the candidacy of Laurence A. Dumford. It was the finding of the committee that Mr. Dumford showed a sincere interest in the needs of the educational system of the State of Ohio and the 77th. district. He has also shown a consistency of opinion in his statements on educational issues over the past years."

Will truth come out?

Leon Jaworski gives the impression of having been caught in a situation not much to his liking at the time of the Nixon pardon. The special prosecutor plainly did not care for the way the matter was handled.

This came out most clearly when one of Jaworski's interviewers on a television program asked whether he felt he should have been consulted by President Ford before the decision to grant the pardon was reached. Said he: "I think I should have been. I wan't."

The most interesting aspect of the Jaworski interview, though, was his elaboration of the view that in spite of the pardon the full truth about the former president's part in the Watergate coverup will become known. The trial now in progress, he believes, will bring out the whole story.

He seemed to think the truth would emerge mainly from the White House tape recordings introduced as evidence in the trial of Nixon's one-time associates. We hope the special prosecutor is right, and we agree with him that if all of the tapes are not used in the trial they should be made public anyway. Somehow, pardon or no pardon, the full extent of Nixon's role should be brought to light.

World food crisis

Austerity meals to dramatize the needs of the poor are nothing new. A recent variant of such a dinner is nevertheless of considerable interest because it so graphically emphasized the world food problem.

A banquet was given under the auspices of the Americans for Freedom from Hunger Foundation, but the geusts were not seated until they felt very hungry. Thereupon one-third of those attending received juicy prime ribs, baked potatoes and all the trimmings; the other two-thirds got a bowl of rice, and tea. It was effectively symbolic of the growing division between the haves and the have-nots in terms of world food supply.

This situation has been well publicized in recent months, and with good reason. The facts of the matter are insistent: world food demand is rising faster than world food production, and there is the further complicating factor of disappointing harvests in a number of countries.

Some notion of the rise in demand for food can be gained by considering that at present roughly 1.4 million people are added to the world's population every week. Specialists at the United Nations estimate that up to half a billion people go to bed hungry every night, but that is only the tip of the iceberg. A lot more suffered malnutrition in varying degree, and many face actual starvation.

In the past, North American grain production has been able to meet much of the demand. That is no longer the case. The bulk of United States grain is used to make beef, mutton, pork, chicken. For this and other reasons, among them large Societ purchases of U.S. grain, supplies are down and prices are very high. Our country is no longer a dependable source of emergency food.

Americans could do much more for the world's hungry by making a change in their eating habits. Several pounds of grain are used to produce one pound of meat. Therefore, if we were to eat less meat and rely more on grain and vegetable protein, a lot of grain would be freed for shipment to the world's poor countries. Whether Americans will do this is another matter. Just now it seems unlikely.

If we do not undertake to help, though, there will be heavy burden on our collective conscience. For this is a time of world food crisis, and Americans would do ill not to accept their full share of responsibility for meeting it.

The foreseeable emergency is great. A document prepared for the world food conference in Rome in early November says the present trend foreshadows a cereals shortage of 85 to 100 million tons a year by 1985 in the poor countries. That means more hunger; it means starvation. We must do what we can to help.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

After some early morning confusion, day should turn out to be surprisingly productive. You also stand to gain financially.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You may not have the incentive to try and accomplish the extraordinary now, but a bit of extra thought given to the future could completely change your perspective — and stimulate your ambitions anew.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

If a financial transaction is up for consideration, and you have subconscious doubts, it would be better to postpone action. There COULD be something to those hunches of yours.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You may be quite certain in your mind as to exactly how you intend to handle things, but it wouldn't hurt to get another's viewpoint. Some interesting new concepts could result.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Not a day for forcing issues or deliberately bring up controversial subjects. Roll with the punches for the time being.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Strong indications of gain through past efforts. A good period, too, for launching new enterprises. Study all suggestions carefully, however.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

No matter what activities — regular or extra-curricular — you planned for this day, you may have to mark time until others are ready, but don't chafe; use the time for reevaluating.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Some intrigue about. Don't become involved. Concentrate on your own objectives and you won't have time to get into dubious activities.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A problem now may be in handling activities smoothly, without ruffling tempers or leaving yourself open to misinterpretation. But the Sagittarian's innate diplomacy should help you cope.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Stars promise interesting developments and growth in areas that should stimulate your ambitions — and your ever active mind.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A better day for completing pending projects than for beginning new ones. Make plans for the latter, but don't launch until later in the week.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Watch finances, but don't become overly anxious about them. Just make up your mind to pursue a conservative and realistic course.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with an active mind, remarkable inner resources and strong will power, all of which are potent weapons in times of stress. You have a flair for the dramatic, which should serve you well in the theater (as actor, director or producer), in literature or as a trial lawyer. You are a born leader and will always have an enthusiastic following, so. . . .be careful where you lead! Your business acumen is excellent and, as manager of a large corporation or investment counselor, you could easily reach a position of eminence. You are also suited to public life; could reach estimable office via the law.

Globe-girdling hunger seen

ROME (AP) — Experts say the statistics on hunger are often misleading, but they agree that a belt of hunger girdles the globe strapping a half billion people with continuous misery.

These are the people United Nations specialists say are permanently hungry, and also often suffer from the ravages of vitamin deficiency: blindness, infection, intestinal diseases.

They are unable to lead a normal life or be productive members of society. And at least two out of every five are children.

In many of the hardest hit nations there is a treadmill pattern to hunger which leaves millions with no escape, experts say. Most farmers in these nations still till their land by hand. And because they are hungry they don't have enough energy for their work and produce less food.

For example, in the United States where most farming is mechanized, the average food intake is 3,300 calories a day — 26 per cent above the recommended minimum. In Bangladesh the average daily intake is 1,840 calories — 20 per cent below the minimum recommended for that country.

"It's a vicious circle, condemning people eternally to hunger," said an Indian specialist at the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

U.N. experts say vitamin-A deficiency is a major cause of blindness in India, Indonesia, Bangladesh, Vietnam, the Philippines, northeast Brazil and El Salvador. More than 100,000 children go blind each year in the Far East, according to U.N. estimates.

Specialists preparing for the World Food Conference which opens here next Tuesday have identified the countries they believe are most afflicted by hunger.

In Asia they are Afghanistan, Bangladesh, India, Indonesia and the Philippines. In Africa: Angola, Somalia, Tanzania, Upper Volta, Niger, Mali, Senegal, Chad and Mauritania. In Latin America: Bolivia, El Salvador and Haiti. In the Middle East, the two Yemens.

The goal of the conference is to narrow the nutritional gap between the rich and poor countries with aid commitments and new investments in agriculture. The conference's preparatory committee says $50 million a year over a 10-year period would be enough to wipe out nutritional diseases.

Seek escapee near Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— No progress was reported Sunday in the search for one of two federal prisoners who escaped from Metropolitan General Hospital Saturday after slugging a guard with a pipe.

The FBI said, "We have no release on that."

The escaped prisoner was identified by police as Johnathan Moore of Youngstown.

Police declined to identify the second prisoner, who was caught outside the hospital.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She shouldn't fleece sleeping sheep

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl, I remember seeing my mother tiptoe into the bedroom where my father was sleeping and she'd take some money out of his pants pocket.

Now that I'm married, I do the same thing to my husband. Sometimes he misses what I took and sometimes he doesn't.

My question: Is it wrong to take money this way? I get an allowance to run the house, but sometimes it's not enough.

PICKPOCKET

DEAR PICK: If you need more money than your husband gives you, ask him for it when he's awake. To fleece him when he's asleep should make you feel sheepish.

DEAR ABBY: I will never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average, 33-year-old man, married for six years. We have one child.

One night I went out alone and picked up a nice-looking girl in a bar. Believe me, she looked and acted as nice as any girl I had ever met. She was immaculate and ladylike. That girl gave me the gonorrhea. I, in turn, infected my wife with such a severe case that she had to have a complete hysterectomy. She is only 30 years old and now she'll never be able to have another child, and she wanted one so much.

The doctor had to tell her the truth and it nearly broke her heart because she had never looked at another man, and knew it had to be my fault.

She says she's forgiven me, but I don't think I can ever forgive myself.

Abby, please tell your readers not to take foolish chances like I did. I'm not a tramp, Abby. I went out on my wife only once, and God forgive me, it was the most foolish thing I've ever done.

HATING MYSELF

DEAR HATING: I'll print your letter as a reminder to women as well as men that vererеal disease is still one of society's most serious problems. Be careful!

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 22, and married. I quit my job as a beautician because I don't like that kind of work.

My friends, neighbors, and relatives think that because I'm not working right now, I have lots of time on my hands, so they come over and ask me to do their hair-for nothing.

I'm not pushy and I hate to hurt anyone's feelings, so I go ahead and do their hair. It's a lot easier than making up some kind of excuse. Besides, I don't want any trouble.

Now I've had it. Will you please give me a good excuse to use when relatives, neighbors and friends ask me to do their hair?

RETIRED

DEAR RETIRED: You don't need an "excuse" you have a legitimate reason. Use it. Simply say: "I quit being a beautician because I don't care for that kind of work."

And if you haven't got the courage to stand up and speak your mind because you don't want "trouble" you're already in a lot of trouble!

DEAR EDITOR:
I would like to point out a few things about Income Tax! (1) It is traditionally a Progressive Tax. . . .It starts out at 1.25 per cent, then, before you know it, 1.50 per cent. . . . 2.00 per cent and so on. If you question this, just look at other towns which have inflicted upon the working people of their community a "City Income Tax". In case after case the percentage is increased.

The proposed City Income Tax of 1.25 per cent as submitted is a "Gross Wage Tax". . . . That means if passed, the city would get their cut from your pay check on the "Gross" amount of your wages, 1.25 per cent of your gross pay. It would mean they would get their cut on your "Gross" corporate profits. . . . The State gets their cut of the "Gross" and the Federal Government gets their cut on the "Gross". You are taxed directly three times on the same dollars and now the proposed "Sur-Tax" for some and immediate increase in Social Security Tax deductions. Those who DO NOT HAVE TO PAY?. . . .The bunch who always get off; the non-wage earners. . . .Also, Stock and Bond earnings are excluded from the city's submitted new tax. Who pays? The same guy who pays all the taxes. . . .The hard worker trying to earn a living, to clothe and house his family, improve his lot by working hard.

Inflation is just as hard on government as an individual. How much does our city government need in dollars and cents. . . . It should be spelled out for us. . . Not just become a new unaccountable collection agency. The city may need some money. . . . But don't put more burden on the same people who are being "crushed" by "big spenders" in Council, State and Federal positions.

Grace Methodist Church setting for wedding

Miss Julie Joyce Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Clark Thompson of Hays Rd., became the bride of Alfred E. Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Howe of Wildwood Rd.

Rev. Allen Puffenberger officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the sanctuary of Grace United Methodist Church. A half-hour of music was presented by Mrs. Garrel B. Leasure, organist.

The candelabra and gold cathedral vases of white gladioli, fugi mums and pink carnations adorned the altar. The aisle was marked by hurricane lamps trimmed with pink bows.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a long white polyester organza gown fashioned with a scalloped neckline, long puffed sleeves and empire waist. The skirt of the gown ended in a wide ruffle. Her floor-length mantilla was made of white illusion trimmed in lace as well as the cuffs and neckline of the dress. The bride carried a cascade of white miniature carnations, fugi mums, pink sweetheart roses, ivy and baby's breath.

Miss Melanie Wilkins was maid of honor with Mrs. Judson C. Thompson and Mrs. Jeffrey L. Thompson, sisters-in-law of the bride, as bridesmaids. Their matching gowns were made of light blue polyester satin bodices, long puffed sleeves and dark blue velvet skirts. Each attendant carried a colonial bouquet of pink miniature carnations, pink fugi mums, pink variegated carnations and baby's breath.

William Vince served as best man and the ushers were Capt. D.G. Thompson, Judson C. Thompson and Jeffrey L. Thompson, brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a street-length dress made of polyester with a navy skirt and red, white and blue bodice with matching jackets. Her corsage was of blue and white fugi mums. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink double knit dress trimmed in white. Her corsage was of pink and white fugi mums.

For the reception in Fellowship Hall, the bride's table featured a tree-tiered wedding cake surrounded by pink, blue and white mums. Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. A. Gene Travis, Mrs. Jack Flax, Mrs. John D. Morris and Mrs. Barney Armstrong. Mrs. D.G. Thompson presided at the guest book.

When the couple left for a trip to the Smoky Mountains, the new Mrs. Howe was wearing a heather pink pantsuit and a corsage of white mums with pink baby's breath and matching ribbon.

The new Mrs. Howe attended Maimi Trace High School and is employed at the New Craigs. Her husband, a 1972 graduate of MTHS, is employed by Mac Tools Inc.

They are now residing at 4463 St. Rt. 38, near Bloomingburg.

Maple Grove Society makes mincemeat

Maple Grove United Methodist Women met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Roy Gilmerr in Frankfort, who opened the meeting with several organ selections. Mrs. Neil Rowland offered prayer for missionaries having birthdays in October.

The ladies have completed making and canning mincemeat for this year and are now selling it at $2.00 per quart. Anyone interested may call Mrs. John Rowland at 335-6742.

The program was presented by Mrs. Harold Craven, who gave seven guideposts with which to live: Simplicity, think constructively, be grateful, give generously, be interested in others, live for today and keep close to God.

The worship table was pretty in its simplicity with an open Bible as the word of God, lighted white candle representing the light of the world, and white praying hands for the attitude of prayer.

Mrs. Wilbur Chaplin, president, conducted the business meeting, when members answered roll call with the explanation of Halloween. The group voted to keep the pledge the same for next year as this year, and to send $10.00 to the VA Hospital, Chillicothe, for patients Christmas.

Mrs. Earl Russell reported on various meetings she and others in the Society had attended recently and announced that the Maple Grove Society received first place in the poster contest in the district.

Revival will begin Nov. 12-13 at the church with the Rev. Howard Mayne as the evangelist.

A salad course was served to Mrs. Chaplin, Mrs. John Rowland, Mrs. Locie Eckle, Mrs. Marion Dawson, Mrs. Clyde Carman, Mrs. Carey Daugherty, Mrs. Neil Rowland, Mrs. Ottie Huff, Mrs. Quinn Clarke, Mrs. Earl Russell, Mrs. Craven and the hostess, Mrs. Gilmerr.

WHS Class of 1960 to plan reunion

The Class of 1960 of Washington High School will meet in the home of Mrs. Victor (Paulette Pennington) Luneborg, 307 N. North St., at 8 p.m. Nov. 26, to plan a class reunion.

All members of the class are urged to attend.

Ladies Oriental Shrine Club holds dinner

Members of the Fayette Ladies Oriental Shrine Club entertained their husbands in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grim at a dinner Thursday evening. Individual tables were centered with a Halloween theme, and the business meeting followed.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Grim conducted the meeting when a generous donation was made to the Burns Hospital for Crippled Children in Cincinnati.

The next meeting, which will be in January in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Moore, will be featured with members bringing layette items for Memorial Hospital.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Child, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Parrett, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Denen, Mrs. Malcolm Dorn, Mrs. Tom Slager, Mrs. Zoe Garringer and the Grims.

State winner in piano competition

Miss Shelley Stephenson of 886 Hanson Drive, Cincinnati daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stephenson and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Mabel Louis of New Holland, has recently won first place in the music category of the Valley Area Council Arts Exhibit for her musical composition entitled "Tornadoes." The Valley Area includes 65 schools in the surrounding area.

"Tornadoes" will be played by her in the national competition to be held at Atlantic City, N.J. sometime this winter.

She also won first place last year at Forest View Elementary School, which was sponsored by the P.T.A. Her composition "Waltz" went on to win first place in the Valley Area Competition and she later won a blue ribbon in the Ohio State competition.

Her entry, "Tornadoes" was entered in the Ohio State P.T.A. Convention held in Cincinnati in October. The composition was on display at the Convention Center.

Shelley attends Forest View Elementary School and is in the fifth grade.

Halloween party

The first project, a Halloween party, presented by a newly-formed group called 'Harmony' was a great success. With an approximate total of 85 children attending, and parents, the evening started with apple dunking and other games, held in the Farm Bureau building.

As the evening went along, a guest 'ghost' appeared, which brought forth laughter, screams and tears.

Children, who were masked, were placed in four categories: Prettiest, ugliest, most unusual and funniest. Winners were Rodney Farmer, age 9 from Belle-Aire School, the ugliest: Jennifer Barnett, age 9 from Cherry Hill, won for being the prettiest; Rickie Kellenberger, age 6 from Rose Ave. School won for having the most unusual costume; and Diane Steward, age 13 from Washington Middle School, won for the funniest category. Each was presented a silver dollar by Miss Merilyn Long.

Patrick Crocker, age 10 from Belle-Aire School won the first game of musical chair; and Sherry Haithcock, age 10 of Eastside School, won the other game of musical chair.

Donuts and cider were served.

Notices were given out at each elementary school telling of the party and donations were given by various persons, to defray expenses.

MR. AND MRS. FLOYD THOMPSON

'Open house' is planned for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson, Hornbeam Rd., Sabina, will observe their golden wedding anniversary at an "open house" from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 10, at their home. Hosts for the occasion will be their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were married in the Highland Dunkard Church by the Rev. John Garst on Nov. 8, 1924.

They are the parents of 11 children, and have 20 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

All of their friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Arts, Crafts Club makes various items

Sixteen members were present when the Arts and Crafts Club were guests of Mrs. William Lovell for the October meeting, and were instructed in the art of decorating driftwood.

A large work table was set up in the basement, which was decorated in a Halloween motif.

Mrs. Stanley Scott was the assisting hostess and both had gathered the driftwood that the members used for their project, from various parts of the country. They also provided baskets and boxes filled with all sorts of seed pods, acorns, dried flowers and weeds and the members chose what they desired. Some very interesting and original creations were fashioned.

Mobiles of plastic bottles and jars were also created and everyone felt that this meeting was one of the most interesting meeting of the year.

It was decided that the November 26 meeting would be a continuation of this one as everyone had more ideas. The group will meet again in the home of Mrs. Lovell.

Throughout the afternoon, doughnuts, cider, coffee, cookies and candy were served.

Virginia Circle

The Virginia Circle of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met in the country home of Mrs. Marvin Stockwell. Mrs. David Groves, circle leader, opened the meeting with the group repeating the Lord's Prayer and the poem, "Friendship is a Load." Roll call was answered by naming a favorite food.

Mrs. Groves was in charge of the program and talked on an article entitled, "Are You Good Enough for Heaven?" taken from Together magazine.

The November meeting was changed to Nov. 20, to be held at the church with Mrs. Fred DeMent and Mrs. Harry Allen as hostesses.

Halloween favors were at each place setting when the 10 members assembled in the dining room for a dessert course.

VOTE
ELECTION DAY

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1974

I, Virtus J. Kruse wish to call your attention in regard to the election of a very important office to be filled on the above date, that of State Representative.

Having had the privilege of serving Fayette County in that capacity for a period of eight years, those years being from January 1, 1959 through December 31, 1966, I feel like I have accumulated enough knowledge to know who should represent us as we wish to be represented for the up coming two years.

I need not repeat the qualifications of the man of which I speak, for you have been well informed regarding same over the past weeks.

Therefore, I am asking you and urge you to vote for

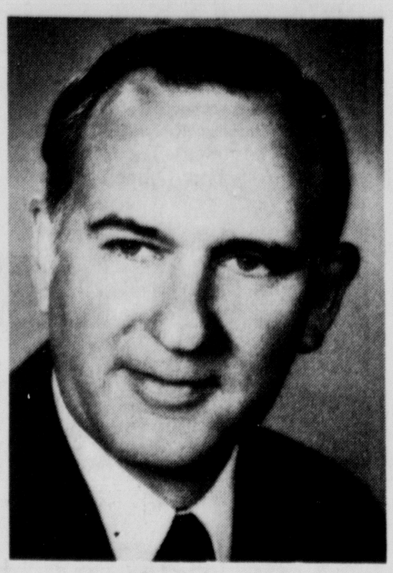
New president named by DP&L's directors

DAYTON — Robert E. Frazier, vice president of finances for the Duke Power Co., will become president of the Dayton Power and Light Co. and a member of the company's board of directors on Jan. 1, it was announced by the company today.

Robert B. Killen will continue as chairman of the Dayton Power and Light Co. board of directors and chief executive officer. Killen is presently chairman, president and chief executive officer of the Dayton Power and Light Co.



ROBERT E. FRAZIER

THE DAYTON Power and Light Co. board of directors took the action to provide greater executive staff depth and flexibility. This added strength is necessary because of the greater challenges now confronting the utility industry and because several recent vacancies on the executive staff were not filled.

The 46-year-old Frazier graduated from Central Michigan University in 1950 and joined the Consumers Power Co. in 1951 as an accountant. In 1952, he was employed by Arthur Andersen and Co., progressing to the position of audit manager. He joined the Duke Power Co., in Charlotte, N.C., in 1961 as assistant treasurer, became treasurer in 1967 and was promoted to vice president in charge of finances in 1971.

He was elected to the Duke Power Co.'s board of directors in 1972.

Frazier is active in a number of professional organizations and serves on the board of the Business Development Corp., North Carolina, and the Carolinas Hospital and Health Services, Inc.

City crews to continue leaf collection tasks

City street superintendent Bill Duncan has asked that Washington C. H. residents rake their leaves to the curb as soon as possible.

He said that city crews will be making their second tour of the city this week, and they would like to get as many of the leaves as possible before the weather turns colder. The leaves should be placed in the street as near as possible to the curb.

In addition, to collecting leaves, city crews will be cleaning sewer lines.

Culvert repair in Green and Jefferson townships as well as drainage work in Marion and Jefferson townships are on the county work schedule for this week. Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, said county crew will also replace the guardrail on Washington-Waterloo Road which was knocked down in an automobile accident Sunday morning.

Employes of the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County will be resetting the surveyors' markers on the U.S. 35 bypass. Berm work and surface patching are scheduled on Ohio 734, and trash crews will be operating throughout the county.

A special training session for state employes will be held in Columbus Thursday morning. The workshop will cover the correct methods of salting roadways, according to Gene Fitzpatric, garage superintendent.

Williamsport man to stand trial in Pickaway County

A Williamsport man has been released by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies to stand trial in Pickaway County.

Ted Riggin, 57, of Williamsport, had been in the Fayette County jail for the past six months following his arrest for passing two bad checks, in the amount of $300 each, at Steen's this spring.

He appeared in Fayette County Common Pleas Court and pleaded guilty to both charges, and Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sentenced him to six months in jail and two years probation. Since she allowed him credit for the time he had been in jail awaiting trial, the entire jail sentence had already been served. However, Riggin's troubles were not yet over.

As he was released from the Fayette County jail, officers of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department escorted him to their jail. He had been charged with passing bad checks and driving while intoxicated by that county.

Riggins was found guilty of the DWI charge and paid his fine. He has been indicted by Pickaway County grand jury on the check charge and is currently free on bond while awaiting trial.

Aristotle Onassis enters hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Aristotle Onassis has entered New York Hospital for a "routine physical checkup," the hospital says.

The hospital's administrator said Sunday that Onassis, husband of the former Jacqueline Kennedy, was listed in satisfactory condition simply because it was hospital practice to list a condition for all patients.

He said the Greek financier entered the hospital under an assumed name, "Mr. Phillips," because he did not wish "to have any unnecessary publicity."

Savings bond sales listed

September 1974 sales of Series E & H United States Savings Bonds in Ohio were $34.1 million. At the end of September, the State attained 76.8 per cent of its 1974 sales goal.

Richard E. Whiteside, Fayette County volunteer savings bonds chairman, reported September sales of savings bonds in the county were $20,211. The county achieved 60.9 per cent of its annual sales goal September 30.

Commissioners to view ditch

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners have scheduled to view Compton's Creek for a petitioned ditch improvement project Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

The prospective project is located along Old Springfield Road, south of CCC Highway-W.

Chairman J. Herbert Perrill said Monday the commissioners are occupying their time with routine business material. They have received 26 reports from county dog warden Reginald (Chink) Davis on complaints around the county.

The commissioners are also considering ways of providing funds for financing additional election costs this year in accordance with new state laws.

According to Perrill, the state has decreed that the polls remain open an extra hour, additional workers be employed and training sessions held for precinct workers, which has doubled the costs of holding an election.

Ohio Perspective

Richard Harris in uphill fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Richard H. Harris, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, is walking toward the finish line of his 1,000-mile tour of Ohio's perimeter, but he still appears to be running behind Democratic incumbent Gertrude W. Donahey.

Harris completed his 900th mile in Cleveland and is heading for Toledo on the final 100-mile leg of his walk.

He is "delighted with the response," but has been unable to shake an underdog label as a candidate who probably has the slimmest chance of victory of any Republican on the party's statewide ticket.

He is up against a well known, well-financed incumbent in a campaign that clearly lacks gut issues, and in an election year that looks promising for Democrats.

A Republican campaign official conceded, "The campaign is not shaping up around issues. She is apparently a very nice woman, but she is not as qualified as Harris. He is an administrator."

That is the major thrust of his campaign.

That same "very nice woman" had spent more than $66,600 as of Oct. 16 in her race against a political unknown. She is spending $48,000 of it on a statewide radio blitz that began last week and will continue up to the Nov. 5 election.

The 60-second spots focus on her record after the statehouse loan scandal, which was centered in the treasurer's office in 1970 under a Republican administration. Their tone, Mrs. Donahey's media coordinator said, is simply: "This is what we've done folks; we've cleaned the mess up and earned you money at the same time."

Harris has no prospects for radio or television advertising; the money just isn't there. Records in the secretary of state's office listing contributions over $25 show he has raised about $6,000. His balance on Oct, 16 was given at $169.55.

He hopes to place some newspaper ads shortly before the election to remind voters that he's the guy who hiked through their town.

The walking candidate decided to throw his hiking boots into the ring when he started hearing of complaints about delayed premium checks from the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Harris worked for the bureau for 12 years before joining a Toledo law firm last year as a non-lawyer administrative assistant.

According to Harris, about $7 million, including workmen's compensation checks, had been left in mailbags unnoticed in Mrs. Donahey's vault for more than two months, costing the state $100,000 in interest.

The charge makes Mrs. Donahey bristle. It was considerably less than $7 million, and closer to two weeks than two months, she has said. The money was in sliding filing trays that inadvertently were left undated, she said.

Mrs. Donahey, widow of onetime Lt. Gov. John W. Donahey, was the first woman elected to statewide executive office in Ohio, and she is proud of her record in office.

She emphasizes the new computer techniques she has introduced and boasts of earning more than $200 million for Ohio from interest and investments, compared to $159 million in the eight years prior to 1971.

Harris does not dispute those figures, but mentions as factors increased state revenues from the income tax and lottery and soaring interest rates.

The Harris campaign staff, which has only one full-time employe, issued a press release recently as the candidate neared the end of his "odyssey."

AUCTION

SHERIFF'S SALE

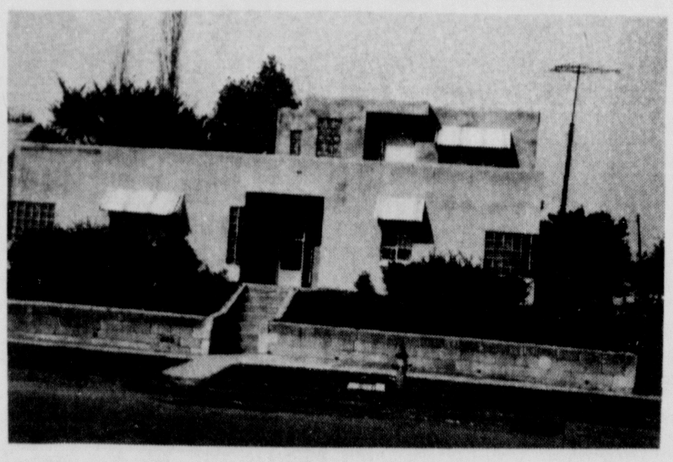
2 WASHINGTON C. H. PROPERTIES

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1974

SELLS AT COURT HOUSE - 2:00 P.M.

Tract I - Located 442 Albin Avenue, Washington C. H., Ohio, with 85' frontage and 140' depth in lot size.

Belle-Aire Subdivision has always been known for good family home locations. Lot has many trees and shrubs. The one floor plan frame residence has six rooms, which includes three bedrooms, living room, kitchen with dining area, plus another bedroom or den, 1½ baths. Gas forced air furnace, plus many other very desirable features. 2-car garage.
However, there are some rather undesirable features which are: the roof leaks, and has leaked; the inside and outside really need decorating, or in some places revamped; the wiring does need inspection and attention; the plumbing does need inspection and attention; plus other areas should be given close inspection. Maybe you are just browsing, but don't overlook this one. . . . . with this location, you could be the proudest family in town, someday. Appraised at $13,000, and must not sell for less than two thirds.



Tract II - Located 834 E. Paint Street, Washington C. H., Ohio, (on the corner at Walnut). Lot size is 46' frontage and back line is on an angle with an average of 72' in depth.

This 1½ story, 4 unit or apartment complex, has been renting for $80.00 per unit. No garage. However, now don't get too excited, as this is a masonary structure, with flat roofs and damage can be observed from the leaks over the years. Again, we suggest you inspect the wiring, plumbing, decorating, etc. After you get the deed to this investment property, it may be surprising what a few hundred dollars, and a little help from your wife, might return. Appraised at $11,500 and must not sell for less than two thirds.

POSSESSION: On passing of deeds.
INSPECTION: Call selling agents, 335-2210.
TERMS: 10 per cent down day of sale and balance of purchase price upon delivery of deed within 30 days, for each tract.
NOTE: We wish to thank you for reading this sale ad, and hope we have stimulated just a little interest and cause you to attend this sale.

Many local issues appear on ballots

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Candidates aside, Ohioans have a multiplicity of local decisions to make at the polls Tuesday— some of them close to the pocketbook.

About two dozen communities, including Cleveland—the state's largest—are asking voters to approve an increase in their city income tax.

In Cleveland and several others, the hike would be from 1 to 1½ per cent.

Others seeking one-half per cent increases include Willoughby, Newark, the village of Mogadore and Streetsboro (Portage County). New Carlisle voters are asked to approve a 1 per cent levy, while those in Napoleon have before them a one-fourth of 1 per cent tax for recreational purposes.

Two Ohio communities are going against the trend and proposing to repeal local income taxes. They are Sunbury (Delaware County) and Toronto (Jefferson County.)

Otherwise, the miscellaneous ballot issues range from proposed street improvements in Lebanon and a one-half of 1 per cent piggyback sales tax in Darke County, to expansion of the territory of the Toledo Regional Transit Authority and the proposed creation of a charter commission in Summit County.

Included in the wide range of about 200 issues are nearly 100 proposed amendments to city government charters.

At least half of those are spread out among the conglomeration of 68 municipal government units in Cuyahoga County.

Some municipalities in other areas, including Portsmouth and Elyria, want to change their presidential year primary elections from May to June to coincide with a new state primary election statute.

Candidates and personalities have drawn nearly all the preelection publicity, however. Ohio elects a governor, one U.S. senator, 23 representatives to the U.S. House, five statewide pfficers besides governor, three justices of the Ohio Supreme Court, 99 Ohio House members, 18 state senators and 10 members of the 23-member State Board of Education.

Besides the nearly 200 miscellaneous issues, a total of 206 new school district tax proposals are on local ballots, along with 31 requests for tax levy renewals, 58 bond issues for capital construction, and 41 levies for permanent capital improvements.

The city of Sidney in Shelby County is voting on the creation of a compensation commission for its officials, while East Palestine in Columbiana County and Orrville in Wayne County are considering the establishment of charter commissions.

Perrysburg would be included in the jurisdiction of the Toledo Regional Transit Authority under a proposal that also would impose a one mill property tax levy so pay for the services. The city of Toledo also will determine whether to expand production and storage facilities of its park water treatment plant.

At least two counties—Morgan and Noble—are deciding whether to combine their probate courts with their courts of common pleas.

Dayton voters—who approved a hike in their city income tax at a special election in September—will decide, among other things, whether their mayor should be nominated at a special election.

Elsewhere, Lorain voters will be asked to abolish their board of park commissioners; those in Millersburg, Holmes County, will be asked to okay an increase in water rates, and still others in overlapping jurisdictions will be asked to approve changes in school district boundaries.

There are about three dozen proposed changes in zoning ordinances in communities around the state, and about 30 annexation questions, most of them involving currently unincorporated areas.

Jeff PTC holds annual festival

JEFFERSONVILLE — The Jeffersonville PTC annual fall festival held Saturday was a huge success, according to Mrs. Larry O'Cull, chairman.

Mrs. O'Cull extended her appreciation and gratitude to all who made the event so prosperious.

The main event of the evening was the crowning of the royal court: prince, Jay King, first grade; princess, Lisa Anderson, fourth grade; king, Charles Brundage, sixth grade; and queen, Denise Gilbert, eighth grade.

The winners listed for the masquerade contest were: funniest — first, Glen Conn and second, Mary Jo Smith; prettiest — first, Julie Cole and second, Julie Hains; ugliest — first, Randy Fisher and second, Johnny Cole; most original - first, Ryan Higgins and second, Terri Cole.

Snow, rain hit much of nation

By The Associated Press

Snow continued to fall on parts of the Rockies today and flash floods were feared in three mid-nation states.

Travelers were advised of hazardous conditions in the Colorado mountains, northeast New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle. But the threat of more heavy snow in the Colorado and Kansas decreased, after leaving Goodland, Kan., under four inches of snow and Denver with three.

Flash flood watches stayed in effect in central and eastern Oklahoma and northwest Arkansas. A flash flood warning was issued in southwest Missouri.

Thunderstorms continued from central Texas through the middle Mississippi Valley and into western New England. Fort Smith, Ark., and Springfield, Mo., each had more than an inch of rain in the last six hours of Sunday.

Skies were clear over much of the southeast, the upper plains and west of the Rockies.

Temperatures ranged from 22 at Cheyenne, Wyo., to 76 at Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Ohio campaign nears finale

By The Associated Press

Candidates for statewide office, several keenly aware that their election contests are likely to be squeakers, campaigned down to the wire across Ohio today.

Election officials, meanwhile, were predicting an unusually heavy turnout for a non-presidential year and urged voters to study the candidates and issues before going to the polls Tuesday.

In addition to the statewide races, voters will be faced with decisions on candidates for Congress and the General Assembly, statewide constitutional issues and a variety of local questions.

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Rhodes issued a call Sunday for "Republicans, Democrats, independents and everybody who is entitled to vote to go to the polls and make their sentiments known.

"Never was it more important for the future of the great State of Ohio that her voters turn out and vote their convictions in this governor's race," the former chief executive told a gathering in Canton.

Rhodes summarized his stands on what he said were the issues.

"I will not raise taxes. I will see that the income tax goes to the schools. I will remove pressure from property taxes and I will resume an unremitting effort to get more and better jobs," he said.

"The question simply is one of whether you want more taxing and spending, and more inflationary mismanagement, or sound money management and a hold-the-line attitude in the Statehouse."

Incumbent Democratic Gov. John Gilligan said in Sandusky the gubernatorial campaign offers voters "a choice between the old way of doing business and a new era of honest politics."

Gilligan said Rhodes represents the "politics of broken promises. It is the politics of profits over people and it is the politics of the slush bucket."

The governor again criticized Rhodes for refusing to disclose his personal finances or "the full extent of his campaign contributions." He noted he has released his income tax records back to 1967 and his campaign committee has reported all money spent on his re-election effort.

"The people of Ohio don't have to tolerate the kind of politics Jim Rhodes represents and I don't think they will tolerate it," Gilligan added.

Gilligan's campaign schedule for today called for a swing through Dayton, Middletown, Hamilton and Cincinnati.

Democratic U. S. Senate nominee John Glenn, who appears to be the candidate with the least to worry about since polls give him an enormous lead over Republican Ralph Perk, planned to spend the day today campaigning in the Columbus area.

The former astronaut was to speak at Otterbein College in the morning, shake hands on a downtown Columbus street corner in the afternoon and attend a political rally in the evening.

The Columbus Dispatch reported Sunday its voting machine poll taken between Sept. 3 and Oct. 30 showed the gubernatorial race and four other statewide contests too close to call.

The other races are those between Republican Lt. Gov. John Brown and state Rep. Richard Celeste, GOP Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and State Sen. Tony Hall, Republican Supreme Court Justice Thomas M. Herbert and Clifford F. Brown and Democratic Supreme Court Justice Frank D. Celebrezze and Sheldon A. Taft.

In the gubernatorial race, the weighted projections showed Rhodes with 47 per cent of the vote and Gilligan with 46.3 per cent, with the remaining 6.7 per cent favoring independent Nancy Brown Lazar.

The poll showed Democratic Atty. Gen. William Brown leading Republican George C. Smith 66.8 to 33.2, Democrat Thomas E. Ferguson ahead of Republican Roger W. Tracy Jr. 57.7 to 42.3 for state auditor, Democratic State Treasurer Gertrude W. Donahey in front of Republican Richard Haris 63.3 to 36.7 and Glenn holding a lopsided 64.7 to 24.2 advantage over Perk.

Hall said Sunday that Ted Brown really wants to retire and is seeking re-election "only because his party asked him to do so."

Calling Brown the "reluctant candidate," Hall said in a statement:

"He doesn't want the job. I do, and I have worked hard to tell everyone all over Ohio why I want the job and what I feel needs to be done to make our elections system better. The people of Ohio should give Ted Brown his wish and retire him on Tuesday."

Tracy released his 1973 federal income tax return showing a gross income of $16,273 and a total of $2,740 paid in federal, state and city income taxes.

Tracy said all of the income was from his law practice and reported that neither he nor his wife have any income or interest in stocks, bonds or real estate.

He took the opportunity to criticize Ferguson for his reported ownership of stocks in a number of banks, saying a potential conflict of interest situation existed since the auditor sits on the state Board of Deposits.

Tharp renamed to commission

R.B. (Bud) Tharp has been reappointed by Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman to serve on the Soldiers Relief Commission.

Tharp, who has served on the commission for the past three years, represents veterans of World War I on the five-member panel. The appointment is for the term which expires Dec. 5, 1979.

The Soldiers Relief Commission considers requests from veterans for financial assistance. It is funded by a tax appropriation from the county commissioners. When a request is deemed justified by the commission, the amount of the financial grant is then determined and allocated.

Others serving the commission are Eddie Sexton, president, who represents Disabled American Veterans; James P. Hutton, secretary, representing the American Legion; Jack Haggerty, a World War II veteran; and Wayne Houseman, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The commission meets once each month.

Jerry Lewis cited in 3-car crash

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis was ticketed by police after he stopped to view a traffic accident and set off a three-car crash in which two persons were slightly injured.

The Nevada State Highway Patrol said Lewis told officers after the Saturday mishap he stopped after recognizing someone involved in the original crash.

New autos

reportedly been caused by curtailment in production of automobile and related industries around the country. The Associated Press stated American Motors just recently idled 850 workers at its Evart, Mich., plastics plant for four days and Uniroyal placed 1,000 workers on a four-day work week at its Chicopee, Mass. plant.

Ogan and Ward both said their main concerns were in the supplying of the new cars.

"Our 1975s are moving very well except we can't get them in," said Ogan. "We've delivered 25 models so far, which may be a little below the 1974 sales, but there has been no major decrease in sales."

Ward said his sales are being greatly reduced too because of short supplies of the models now in demand. "The big cars are not coming in. We can get the little, light cars but not the big ones people want to buy," he said.

"Apparently everyone guessed people would be buying the light, economy cars but they were wrong," he added.

Farmer said he believed the large trend toward buying the big model cars again was an outgrowth of the energy crisis of last winter. "The small car market has definitely taken a sharp downward trend in sales, he said. "This is due to a combination of things: one, safety, people feel the small cars are not as safe, and two, people were previously under the impression that gas may get as high as a dollar a gallon; they've realized this is not in the immediate future so this has helped them to decide to go for the larger cars," he added.

Ron Knisley, of Knisley Pontiac, noted his large car sales were also on the increase, although his total sales were down "probably 40-50 per cent."

"What cars I've sold have been intermediate and larger cars," he said. "The small cars just don't have enough room and people are used to more comfort."

Knisley brought up another intensifying problem on car dealer's lots. Because of the slow deliveries in the 1975 models, dealers are having to rely more heavily on their used car markets.

However, because the factories manufactured so many small cars in 1974, very few, if any, large '74 models can be found on the lots.

"We have no 1974s left on the lot and most of the farmers in this area would rather have '74s than '75s," said Knisley. "That way they can use the gas in their tanks for their farm equipment instead of going into town to get the unleaded gasoline."

On other lots in the area, Don's Auto Sales has no unused 1974 autos and only one that has been driven some. Carroll Halliday Inc. has one large Ford and about nine small 1974 models remaining for buyer inspection.

Billie Wison, of Billie Wilson Chevrolet, the ony other major local dealership, would not make a comment on the subject.

THE FUTURE outlook for automobile dealerships seems to be one of uncertainty. Several local dealers said they are running out of things to do without cars to sell.

According to Ward, "I still have all my salesmen but it is difficult to find things to do without cars to sell. I think once we get things lined up and cars coming in, we'll be able to sell them."

Knisley said the auto dealers are being forced to follow a "wait-and-see" attitude. "I have one salesman now who doesn't know where to go. He wants to be a car salesman but there's not enough sales to continue."

And as Meriweather concluded, "One thing we do know is it's bad and we don't know what the future holds in prices and our business."

Federal and state crime control grants have established nearly 2,000 locally planned and operated community projects in Ohio since 1971.

Secret Hunt memo comes to surface

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Watergate coverup trial said today they will recall Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to the witness stand because they have discovered that a memo he wrote five months after the Watergate break-in still exists.

The revelation prompted one defense attorney to move for an immediate mistrial. Another declared, "I have now a coverup within a cover-up."

Asst. Special Prosecutor James F. Neal said existence of the memo, dated Nov. 14, 1972, was revealed to him over the weekend by William O. Bittman, who was once Hunt's lawyer.

Bittman was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate coverup by the same grand jury that indicted the five defendants in the cover-up trial.

Hunt had testified that he and his wife had written a memo detailing the background of the Watergate break-in, including the involvement of White House officials, at a time when only seven lower-level men had been indicted and were to stand trial for the crime.

Hunt quoted Bittman as saying he read the memo to defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, an allegation denied by both Bittman and Parkinson.

Neal said that, until this weekend, Bittman also had denied in grand jury testimony and meetings with the prosecutors knowing that Hunt's memo ever existed.

Parkinson's lawyer, Jacob Stein, said he is now faced with challenging the credibility of Bittman and Hunt, both of whom have now admitted lying to the grand jury.

Stein asked for a separate trial for his client, describing Bittman's role as a "cover-up with a cover-up."

John J. Wilson, defense attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, asked for a mistrial. His request was rejected by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Before the decision to recall Hunt, the prosecutors had indicated they were nearly finished with the testimony of major witnesses and would soon play recorded evidence they say is among the most damning to be put before the jury.

Watergate prosecutors say they plan to play more than 20 presidential tapes, on which are heard only the voices of Richard M. Nixon and one or more of three of the defendants.

However, some legal preliminaries must be cleared up. The first of the tapes may be heard by the end of the week.

The disclosure that Hunt's memo still exists, and the resulting legal arguments, delayed Jeb Stuart Magruder's scheduled last day of cross-examination by the defense. Magruder, deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, has withstood most attempts so far by defense lawyers to chip away at his testimony.

Steel shipments to be near record

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Steelmakers continue to predict this year's shipments will be close to last year's record despite a "definite trend" toward fewer orders—unless there is a coal strike, Industry Week reports.

The magazine said today U.S. producers shipped a record 75.8 million net tons in the first eight months of this year. Last year's shipments totaled 111.4 million tons, and the prediction is that this year's will be between 111 million and 111.5 million tons.

But the tonnage appliance makers had been taking to clean up order backlogs has declined, following the downturn in residential construction, the magazine reported.

It added, however, that steel producers say the slippage will have little effect because the tonnage it frees can be diverted into other markets.

And all other markets, including automotive, remain strong, the magazine reported. It said steel mills are expected to operate at capacity "at least through the first quarter of next year."

Some of the market strength is attributed to manufacturers' concern that there will be a coal strike which would affect steel production drastically, Industry week said.

Should demand decline more generally, mills still will be as busy as they can be because they have deferred maintenance for some time and will have to take some furnaces out of production for repairs. "The result is that for a while, some steel companies would be losing capacity faster than they would be losing markets," the magazine said.

Steelmakers, noting domestic price improvement, are predicting steel imports will total 14 million net tons or maybe 14.5 million, the latter one million more than had been predicted earlier.

School burns at Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Classes were cancelled today at Newark High School following a fire that heavily damaged the school's sophomore classroom building.

A security man discovered the fire shortly after 1 a.m. in the home economics room of the building.

It took firemen about two hours to extinguish the blaze.

School officials said the fire destroyed the home economics room and an adjoining classroom. A second classroom and the biology laboratory were also reported badly damaged.

Heat, smoke and water damage were reported throughout the building, which has about a dozen classrooms. None of the other buildings at the campus-style school was damaged.

School officials said damage would amount to at least "several thousand dollars."

October precipitation a meager 1.80 inches

Precipitation recorded in Washington C. H. during October tumbled more than two inches below the amount for the same month a year ago, according to Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. observer.

The precipitation total for the 31-day period at Stookey's recording station, located at 134 E. Ohio Avenue, was 1.80 inches, which was 2.24 inches below the October total last year.

The over-the-years October average is two inches.

THE OCTOBER rainfall brought the total precipitation for the year to 38.80 inches. The over-the-years precipitation average is 33.26 inches through October.

Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 31 degrees on October 3 to a high of 58 degrees on October 30. Maximum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 44 degrees on October 20 to a high of 78 degrees on October 6.

There was precipitation on nine of October's 31 days, ranging from traces on October 5 and October 24 to .95 of an inch on October 15. Stookey measured one and a half inches of snow on October 20.

Here are the actual Washington C. H. precipitation figures for 1974 as compared with the established averages:

	Act.	Avg.
January	2.94	3.38
February	1.99	2.44
March	3.31	3.99
April	2.91	3.99
May	5.62	3.81
June	7.96	3.97
July	2.28	3.97
August	5.74	3.00
September	4.22	2.71
October	1.80	2.00
Totals	38.80	33.26

Californians eye gender changes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians will vote Tuesday on whether to revise the state Constitution to remove many of its references to gender.

Critics say that as the document is now worded it discriminates against women.

For instance, they ask why the governor should be referred to as "he" or "him"?

Under Proposition 11, put on the ballot by overwhelming vote of the legislature, the governor would be called "the governor."

Assemblymen would be "members of the Assembly." Congressmen would be "representatives in Congress." Workmen's compensation would be "workers' compensation."

Chairmen no longer would be chairmen. But to the relief of many, they would not be called chairpersons. "Presiding officer" would be the wording.

In all, 100 changes are proposed in eight of the 34 sections to make the 70,000-word constitution neuter.

The measure has not been a burning issue in the campaign.

Proponents of the amendment, including Anita Miller of the Commission on the Status of Women, argue that "it recognizes that both men and women have an equal opportunity to participate in the political process."

Opponents contend the proposed amendment is frivolous.

The California State Chamber of Commerce says the proposal is psychological and has no legal effect.

"It does not confer any additional benefit on any woman that she does not already possess," the chamber said.

"Absurd," said law student Timothy D. Weinland, who wrote the official argument against the proposition in the ballot pamphlet that goes to all registered voters.

"We are already burdened by too many meaningless peanalties coming from the government," he said.

Even if Proposition 11 is adopted, references to judges would remain as "he" or "his," despite the fact that California has a number of female judges.

Ohio crashes kill 12 over weekend

By The Associated Press

A dozen persons, four of them pedestrians, were killed in traffic accidents across Ohio over the weekend.

The dead also included two young people killed Saturday when their truck was struck by a train in Hancock County.

The 12 deaths this weekend compare with seven a week ago.

The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY

TOLEDO — Kristine Middaugh, 24, of Oregon, in a three-car collision on U. S. 280 in Wood County.

CINCINNATI — Alan Cox, 17, of Cincinnati, in a two-car accident on Colerain Avenue in Cincinnati.

WARREN — Patricia Hunkus, 18, Kinsman, when the car in which she was riding went off a Trumbull County road.

MEDINA — Lottie Schuman, 46, Medina, when she was struck by a car along a Medina County road.

SATURDAY

CLEVELAND — Benjamin Dortch, 68, Cleveland, while trying to cross a city street.

GALLIPOLIS — Steven J. Dickerson, 58, of Lesage, W.Va., in a two-car collision on Ohio 554 near Gallipolis.

YOUNGSTOWN — Shirley Taylor, 18, of Alliance, in a one-car smashup on U. S. 224 in Mahoning County.

FINDLAY — Bruce Harden, 17, of McComb, and Kathleen Richard, 16, of Deshler, when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a freight train at a crossing just west of McComb.

PORTSMOUTH — Orville Evans, 61, of Mansfield, when his car went out of control on foggy Ohio 239 in Scioto County, and crashed over an embankment.

FRIDAY NIGHT

WARREN — Ronald W. Kornblum, 7, of Newton Falls, when hit by a car on Trumbull County Road 99.

COLUMBUS — Steve Brodeck, 54, of Columbus, when struck by a car on a Columbus street.

Grand theft incident tops weekend reports

A personal injury and a breaking and entering were reported by Washington police today, while the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported two personal injuries, and vandalism and grand theft incidents.

A touchy situation was presented at 4:55 p.m. Saturday, when Josephine Robbins, 77, of 332 Eastern Ave., fell and was injured.

Her husband, Harley Robbins, who was confined to a chair, could not offer any assistance, so he called the Washington C.H. Police Department.

Police Captain Charles Foster arrived at the Robbins residence, but found all doors locked. He checked with neighbors who in turn tried to contact relatives, but no contact with anyone could be made.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was finally called and ended up removing a door in order for attendants from Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service to get Mrs. Robbins and take her to Fayette Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted. She is presently reported in fair condition.

A diamond ring valued at $150 and a winter coat valued at $42, were taken from the Patty Keech residence at 221 N. Fayette St., sometime between Friday night and early Saturday morning, police reported.

Her home had been entered through the rear door and ransacked, according to police reports.

Thomas N. Wilkins, 14, of 2833 U.S. 62-SW, was injured when his mini bike struck a log at the Fruitdale race track in Ross County and threw him off.

The mishap, which resulted in a fracture to Wilkins' right wrist, occurred at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. He was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Alice Kinsley, 6, Mount Sterling, fell off her bicycle at 1 p.m. Sunday, on Harrison Road in Mount Sterling, Fayette County Sheriff's Deputies reported. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated for lacerations and abrasions of the forearm and released.

A wooden latrine on the Archie F. Shadley property in Jeffersonville, was tipped over on its side sometime between 5:10 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Two Hereford calves valued at $250, were stolen from the Decil Recob farm in Mount Sterling, sometime between Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

Sheriff's deputies reported the theft occurred in a field on Rockwell Road and are investigating the incident.

Local voting

Morris, county prosecuting attorney James A. Kiger and Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Ted W. Brown is opposed in his bid for re-election to the Secretary of State post by Democrat state Sen. Tony P. Hall. But, Ted Brown is not the only Brown in the market seeking re-election.

Attorney General William J. Brown, a Democrat, seeks re-election and is challenged by Franklin County prosecuting attorney George C. Smith. The third Brown hoping for re-election is Lieutenant Gov. John W. Brown. He is opposed by Democrat Richard F. Celeste.

The two remaining state races stack treasurer Gertrude Donahey, a Democrat seeking re-election, against Republican Richard Harris, and Democrat Thomas Ferguson, who hopes to succeed his father, Joseph, the the state auditor race against Roger Tracy.

STATEWIDE balloting will also be held for a U.S. Senate seat with former astronaut John Glenn viewed as a heavy favorite over Cleveland mayor Ralph Perk, the Republican challenger.

Republican William H. Harsha is seeking re-election to his Sixth Congressional District seat in a race against Dr. Lloyd A. Wood, a Chillicothe Democrat.

Voters in the 88th District, which includes Perry, Madison, Marion, Wayne and Paint townships, will decide between Grant McDonald and Oakley Collins for a state senate seat. Democrat Myrl Shoemaker, of Bourneville, is unopposed for re-election to his 88th District seat in the Ohio House of Representatives.

A number of non-partisan candidates also appear on the ballot. They are:

Ward M. Miller and Jean Bilsten for a state board of education seat; Joseph E. O'Neill and C. William O'Neill for chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court; Sheldon A. Taft and Frank D. Celebrezze for court justice; Thomas M. Herbert and Clifford F. Brown for court justice and Robert L. McBride and Jack H. Berger for a seat on the Second District Court of Appeals bench.

Many Americans fear depression

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-five per cent of Americans are afraid the United States is heading toward another 1930-style depression, according to a Time magazine survey.

The magazine said Sunday that 46 per cent disagreed and 9 per cent were not sure of the 1,023 Americans of voting age queried by telephone early in October.

The poll was conducted for Time by the Yankelovitch, Skelly and White organization.

The magazine said Sunday that 33 per cent of the population feel themselves in serious economic distress compared to 28 per cent in a July survey, while 27 per cent are worried about losing their jobs against 25 per cent last July.

Wool and lamb producers vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wool and lamb producers began voting today in a mail referendum lasting until Nov. 15 to decide whether to continue check-off contributions to help advertise and promote their products.

The agriculture department said producers are voting on a new agreement which would be in force in 1974 through 1977 sales.

Trash, barn fires doused

Both a trash barrel and a barn were set on fire Saturday, the Washington C. H. Fire Department reported.

Firemen received the report of the burning barn at 1:55 p.m. Saturday, at the Elmer Haymaker residence on Ohio 38. Firemen were told the barn was set afire to destroy it and they in turn advised the residents of the burning laws and told them to notify the department in the future before burning anything of great size. They allowed the barn to burn under supervision.

A trash barrel was discovered burning at 2:28 p.m. Saturday in the city parking lot at the corner of Main and East streets. Firemen extinguished the flaming barrel with water.

Black UAW official killed in shooting

DETROIT (AP) — "It's a real bone crusher, man," says one union official of the weekend slaying of Nelson Jack Edwards, the top-ranking black officer of the United Auto Workers.

A native of Montgomery, Ala., Edwards came to Detroit in 1937 at the age of 20 and found work at the Chrysler Foundry. He later moved to Ford's Lincoln plant.

He was active in the UAW from almost the beginning and began a steady rise in the union. In 1962, he became the first black elected to the UAW's International Executive Board, and eight years later he became the first of his race to be elected a vice president of the big auto union.

Edwards, 57, died early Saturday in a burst of gunfire at a Detroit bar. Police say the shots were fired by a patron who opened fire with a pistol when he was told the bar was closing.

"He was baptized in the bitterness and hate of the South," says Edwards' administrative aide and longtime friend, Horace Sheffield. "He came north because he thought he could do something about it.

"He was a bridge between the union and the black community. As a black, his goal was ending discrimination. He saw the union as more than a machine — for Jack it was a vehicle for social change.

"I knew him when he was on the line and I knew him at the top. His hat size always stayed the same."

Police said Edwards, a confidante of the late UAW president, Walter Reuther, had been in the bar for less than 10 minutes.

They said a man they identified as Saul Burnett, 39, Detroit, was dozing at the counter of the Broadway Sportsman's Club bar when he was jostled awake and told it was time for final drinks.

Witnesses old officers that Burnett cursed, jumped to his feet and tossed a bottle towards the rear of the room. Then he drew a pistol and began firing the first of five shots.

Edwards, sitting at a table nearby, stood up, apparently to try to stop the commotion. Police said he was hit by two bullets, once in the wrist and once in the head. He died an hour later.

Burnett, a truck driver, was charged Sunday with second-degree murder. He was to be arraigned today in Detroit Recorders Court.

Pickets at grocery store want probe after arrests

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Montgomery County sheriff's office was accused Sunday of violating the constitutional rights of United Farm Workers union pickets by arresting 22 of them outside a Dayton supermarket.

"We are going to demand an investigation of the sheriff's department for the arrests and also that one of the deputies was drunk and pulled a gun," said Eliseo Medina, Ohio UFW director.

"We feel that one of our people could have been shot if we had not been passive and nonviolent," he said.

Deputies arrested about half of a group that was picketing a Fazio's market just northeast of the city limits Saturday night as part of the UFW's boycott of nonunion picked grapes and lettuce.

Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, released on $25 bond and scheduled for court appearances today.

Medina said the pickets were complying with deputies' orders to disperse when officers started arresting people at random. He said a Roman Catholic nun who was participating in the demonstration demanded three times to be arrested, but deputies refused.

Sgt. James Howard of the sheriff's office said the pickets were "clapping, chanting and raving" and refused to listen when officers ordered them to leave.

Medina said he planned to meet with church and labor leaders to arrange to "go out and picket the store again.

"We feel that we have a constitutional right to express our views and ask the consumers not to buy grapes and lettuce and neither Fazio's nor the sheriff's department can deprive us that right," he added.

Cards' string broken

The St. Louis Cardinals are no longer riding high in the National Football League after running into a Cowboy ambush.

Effren Herrera delivered the killing shot in the Dallas stronghold Sunday.

"It's nice to win one like that after losing other games on field goals," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said after his straightshooting Cowboys handed the Cardinals their first defeat of the year, 17-14 on Herrera's 20-yard field goal with four seconds left.

Before Sunday, the Cardinals had won seven straight games for a big lead in the National Conference East Division. Now, their lead is down to two games over the Washington Redskins, and more significantly, they've proved that they are not such tough birds after all.

In another of Sunday's top games, the Buffalo Bills beat the New England Patriots in a 29-28 thriller to decide the leader in the American Conference East.

Elsewhere, the division leaders in action all won. The Pittsburgh Steelers, leaders in the AFC Central, hammered the Philadelphia Eagles 27-0; the Oakland Raiders, first in the AFC Western, beat the Denver Broncos 28-17, and the Minnesota Vikings, atop the NFC Central, walloped the Chicago Bears 17-0.

In the other games, the Miami Dolphins ripped the Atlanta Falcons 42-7, the Redskins tripped the Green Bay Packers 17-6, the Cincinnati Bengals turned back the Baltimore Colts 24-14, the Houston Oilers trimmed the New York Jets 27-2, the Detroit Lions nudged the New Orleans Saints 19-14, the San Diego Chargers nipped the Cleveland Browns 36-35 and the New York Giants surprised the Kansas City Chiefs 33-27.

Los Angeles, the NFC Western leader, plays San Francisco Monday night.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach drove the Cowboys 71 yards in the final five minutes of their game with St. Louis. The Cardinals aided the drive with three costly penalties.

Staubach connected on a 15-yard pass to Golden Richards with 30 seconds to play and St. Louis was flagged for roughing the passer to put Dallas on the Cardinal five. Staubach sneaked one yard and Dallas let the clock run down before Herrera, a former collegiate star at UCLA who was signed as a free agent three games ago, calmly kicked the winning field goal to send the Texas Stadium crowd of 64,146 into delerium.

St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart completed touchdown passes of 19 yards to Jackie Smith and 10 yards to Mel Gray — the latter giving the Cardinals a 14-7 lead in the third period.

Bills 29, Patriots 28

Linebacker Dave Washington ran 72 yards with a pass interception for a touchdown, then blocked a field goal attempt with 50 seconds remaining to help Buffalo win a spine-tingling game from New England. The victory boosted the Bills into sole possession of first place in the AFC East with a 7-1 record. New England, 6-2, fell one game behind into a secondplace tie with Miami.

Washington picked off a pass by New England quarterback Jim Plunkett and sprinted down the sideline to put Buffalo in front midway through the third period.

However, the Patriots, who lost a 30-28 decision to the Bills in Buffalo two weeks ago, charged back as Mark Herron capped a 51-yard drive with a short touchdown run later in the period. John Smith kicked the conversion, putting New England in front 28-26. Led by quarterback Joe Ferguson, the Bills moved downfield to set up John Leypoldt's winning field goal from the 47-yard line with five seconds gone in the fourth period.

Steelers 27, Eagles 0

Pittsburgh's defense allowed only three drives beyond the 50-yard line and Mel Blount delivered the knockout blow with a 52-yard interception for a touchdown as the Steelers crushed Philadelphia.

Raiders 28, Broncos 17

Ken Stabler threw four touchdown passes, two each to Cliff Branch and Fred Biletnikoff, to lead Oakland past Denver. The Raiders sprinted to a 21-7 lead in the first half and held off the rallying Broncos after intermission.

Vikings 17, Bears 0

Fran Tarkenton threw two second-half touchdown passes, leading Minnesota to an easy victory over mistake-prone Chicago. The Vikings' victory snapped a two-game losing streak.

Dolphins 42, Falcons 7

Don Nottingham scored three touchdowns to lead Miami over Atlanta. Miami quarterback Bob Griese completed 10 of 15 passes for 152 yards and two touchdowns.

Redskins 17, Packers 6

Washington beat Green Bay behind Billy Kilmer's short passes and a rugged Redskins defense that closed down the Packers' running game.

Bengals 24, Colts 14

Ken Anderson passed for three touchdowns, the last one with 90 seconds remaining, to lead Cincinnati over Baltimore.

Oilers 27, Jets 22

Dan Pastorini threw a 51-yard pass to Ken Burrough to set up Willie Rodgers' winning touchdown run with 1:56 to play in Houston's victory over the New York's Jets.

Lions 19, Saints 14

Levi Johnson returned a squibbed field goal attempt 78 yards for a second-quarter touchdown and Detroit survived a New Orleans' rally to take a rain-soaked victory over the Saints.

Chargers 36, Browns 35

Ray Wersching kicked a 40-yard field goal with 55 seconds remaining as San Diego, led by the four-touchdown, 333-yard passing of Dan Fouts, beat Cleveland.

Giants 33, Chiefs 27

Craig Morton uncorked a 51-yard touchdown pass to Joe Dawkins with 4:13 left in the game to give the New York Giants a close victory over Kansas City. The Chiefs had the ball inside the Giants' one-yard line when the game ended after quarterback Len Dawson engineered a 77-yard march in eight plays.

Cinncinnati upsets Temple, 22-20

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati upset 19th-ranked Temple and Woody Hayes marked his 200th career collegiate victory in Ohio college football action over the weekend.

In the Mid-American Conference, Miami of Ohio assured itself of at least a share of the league championship, while in the Ohio Conference, Baldwin-Wallace clinched the Red Division title.

Cincinnati's upset came with only 10 seconds left in the game with Temple, which until Saturday enjoyed the nation's second longest collegiate winning streak.

Cincinnati led 19-13 going into the game's final minutes. But Temple marched 79 yards in the closing minutes and took a slim 20-19 lead with 2:24 left to play. Cincinnati then launched a desperation drive, and Dan Shepherd booted a 25-yard field goal to snatch the victory from Temple.

In Columbus, Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes claimed his 200th career collegiate victory and junior tailback Archie Griffin smashed a national rushing record as the Buckeyes demolished Illinois 49-7.

Griffin piled up 144 yards to make the game his 18th straight 100-plus regular season performance. The mark surpassed a record set in 1968-69 by Steve Owens of Oklahoma.

Miami clinched at least a share of the Mid-American Conference title with a 31-0 victory over Western Michigan. It was the 16th-ranked Redskins' fourth straight conference victory and stretched their unbeaten string to 20 games.

In Toledo, star quarterback Gene Swick passed through a thick fog for 148 yards to lead the Rockets to a 44-14 victory over Northern Illinois. Though both are MAC teams, the victory does not count in conference standings because Northern Illinois does not play enough MAC teams yet.

In other MAC games, Ohio University followed the running and passing of quarterback Rich Bevly to a 33-22 victory over Bowling Green. Kent State smashed Marshall 35-7 in a non-conference game.

Among major independents, Akron scored on a 92-yard aerial bomb in the closing minutes to defeat Indiana State 22-21, while Dayton was nipped 28-25 by Central State. In Cleveland, Willie Martinez threw for three touchdowns to lead Oberlin to a 25-18 victory over Case Western Reserve.

In the Ohio Conference, Baldwin-Wallace won a berth in the league championship game at Berea Nov. 16 and a chance for a NCAA division playoff invitation by defeating Otterbein 35-22.

Other Red Division games saw Muskingum downing Wooster 21-3 and Marietta whipping Heidelberg 30-19.

The OC Blue Division still is undecided, but Wittenberg remains on top of the standings with a devastating 51-0 victory over Ohio Wesleyan. Mount Union stayed in contention with a 30-21 triumph over Denison.

In the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference, Defiance downed Taylor, Ind., 14-3, while in the President's Conference it was John Carroll 19, Thiel, Pa. 7 and Washington & Jefferson, Pa. 10, Hiram 6.

Elsewhere, it was Ashland 35, Waynesburg, Pa. 7; Capital 40, Franklin, Ind. 6; Edinboro, Pa. 22, Kenyon 21; Georgetown, Ky. 20, Bluffton 12; Ohio Northern 17, Findlay 15, and Youngstown State 13, Eastern Illinois 3.

Anderson's passing bests Colts' blitz

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Let me tell you about the blitz," said Coach Paul Brown of Cincinnati. "Teams that live by the blitz sometimes hit big with it, and sometimes get hit big by it."

On Sunday, it was Baltimore that unleashed the red-dog, and three times Bengals' quarterback Ken Anderson collared it for touchdowns.

In the second quarter, Anderson attacked the blitz with TD strikes of 77 yards to Isaac Curtis and 27 yards to Essex Johnson.

And with Cincinnati holding a slim lead late in the game, Anderson again read the Colts' defense to perfection and flipped a 45-yard scoring strike to Curtis to ice a 24-14 victory.

"We saw some weaknesses in the Baltimore defense and exploited them," Anderson summed up. "We wanted to run more but they shut us out on the ground. We had to pass."

The No. 3 passer in the National Football League coming into the game, Anderson had a field day against the Colts.

He hit on 17 of 21 throws for 297 yards and always seemed able to find receivers and keep drives going. The four-year veteran from Augustana College also wound up as his team's leading rusher with 62 yards on six carries.

"I'd rather pass," Anderson explained. "But if the hole opens up, I'll run it."

Cincinnati, now 5-3, jumped to a 17-0 halftime lead on Anderson's two TD passes and an 18-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann. The Colts blocked two other Muhlmann field goal tries, from 23 and 40 yards.

Baltimore's offense, practically nonexistant in the first two quarters, suddenly sprang to life after halftime.

The Colts took the second half kickoff and drove 79 yards, with Lydell Mitchell scoring on a six-yard run.

The play proved costly for the Colts, however. Quarterback Bert Jones suffered a sprained right shoulder and left the game. Spokesman later said Jones may miss the team's game against Denver next Sunday.

Marty Domres, Jones' replacement at quarterback, later directed a 90-yard march capped by Mitchell's one-yard TD plunge to narrow the deficit to 17-14.

Cavaliers edge Suns; win 104-101

By The Associated Press

Easy-going Bill Fitch has faced plenty of strange events during his four years as the only coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers, a perennial National Basketball Association loser. Now, he has seen everything.

"It was a peculiar basketball game," said Fitch, known for his sense of humor, after Cleveland edged the visiting Phoenix Suns 104-101 Sunday night. "Both teams played so unusually."

"We played a hell of a game in the third and fourth quarters," said Fitch about the effort by the Cavaliers. "And then, all of a sudden, I looked up and we were losing the freethrow contest."

Cleveland had rolled to a 94-82 lead with less than six minutes left, but Phoenix — outscored 31-23 in the third period — went ahead 101-100 with 1:16 remaining by sinking eight foul shots.

In an off-handed remark about the officiating, Fitch said he wanted to check the films in order to "really see what happened."

Keith Erickson's four straight foul shots gave the Suns their temporary lead before Bobby Smith put Cleveland ahead 102-101 on a decisive 15-foot jump shot from the corner with 58 seconds to go.

The Cavaliers, who have won five games and lost four, were led by Austin Carr's 27 points. Phoenix, 3-5, was led by Erickson's 19.

In other NBA games Sunday, Golden State beat Portland 109-100, Buffalo defeated Los Angeles 124-101, Chicago topped Kansas City-Omaha 86-79 and Seattle downed Milwaukee 10189.

Elyria Catholic wins AA cross country tilt

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Elyria Catholic again is the state Class AA high school cross country champion.

The school easily won its second straight title with 60 points chalked up by Biil Stetson's fourth place divisional finish, followed by Jeff Brizes in 9th, Brad House in 10th, Bob Schmidt in 15th and Lee Korvan in 21st place.

Findlay captured the Class AAA championship with 103 points and Plymouth took Class A honors with 87.

Pony teams honored

Miami Trace football coach Fred Zechman was the featured speaker at the annual Pony League football banquet, Saturday evening. The banquet, which was sponsored by the Jaycees, was held in the cafeteria of the Washington Junior High.

Zechman, who could guide the Panthers to a share of the South Centra Ohio League crown with a victory over Unioto this week, also brought his tri-captains Tom Riley, Jeff Sagar and Jay Mossbarger to the banquet. Zechman spoke to the audience on the efforts made and the years of work involved in playing varsity football.

Each of the Panther tri-captains also addressed the audience. Riley related on what it takes to play football at the high school level, Sagar spoke on coming up through the Pony League program and Mossbarger reviewed the 8-6 Friday night victory over Washington Court House. All three players came up through the Pony League football ranks.

Approximately 100 players attended the banquet. Pizza was prepared and delivered for the event by Pizza Hut.

All trophies were paid for by the new K-Mart sporting goods center. Championship trophies were presented to Domenico's Dividends and Frisch's Big Boys, who were co-league champs with 3-0-1 records.

Daryl Stewart served as Pony League commissioner. Dale Butler and John Marcum were co-chairmen for the banquet.

Other contributions were provided by Sagar Dairy, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Meriweather Dodge.

Mount Union wins

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Led by Bob Lunn with a time of 26:35, Mount Union runners finished in the first four places to give the school a lopsided victory in the 40th Ohio Conference Cross Country Championships Saturday.

Top teams post impressive wins

The time for college football comparisons is here.

Is Ohio State better than Oklahoma? Is Michigan better than Ohio State? Is Alabama better than all of them?

Texas, ranked 12th, is "a lot better" offensively than toprated Ohio State, Coach Dave Smith of Southern Methodist said Saturday after his club bowed to the Longhorns 35-15. Five weeks earlier, SMU lost to Ohio State 28-9.

Alabama is "better than Florida," Mississippi State's Bob Tyler said after his 17thranked team absorbed a 35-0 licking at the hands of the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide. State's only other setback was a 29-13 loss to Florida, also five weeks ago. Saturday, No. 11 Florida ended fifth-ranked Auburn's unbeaten season 25-14.

"I don't see a heckuva lot of difference between their defenses; they're both fine," Colorado's Bill Mallory said in comparing ninth-ranked Nebraska and No. 2-rated Oklahoma. Nebraska throttled Colorado 35-15 Saturday while Oklahoma trampled the Buffs 49-14 two weeks ago.

Throwing comparisons — and another opponent — to the winds, Ohio State did nothing to diminish its No. 1 standing. Archie Griffin set an all-time record by rushing for more than 100 yards for the 18th consecutive regular-season game and the Buckeyes trounced Illinois 49-7, making Woody Hayes one of the few coaches to reach 200 victories.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma whipped Iowa State 28-10 — it was 28-0 until the final two minutes — and No. 3 Michigan struggled past Indiana 21-7.

Southern California, rated sixth, had to come from behind to tie California 15-all but the rest of The Associated Press Top Ten all prevailed.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame rallied for a pair of fourth-period touchdowns and shaded Navy 14-6, No. 8 Texas A&M tripped Arkansas 20-10 and 10th-ranked Penn State edged No. 15 Maryland 24-17.

Besides Florida and Texas, 16th-ranked Miami of Ohio was the only other member of the Second Ten to win. The Redskins clobbered Western Michigan 31-0.

But Rice toppled No. 13 Texas Tech 21-7, Texas-El Paso stunned No. 14 Arizona State 31-27, Washington bombed No. 18 UCLA 31-9 and Cincinnati nipped No. 19 Temple 22-20. San Diego State and Wisconsin, tied for 20th, both lost, the former to North Texas State 14-9 and the latter to Michigan State 28-21.

Ohio State's Griffin rushed for 144 yards and two touchdowns, and Cornelius Greene ran for 127 yards and one touchdown and passed for another 127 and two scores.

Oklahoma maintained its half-game lead in the Big Eight over Nebraska and Missouri — a 52-15 winner over Kansas State — as Elvis Peacock and Grant Burget ran for touchdowns and Steve Davis passed to Joe Washington and Tinker Owens for two more. The Sooners, though, were held to 198 rushing yards, by far their lowest of the year.

Michigan's Gordon Bell came off the bench and rushed for 159 yards and two second-perid touchdowns as the Wolverines remained tied with Ohio State atop the Big Ten.

Five Alabama players — Robert Fraley, Calvin Culliver, Richard Todd, Randy Billingsley and Ray Sewell — scored on short runs against Mississippi State as the Crimson Tide opened a one-game bulge over Florida and Georgia in the Southeastern Conference race.

Florida chewed up Auburn's vaunted defense for 324 yards on the ground, with Jimmy DuBose smashing inside for 143 and Tony Green running wide for 78.

Southern Cal trailed California 12-0 before starting its comeback. The Trojans caught up in the third period when Pat Haden sneaked across from a yard out and then flipped a two-point conversion pass to Jim Obradovich.

Notre Dame trailed Navy 6-0 until the final period, when Tom Clements tossed a five-yard pass to Pete Demmerle and Randy Harrison raced 40 yards with an intercepion.

Texas A&M's entire backfield was on the sidelines with injuries at one point so sub fullback Jerry Honore took over and scored twice against Arkansas, once on a 60-yard gallop.

Nebraska's Dave Humm threw two scoring passes against Colorado while freshman Monte Anthony rushed for 157 yards and John O'Leary tallied twice.

Jeff Hite, benched earlier in the season, raced 79 yards with an intercepted pass against Maryland and scored again on a 21-yard dash after he stole a lateral on a kickoff return.

Texas' Marty Akins led the Longhorns past SMU by firing his first touchdown pass of the season and scoring once himself. The perennial champs remained one game behind Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference scramble.

Tommy Kramer scored one touchdown and passed for another as Rice upset Texas Tech for its first triumph.

Texas-El Paso, which failed to win a game last year, notched victory No. 3 of 1974 by shocking heavily favored Arizona State as Bobby McKinley threw a first-period touchdown pass and scored twice himself in the final quarter. The defeat dropped the defending champion Sun Devils into a secondplace tie with idle Arizona in the Western Athletic Conference, one-half game behind 3-01 Brigham Young.

Sherman Smith scored twice, helping Miami of Ohio clinch at least a tie for its second straight Mid-American Conference title. Robin Earl, a 250-pound tight end until a couple of weeks ago, rumbled for 152 yards and one touchdown as Washington continued its jinx over UCLA in Seattle, where the Bruins haven't won since 1958.

Dan Shepherd's 25-yard field with 10 seconds left — his third of the game — lifted Cincinnati past previously unbeaten Temple. North Texas State scored twice in the first period on Ken Washington's 25-yard pass to Vance Jackson and David Deaton's 26-yard interception and held on to beat San Diego State.

FILLS THE BILL
This older well maintained home will fill your needs as it offers: a large living room with an open fireplace, a formal dining room, a large kitchen with loads of wall cabinets and working space plus a pantry and storage room for your deep freeze, a nice size bedroom, a den or TV room or an additional bedroom and a full bath all downstairs.
Upstairs off the hallway are two nice size bedrooms with loads of closet space, and a full bath.
The basement affords 220 electric hookup for your washer and dryer, a new hot water heater, a gas hot air furnace, plus much additional work or storage space.
This all carpeted home with its larger rooms and decor will give you the restful feeling of living in a home not just a house.
Let us show you this home being offered at $24,900 today — tomorrow might be too late, since this type home is not offered on the selling market everyday.

HAPPY BLUE BELLES

The Happy Blue Belles met in Belle-Aire School with nine members present. After saying the Pledge of Allegiance, the group enjoyed refreshments served by Angela Everhart. During the social hour we recited the Bluebird Wish.

Roll call was given by Loretta Self and dues were collected by Jody Shepler. Each member told how she was going to dress for Halloween as she paid her dues.

Mrs. Barbara Wyatt, assistant leader, showed us how to make an owl refrigerator decoration. Mrs. Janice Boswell, leader, assisted and we completed these during the meeting.

Everyone then enjoyed a play period outdoors until time to go home.

The next meeting will be Nov. 11 and Debbie Forsha will bring refreshments. Mrs. Boswell reminded us of the candy sale in November.

Those present were Julie Boswell, Melissa Climer, Angela Everhart, Maria Frogale, Stephanie Hatmacher, Jody Shepler, Loretta Self, Jackie Sue Smith, Amy Wyatt, Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Wyatt, Amy Boswell and Wesley Wyatt.

Judges ponder new Boyle trial

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Three Delaware County judges will hear arguments Dec. 19 from the lawyer representing convicted murderer W.A. "Tony" Boyle, the former president of the United Mine Workers Union who is seeking a new trial in the 1969 Yablonski slayings.

A jury convicted the 72-year-old Boyle last April of arranging the hire of gunmen to kill UMW rival Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski.

Yablonski, his wife, Margaret, and daughter, Charlotte, were found dead in their beds in Clarksville, Washington County, Pa.

Boyle presently is in the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., where he is serving a three-year term for unlawfully spending union funds during the 1972 presidential election.

George Foreman wants rematch

PARIS (AP) — Boxer George Foreman, who lost his world heavyweight crown last week to Muhammad Ali, says he is ready to fight Ali again "for nothing."

"I think that in Kinshasa the best athlete was beaten," said Foreman, speaking on a television show about the title bout in Zaire.

"I am prepared to meet Ali again and for nothing," he said. "I'll have no rest until I meet him again. Then I'll retire."

Foreman and Ali each earned $5 million for the fight. Ali has said he has no immediate future plans, but he disclosed after the fight he was offered $10 million to box Foreman or ex-champion Joe Frazier.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♠	Dble
2 ♦	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	2 ♠

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

I seldom report phony bids in this column, one reason being that readers might get false notions about how to play the game and so cause their partners and pocketbooks endless suffering.

But some players get a kick out of practicing such shenanigans and, in fact, the vice — if I may call it that — is not unknown in the very highest circles.

This hand occurred in a match between Italy and Great Britain. The irrepressible Boris Schapiro, with an eye on the vulnerability, overcalled the Italian South's diamond bid with a spade on three to the ten.

It is hard to criticize this whimsy, since it proved highly successful when the Italian pair — Chiaradia and Forquet — stopped at two spades, making four. Regardless of how, why or where the Italians went wrong, there is not the shadow of a doubt that the psychic was effective.

There must have been something irresistible about bidding spades with the 10-7-3, for lo and behold, when Avarelli and Belladonna held the East-West cards for Italy at the other table, the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
3 ♦	Dble	3 ♠	Dble
Pass	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
5 ♦	Dble

Here, however, the British North-South pair smoked out the psychic and got to four spades despite Belladonna's three spade bid. They would have made four spades for 620 points, but Avarelli decided to sacrifice at five diamonds, which was doubled.

Five diamonds went down four — 700 points — which was only a slight loss to par, but, in conjunction with what had occurred at the previous table, the Italian team lost 530 points on the deal.

So Britain clearly won the battle of the psychics.

The Vitamin E Kick

My husband is on a vitamin E kick. Not only does he take large amounts of it every day, but he's become the neighborhood's leading advocate of vitamin E. He constantly tries to induce people to join him on his vitamin E binges.

Mrs. H.G., Pa.

Dear Mrs. G.:

Your husband is not alone in his enthusiasm. The vitamin E craze is now in its upswing.

Adherents make bizarre claims for vitamin E—claims that are not substantiated by scientific studies on nutrition.

These are some of the claims: Vitamin E is good for arthritis. Vitamin E will control psoriasis, eczema and other skin problems. Vitamin E will prevent male baldness. Vitamin E increases sexual virility. Vitamin E prevents wrinkling of the skin.

There was a time, in fact, when vitamin E was thought to be effective in the treatment of anginal pains due to coronary artery heart disease. A definitive study later showed that "there does not appear to be any clear evidence that vitamin E is effective in the treatment of any form of heart disease." These studies were reported at Duke University School of Medicine and the Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City.

Vitamin E is necessary as a part of a well-balanced diet. It is found in large quantities in vegetable oils, whole grain foods and leafy vegetables.

For people who are known to have a deficient diet, supplementary vitamins are important, including vitamin E.

The Federal Drug Administration states that "Vitamin E has not been proven scientifically to have any of the miraculous effects being claimed for it."

Fortunately, excessive quantities of vitamin E do not seem to be harmful. On this basis, I suppose that the only valid criticism of your husband's vitamin E fling is in terms of wasted money.

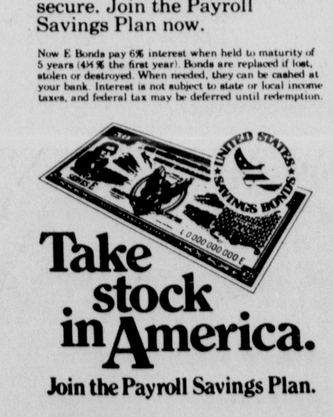
THE BETTER HALF — By Barnes

"I decided to marry him the day I beat him in a high school debate."

A little simple arithmetic about a Math major.



The cost of a higher education is getting higher. In fact, you could end up spending close to $20,000 to put your child through college.

So maybe you should consider U.S. Savings Bonds. They're one of the most dependable ways to build funds for an education.

All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Then an amount you specify is set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

Say your child is 3 years old now. If you buy a $75 Bond a month through Payroll Savings, by the time he's 18, you'll have $16,048 tucked away. A solid sum to get him started. See? A little simple arithmetic can add up to a lot.

Make the chances of your child's college education more secure. Join the Payroll Savings Plan now.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Officers probe 16 weekend traffic accidents

Two autos were demolished in an accident which resulted in the injury of three persons, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported; along with a second accident-injury, in which a young Fayette County woman was fortunate to escape with her life. Washington C.H. police reported a rash of accidents, in which two people were injured.

SHERIFF

SUNDAY, 2:40 p.m. — A car driven by Isaac S. Stewart, 70, of 1342 Grace St., was demolished when it turned left from Ohio 41-S onto Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, in front of an oncoming auto driven by Gareth C. Evans, 17, of 509 Hickory Lane.

Evans and his passenger Marvin J. Collins, 16, of Ohio 41, were taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital. Evans was treated for abrasions and lacerations of the chest and Collins was treated for pain in his right arm. Both were released.

Stewart's passenger, his wife, Catherine E. Stewart, 71, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated for a fractured ankle and abrasions of the face and right elbow. She is presently reported in satisfactory condition.

Stewart was cited by sheriff's deputies for failure to yield. Evans auto was also demolished in the mishap and a fence owned by Albert C. Caplinger, Ohio 41-S was also damaged.

6 a.m. — A car driven by Carla A. Pickell, 22, of 4504 Ohio 207, traveled off Washington-Waterloo Road, one-tenth mile southwest of Hess Road, struck a guardrail and came to rest between a culvert and a large tree.

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Don Cox reported Miss Pickell apparently fell asleep at the wheel. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and treated for facial lacerations and then released. A fence owned by Charles E. Bell, 1159 Campbell St., was also damaged in the accident.

5:43 a.m. — A car driven by Norman A. Garringer, 20, Rt. 2, traveled off Greenfield-Sabina Road, a half mile west of New Martinsburg Road intersection, and struck a fence owned by Joe Milure, Washington-New Martinsburg Rd.

Damage to the Garringer auto was estimated as moderate.

5:21 a.m. — A cow owned by Howard Spencer, U.S. 35-S, was struck and killed by a hit-skip motorist on U.S. 35, two-tenths of a mile west of Hoppes Road. The animal was valued at $300.

SATURDAY, — An accident at the intersection of Main Street and Biddle Avenue in Bloomingburg, involved cars driven by Roger E. Smith, 20, Bloomingburg, and Victor Hart, 70, Bloomingburg. Damage was minor.

FRIDAY, 10:40 p.m. — An auto driven by Harold D. Shonkwiler, 17, Rt. 5, backed into a parked car owned by John M. Smith, 948 Stuckey Rd., in the Miami Trace High School parking lot on Ohio 41-N. Damage was slight.

POLICE

SUNDAY, 4:11 p.m. — An auto left running and unattended by James Steele of 442 East St., rolled into a parked car owned by Henry Poynter, Centerville, in Frisch's parking lot, Clinton Avenue. Damage to the Poynter car was moderate and damage to the Steele auto was slight.

3:40 p.m. — A rear-end collision on Columbus Avenue, near the Delaware Street intersection, involved cars driven by Leota M. Gillfillan, 50, Greenfield, and Brian K. Balzer, 22, of 612 Oakland Ave. Balzer's passenger George Balzer, 57, of 612 Oakland Ave., claimed injury from the mishap and was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

2 p.m. — Another rear-end collision involving a car driven by John W. Moore, 74, of 1020 Golfview Dr. and a truck driven by Jay E. Mossbarger, 18, Bloomingburg, occurred in front of Fayette Memorial Hospital on Columbus Avenue.

Mossbarger's passenger Jan M. Mossbarger, 11, Bloomingburg, claimed injury from the mishap and was treated for abrasions of the right knee at Fayette Memorial Hospital and released.

Mossbarger was charged by police for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

2:30 a.m. — A car belonging to Freddie LeBeau, White Oak Road, was struck in the left rear fender by a hit-skip driver, while it was parked in Hidy Food's parking lot on Columbus Avenue. Damage was moderate.

SATURDAY, 8:14 p.m. — A car driven by Kenneth M. Yarger, 23, of 617 W. Circle Ave., struck a parked car belonging to Billie J. Cummings, Rt. 5, while Yarger was backing from his drive. Damage was minor.

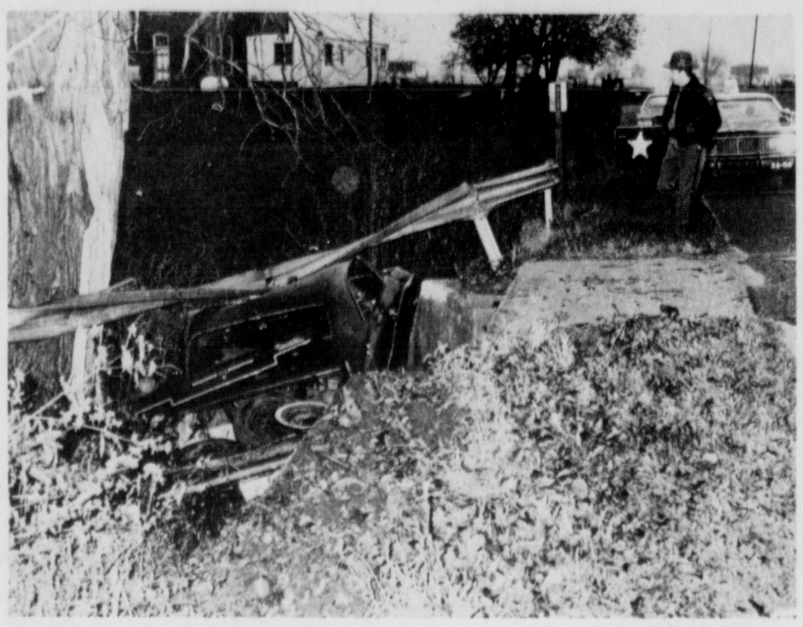
4:58 p.m. — A rear-end collision at the intersection of W. Court and Main streets, involved cars driven by Thomas R. Vanbibber, 44, of Ohio 41-S and Steven A. Stritenberger, 17, of 623 Clinton Ave. Stritenberger was cited by police for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

2:48 p.m. — An accident involving cars driven by Patrick C. Connell, 20, of 227 Kennedy Ave., and Jeanne F. Galloway, 44, of 510 Damon Dr., occurred in the 800 block of S. North Street. Damage was moderate.

1:38 p.m. — A car driven by Kathleen Pollard, 40, of Washington C.H., struck a car belonging to William E. Underwood, 61, of 318 Sixth St., while attempting to park in a parking place on Court Street, near the Main Street intersection. Police estimated moderate damage to the Underwood auto and slight damage to the Pollard car.

11:15 a.m. — A rear-end collision on Columbus Avenue, in front of the Washington Square Plaza, involved cars driven by Gregg Hughes, 17, Leesburg and Patricia A. Ward, 28, Circleville. Damage was moderate to both autos and Hughes was cited by police for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

9:40 a.m. — A car belonging to Ronald J. Dillion, 221 Walnut St., was struck in the left rear fender by a hit-skip driver, while it was parked on N. Fayette Street, near the Court Street intersection. Damage was slight.



ACCIDENT-INJURY — This car driven by Carla Pickell, 22, Ohio 207, traveled off Washington-Waterloo Road, through a guardrail and down into a culvert at 6 a.m. Sunday. The young woman was able to crawl out of the wreckage and go for help at the farmhouse located in the background (left). Pictured also is investigating Sheriff's Deputy Don Cox, who reported the girl apparently fell asleep at the wheel, when the mishap occurred. She was treated and released for facial laceration at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Kennedy raps accident articles

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says some of the articles published in The Boston Globe last week about his 1969 Chappaquiddick Island auto accident contained charges which are "ugly, untrue and grossly unfair."

The Globe published a series of five articles, which included a tape-recorded interview with the Massachusetts Democrat, concerning the accident that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

In a letter published Sunday in the Globe, Kennedy also criticized the allegation that he had intended to take Miss Kopechne for a walk on the beach, not to her motel as he had contended.

"It is regrettable in the atmosphere of doubt and suspicion which enshrouds us as a people that the truth cannot compete with the unnamed sources, the groundless suggestions and the speculation which is nurtured by articles of sensationalism," he wrote.

Globe editor Thomas Winship said the newspaper did not rely on just a single source in a twomonth investigation of the Chappaquiddick incident. He said the team of writers which put the story together "carefully considered the integrity and knowledgeability of its sources before publishing any information provided by them."

In a television interview broadcast during the weekend, Kennedy attributed the renewed interest in the 1969 accident to the post-Watergate mentality that "festers now in our society."

The comments, in an interview with WBZ-TV newsman Steve Nevas, were taped Thursday and broadcast Saturday night.

Flood insurance made available

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Flood Insurers Association has approved two Ohio cities and one village for lowcost flood insurance.

The NFIA approved the insurance for the cities of Bellevue and Fairchild and the village of Manchester.

Damage from flooding is not covered in standard property insurance policies.

The flood insurance is subsidized by the federal government in communities which have taken precautions to minimize possible flood damage.

Some GOP contenders closing gap

Democratic landslide eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic landslide appeared imminent today on the eve of the first election to feel the full brunt of Watergate and a staggering economy.

The final pre-election survey by The Associated Press shows Democrats have a shot at two-thirds control of both houses of Congress and a record number of governorships.

Confident Democratic leaders predicted Sunday their party would carry a virtual sweep of Tuesday's elections, while Republicans talked about holding down their losses.

The balloting for 35 governorships, 34 Senate seats and all 435 House posts will be the first since Richard M. Nixon resigned as president and was pardoned by his chosen successor, Gerald R. Ford.

The election also comes amid mounting inflation and unemployment and national debate over what to do about both. Ford has campaigned for GOP candidates saying he needs a Congress he can work with to cure the economy, while Democrats have called for the congressional strength to put through their own solutions.

Ironically, the anticipated Democratic romp comes just two years after Nixon had won for the Republicans one of history's two biggest presidential landslides. But it was reminiscent of 1966 when Republicans turned the same trick after their presidential disaster in the Barry Goldwater campaign of 1964.

Although Republicans contended that their embattled candidates were closing gaps across the country, the latest available information showed Democrats still ahead in most of the key races.

The AP survey, based on reports from bureaus in all 50 states, late polls and interviews with political strategists for the major parties and candidates gives this picture:

Senate — The Democrats likely to gain from 5 to 7 of the 14 GOP seats at stake and with a good chance to hold all 20 of their own. This could mean 63 to 65 Democrats in the new Senate, compared to the 58-42 margin they already hold.

House — The Democratic gain could be as high as 50 seats and probably no less than 30 if present trends hold. They now hold a 248-187 edge and could approach the massive 295-140 majority they achieved in Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide.

Governors — The Democrats hold the record for most governorships in the hands of one party — 39 in 1939. Already holding 32 of the 50 statehouses, they now appear likely to gain from 7 to as many as 10.

The party out of the White House normally gains in offyear elections — an average 4 senators and 26 House members in the last five.

"Our mission is to keep it under the average losses," Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" show Sunday.

"Frankly, I would like to keep it in the range of 20 to 25" House seats, Michel said, the number of GOP congressmen he concedes are in deep trouble.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee in the Senate, said losing 4 or 5 Senate seats would be normal in the offyear following a presidential landslide like Nixon's but predicted "we'll do better than that."

But that was as close as any Republican leaders — including President Ford — would come to putting numbers on their expected fate Tuesday. When asked for his prediction, Ford brushed aside the question with "not on Sunday."

On another television panel show, GOP party chairman Mary Louise Smith also ducked the "numbers game" but said she saw a "turnaround" in the Watergate backlash that has been hampering Republican campaigns.

However, Democratic chairman Robert Strauss, appearing with Mrs. Smith on "Meet the Press," predicted a gain of 4 to 6 Senate seats, 27 to 32 in the House and statehouse victories to place 85 to 90 per cent of the population under Democratic governors.

The AP survey shows at least four Republican senators in the greatest danger of defeat — in Colorado, Kentucky, Oklahoma and North Dakota.

A fifth, Robert Dole of Kansas, has overcome a deficit in the polls against Democrat William Roy and the race is now rated a toss-up.

A sixth Senate race apparently has turned around but still is too close to call with Democrat Wayne Ownes ahead of the GOP's Jake Garn in Utah by a narrow margin in three recent polls. They are seeking the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett.

FALL SUNRISE AND WINTER SKIES — This photograph was taken early Sunday morning, while a light rain was falling. Although Sunday's overcast skies sealed in the warm air below, a cold front started moving in during evening. The weatherman believes it will be wet through Wednesday, with conditions becoming more fair Thursday and Friday. As for donning your winter coat, temperatures should be in the 40's and 50's throughout the week.

Election tempo hits high point in county

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

The tempo of the 1974 general election campaign has reached a fever pitch in Fayette County and will culminate Tuesday night when the votes are counted in the Fayette County Board of Elections office.

The hotly-contested gubernatorial election and keen interest in a race for a seat in the Ohio House of Representatives from the 77th District between Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford, of Washington C.H., and Bob McEwen, of Hillsboro, plus several local tax issues are expected to bring out a heavy turnout of Fayette County voters to cast ballots at the polls, depending upon weather conditions.

THE POLLING places in the 44 county precincts were rather lifeless as a mere 3,273 voters turned out for the May primary election. A total of 5,768 voters cast ballots in the last general election and this year's turnout is expected to top that figure.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has predicted about 3,650,000 voters will go to the polls. That figure represents about 73 per cent of the 4,975,900 persons estimated to be eligible to vote and would be a record turnout for a gubernatorial election in Ohio.

Ohio voters will have an extra hour to get to the polls on election day. The legislature recently added the extra hour so the polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Ohio voters will choose Tuesday between Republican James A. Rhodes, 65, who ran state government eight years from 1963 to 1971, and his successor John J. Gilligan, 53, the Democrat incumbent.

Despite the advantages of incumbency for Gilligan and the disadvantages of most Republicans in the first election following the full Watergate scandal disclosures, most election observers agree the governor's race is a down-to-the-wire situation. Both candidates, of course, predict victories.

Of major interest to most Fayette Countians will be the race between Dumford, a Democrat and former three-term county commissioner, and McEwen, a 24-year-old Republican from Hillsboro.

Only voters in Washington C.H., and Concord, Green, Jasper, Jefferson and Union townships will cast ballots in the race between Dumford and McEwen. The 77th District also includes all of Madison County, six townships plus Wilmington in Clinton County, seven townships plus Greenfield, Leesburg and Hillsboro in Highland County and seven townships plus Jamestown in Greene County.

COMMANDING additional interest will be five local tax issues.

Washington C.H. City Council has offered voters a reduction of 4.3-mills in property taxes in exchange for approval of a 1.25 per cent income tax. The Miami Trace School District is seeking approval of a $2.25 million bond issue to construct a new junior high school and passage of a three-mill additional operating levy. An issue facing all voters in Fayette County will be an increase of .65-mill for operation of the mental retardation program.

Voters in Perry Township will decide a liquor question and residents of Jefferson Township will be asked to renew a one-mill fire protection tax levy.

All voters in the state will be asked to repeal a section of the state constitution and add two new articles. The proposed amendments would permit the state to help finance business expansions and installation of pollution-control facilities; permit real estate tax reductions for permanently disabled property owners, and eliminate from the constitution a provision for the appointment of a public works superintendent.

The only contested race in the county is for a seat on the Fayette County Board of Commissioners. Incumbent Robert J. Mace, a Democrat is seeking an unprecedented fourth term. He is challenged by Republican J.W. (Boots) Sears.

Unopposed candidates seeking reelection are county auditor Mary

Funeral rites Wednesday

Hunting mishap wound fatal to county man

A Fayette County man died in Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus, Sunday morning some 11 hours after suffering a self-inflicted gunshot wound sustained while hunting.

Edward Wayne Walker, 26, of 3031 Old Springfield Rd., died at 7 a.m. Sunday of a gunshot wound in the head.

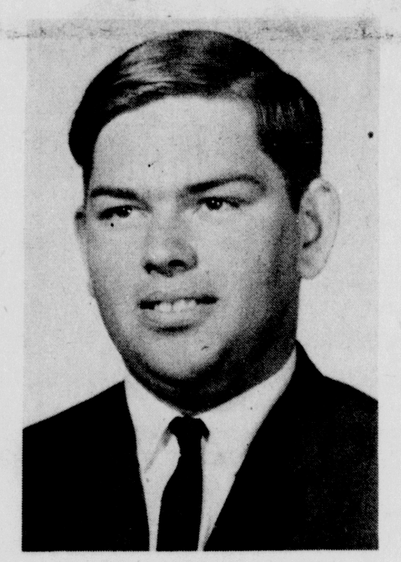
According to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, Walker was hunting with two companions, Marty and John Long, of Jeffersonville, Saturday night. The trio was on the M.C. Creamer farm, Milledgeville-Jeffersonville Road, just north of U.S. 35. At approximately 8 p.m., the Longs heard a shot and rushed over to where Walker had been standing.

He had suffered a wound to the head which apparently came from his own .22 caliber rifle.

WALKER WAS taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and was then transported to Mount Carmel Hospital. He died there 10 hours after his arrival. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the mishap.

A 1967 graduate of Miami Trace High School, the Good Hope native had lived all his life in Fayette County. He was employed as a mechanic with the Wilson Freight Co., South Charleston, and was a ministerial servant with the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witness.

He is survived by his wife, the former Joyce Williams; his parents, Lester and Ada Stout Walker, 828 Broadway; and three sisters, Mrs. James (Daisy) Wyatt, 325 Fifth St., Mrs. Dan (Shirley) Hopkins, Dayton, and Mrs. Robert (Carolyn) Hunter, Columbus.



EDWARD W. WALKER

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., with Leslie Rogers officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Five more charged in MTHS vandalism

Five more youths have been arrested and charged in connection with a vandalism incident at Miami Trace High School early Saturday.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson said a total of nine persons have been arrested in connection with the incident.

Arrested and charged over the weekend by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies were two 16-year-old Washington C.H. boys for destruction of property, a 17-year-old Washington C.H. boy, a 17-year-old Lakeland, Fla. boy and a 15-year-old Washington C.H. boy for vandalism.

Robert F. Angus Jr., 18, of 713 Oak Drive, and Phillip K. Moore, 18, of 323 N. Hinde St., and two 17-year-old Washington C.H. youths were arrested early Saturday by sheriff's deputies on charges of vandalism.

Angus and Moore were scheculed to appear in Washington C.H. Municipal Court on the vandalism charges Monday. The seven other youths will appear in juvenile court.

The high school building and school parking lot were splashed with paint and nine windows in the building had been broken with paint cans. Preliminary damage estimates totaled $500, according to Sheriff Thompson.

House burglary ring cracked by deputies

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department believes it has cracked one of the biggest house burglary rings it has ever been confronted with, which may have been engineered by one man named James C. Jones, 50, of Columbus.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported that through the investigative efforts of Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks in conjunction with the Pickaway Sheriff's Department, Jones is now lodged in the Pickaway County jail on charges of aggravated burglary.

A car registered under Jones' name had been noticed in the Lakewood Hills area on Oct. 3, when a house belonging to Kenneth Blade was broken into and an antique clock, a color television and some jewelry was stolen.

A second car also registered under Jones was seen parked nearby the location where another burglary occurred in Pickaway County.

A check on Jones was run and he was found to be wanted in Carroll County for probation violation for house burglaries there in the past.

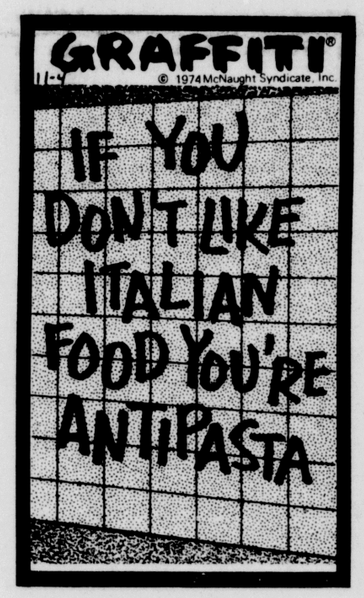
Jones was arrested in Columbus on the probation violation charge Friday and when questioned by Sgt. Crooks, admitted the burglary of Blade's home.

The antique clock owned by Blade was recovered in Jones' home and a search warrant was obtained for a Whitehall residence owned by Stephen and Marie Eichhorn, ages 33 and 32 respectively, who were believed to have been connected with the burglaries.

Sgt. Crooks and Sheriff's Deputy Donald Cox, along with two Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies and two Franklin County detectives conducted the search, during which, Blade's color television and the missing jewelry was discovered. The house also yielded other items believed to have been taken during other house burglaries in the central Ohio area.

Eichhorn and his wife have been charged in Franklin County with receiving stolen property.

Additional charges against Jones are expected to be filed by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, according to Sheriff Thompson in the future.



Nixon off critical list; buoyed up by Ford visit

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is off the critical list after complications from phlebitis surgery, but medical officials say there is no word on when he may leave the hospital.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said Sunday that his patient is now receiving "sub-intensive care," which Lungren described as a step down from critical care.

Nixon had been in critical condition for six days after experiencing shock following an operation to partially close a vein in his left groin area. The surgery was designed to keep blood clots from movin to his lungs or heart.

"It's his best morning since hospitalization began," Lungren said in a statement issued at Memorial Hospital Medical Center on Sunday.

It was also reported that the 61-year-old former chief executive began a soft food diet, including custard and vegetables, and would sit up in bed for the first time since re-entering the hospital for treatment of his phlebitis condition Oct. 23.

Nixon had been fed intravenously during the critical period, until Saturday when he was first allowed to take consomme and gelatin.

Officials said Nixon was also being permitted to see his wife, Pat, and daughters, Tricia Nixon Cox and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, but only for five minutes each hour. The family has been staying near the hospital.

A hospital source said Nixon was not reading books, watching television or carrying on much conversation.

Doctors said the blood clot in Nixon's left leg which prompted the surgery last Tuesday had not enlarged. They also said that postoperative internal bleeding had been stopped.

During a briefing of newsmen, Connie Hamilton, director of critical care nursing at the hospital, described Nixon as "physically quite ill."

She said two nurses had been in Nixon's room at all times during the critical period, but now there would be only one nurse in the room. A backup nurse will remain on the same floor, she said.

Lungren said Nixon was buoyed by his visit from President Ford Friday and was receiving positive pressure breathing treatments administered by a respiratory therapist.

New auto sales here better than implied, dealers say

By SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

With the skyrocketing of prices and cutbacks in production nationally, newspapers, radios and television have concentrated recently on one of the hardest hit industries this fall — automobiles.

However, according to several local car dealers, business is much better than the national news media imply.

WITH THE new 1975 model prices increasing anywhere from $300 to $800 a car depending on the vehicle, and the addition of a catalytic converter which requires non-leaded gasoline, various analysts have forecast even lower auto sales in 1975.

But Bud Meriweather, of Meriweather Motor Co., claims his business has been almost "a virtual parallel of last October's sales," with "maybe a 10 per cent reduction" from record July and August sales.

While sales are generally running far behind last year's, local dealers contacted unanimously believe it is not due to the addition of the antipollution device but totally inflation.

"People are just not interested in looking at long-term debts because of national and world-wide problems," said Ron Farmer, of Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket, who stated that 1975 prices have increased "probably 12 per cent" over 1974 prices.

According to the local dealers, the reasons for the price increase are as varied as the number of car models on the market today. Some believe the government has caused the prices to rise through the requirements of additional safety features, others feel general inflationary costs of all raw materials being used in the manufacturing of automobiles and additional costs of labor are inportant factors.

Dave Ogan, of Carroll Halliday Inc., stated the situation as thus: "The higher prices have been mandated by the government in Washington D.C. through the additions of safety features. The people we voted for have put it on us."

Farmer said the price hikes is "total inflation" with the price of everything going up, including wages, steel, nylon upholstery, and other products involved in the automotive industry.

However, all the local dealers contacted, said the price increase is not that high when one considers the standard equipment included in the 1975 models that were optional on automobiles last year. The addition of the anti-pollution device, radial tires, high energy ignition system and power door locks on the luxury cars are a few of the now standard equipment.

"The 1975 models are getting about 25 per cent more mileage than the '74s or any previous cars," said Don Ward of Don's Auto Sales.

FARMER STATED the 1975 autos have "smoother operation, less maintenance and overall, owner's overhead is much less on the '75s."

The local dealers said there has been no major concern or any real problems encountered with the antipollution devices included on most of the 1975 vehicles.

The main problem they appear to be facing is the delivering of the 1975s and obtaining the models of automobiles to fill the present demand.

The shortage of automobiles has

Inflation tops campaign issues

NEW YORK (AP) — Voter see inflation as the No. 1 issue in the election Tuesday and will be skeptical of any candidate who hasn't discussed it in terms they can understand, private pollsters say.

"Let's not kid ourselves, in this election there is one overriding problem on people's minds, and that's the economy," Frank Goldsmith of Oliver Quayle & Co. said.

Harry O'Neill of Opinion Research Corp. in Princeton, N.J., also used the word "overriding" to describe worry about inflation, adding, "The situation is similar to the way Vietnam was the big issue several years ago."

Goldsmith, O'Neil and three other pollsters declined to discuss details of the information they have supplied to candidates, but they did describe what their studies show about voter concerns.

Dick Wirthlin of Decision Making Information in Los Angeles and Tully Plesser of Cambridge Opinion Studies in New York emphasized the advantage of discussing inflation in specific terms.

"The electorate needs something it can understand," Wirthlin said. "For example, cut government spending, soak the oil companies, hold the line against defense spending. But this all must be played against the background of what the electorate wants to hear. There seems to be much sympathy toward making sacrifices if the electorate can be assured that these sacrifices will help curb inflation."

Plesser said voters will respond best to a candidate who identifies a cause of inflation "and holds it up as an enemy to be attacked — you need something to clarify the issue for voters, who can't dope out the nuisances of the problem."

Goldsmith said a candidate would be a "fool if he says he's going to lick the inflation problem.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service's new national program cooperative, begun this year, has gotten the green light for the 1975-76 season. But a big hurdle remains.

And PBS chief Hartford Gunn says that is to persuade the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the Ford Foundation to increase, not decrease, the financial support they gave the system for 1974-75.

The cooperative, created amid dwindling foundation support for public TV, aims at stimulating great local financial help for public TV as well as giving stations more direct say in choosing national programs.

Under the system, the stations are asked to pay a fairshare percentage of some national programming they once got free from PBS, helping to "buy" shows offered in a PBS program catalogue.

To get it startd this season, CPB, which administers federal funds earmarked for public broadcasting, put up $4.5 million. The Ford Foundation put up $5 million and stations raised $4 million, Gunn said. The $13.5 million total paid for 40 per cent of the cost of this season's national public TV programs, he added.

PBS' executive committee, in renewing the program cooperative for another season, said it should be financed at a level of from $19 million to $23 million. Gunn is aiming for a $21 million level.

"Our hope is that the stations would put up $7 million and CPB and the Ford Foundation $7 million each," he said. "It's a reasonable figure and the program choices the stations could make would be considerably greater than they were under this year's funding."

He said that by this he meant that financially pressed stations this year tended to buy low-cost series lasting weeks rather than expensive programs — such as documentaries — of only one or several segments.

What sort of financial commitment has CPB and the Ford Foundation made to the cooperative for next season?

"Well, the corporation has said it could put up $3.7 million," Gunn said.

He said the Ford Foundation, which is gradually phasing out its long-time support of public broadcasting, "has not said what it'd put up, but it did indicate earlier it'd match what CPB puts up."

Plain Dealer strike continues

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— No more bargaining was scheduled today between The Plain Dealer and striking members of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild, after contract talks broke off Sunday with no progress reported, the Guild said.

Guild Executive Secretary Jack Weir said no more talks were scheduled because Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge Francis Sweeney, who had been mediating the dispute, had a trial today and would not be available until late this afternoon.

Milledgeville solons hold brief meeting

MILLEDGEVILLE — The Milledgeville Council met Saturday in a brief session. It was noted that some of the village air wells are becoming blocked by leaves and debris. Anyone who knows of wells which are clogged should contact Ronnie Anderson at 948-2536.

The council also paid routine bills.

KSU trial in recess to Tuesday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Prosecution and defense rest today in the trial of eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

The trial is in recess and resumes Tuesday.

Testimony in the second week of the trial is expected to return to the government's contention that guardsmen were not threatened when they opened fire on students protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The May fourth shootings killed four students and wounded nine.

The prosecution has provided evidence that students pelted guardsmen with rocks before the gunfire broke out and even threw back some tear gas canisters guardsmen had fired into the crowd.

But defense cross-examination has brought out testimony that most students were more than 300 feet away when the troops started shooting.

Three photographers on campus that day told the court last week they saw no rush of students that could have precipitated the firing.

At the beginning of the week, the jury and seven of the eight defendants toured the campus, exploring the site of an Army Reserve Officers Training Corps building burned two days before the shootings, the hill from which guardsmen fired and the parking lot below where students fell.

The ex-guardsmen are charged with assaulting and intimidating the shooting victims and others by firing weapons in their direction and depriving them of their civil rights without due process of law.

What Other People Are Saying About The Dumford Candidacy.

ENDORSED BY THE RECORD HERALD, THE MADISON PRESS AND THE GREENFIELD TIMES.

ENDORSED BY JOHN GLENN

"As a commissioner of Fayette County for 12 years, he proved himself a capable servant of the public. His interests: public school financing, tax revision and law enforcement are of vital concern to the people of the 77th. district. He strongly stresses the importance of local government, which is refreshing in an age of increasingly centralization and depersonalization of government."

ENDORSED BY MYRL H. SHOEMAKER, STATE REPRESENTATIVE 88th. HOUSE DISTRICT.

COMMENTS OF CHESTER HUMMELL, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY OF THE OHIO TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES AND CLERKS ASSOCIATION.

"Larry's ability was recognized in the county commissioner's association when he served as it's president a few years ago. I know Larry Dumford to be a person who is very much interested in the problems of local government and has the experience to deal with them."

ENDORSED BY THE OHIO EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION

"After discussing the answers given by both candidates, the committee decided through a unanimous vote to endorse the candidacy of Laurence A. Dumford. It was the finding of the committee that Mr. Dumford showed a sincere interest in the needs of the educational system of the State of Ohio and the 77th. district. He has also shown a consistency of opinion in his statements on educational issues over the past years."

Opinion And Comment

Will truth come out?

Leon Jaworski gives the impression of having been caught in a situation not much to his liking at the time of the Nixon pardon. The special prosecutor plainly did not care for the way the matter was handled.

This came out most clearly when one of Jaworski's interviewers on a television program asked whether he felt he should have been consulted by President Ford before the decision to grant the pardon was reached. Said he: "I think I should have been. I wan't."

The most interesting aspect of the Jaworski interview, though, was his elaboration of the view that in spite of the pardon the full truth about the former president's part in the Watergate coverup will become known. The trial now in progress, he believes, will bring out the whole story.

He seemed to think the truth would emerge mainly from the White House tape recordings introduced as evidence in the trial of Nixon's one-time associates. We hope the special prosecutor is right, and we agree with him that if all of the tapes are not used in the trial they should be made public anyway. Somehow, pardon or no pardon, the full extent of Nixon's role should be brought to light.

World food crisis

Austerity meals to dramatize the needs of the poor are nothing new. A recent variant of such a dinner is nevertheless of considerable interest because it so graphically emphasized the world food problem.

A banquet was given under the auspices of the Americans for Freedom from Hunger Foundation, but the geusts were not seated until they felt very hungry. Thereupon one-third of those attending received juicy prime ribs, baked potatoes and all the trimmings; the other two-thirds got a bowl of rice, and tea. It was effectively symbolic of the growing division between the haves and the have-nots in terms of world food supply.

This situation has been well publicized in recent months, and with good reason. The facts of the matter are insistent: world food demand is rising faster than world food production, and there is the further complicating factor of disappointing harvests in a number of countries.

Some notion of the rise in demand for food can be gained by considering that at present roughly 1.4 million people are added to the world's population every week. Specialists at the United Nations estimate that up to half a billion people go to bed hungry every night, but that is only the tip of the iceberg. A lot more suffered malnutrition in varying degree, and many face actual starvation.

In the past, North American grain production has been able to meet much of the demand. That is no longer the case. The bulk of United States grain is used to make beef, mutton, pork, chicken. For this and other reasons, among them large Societ purchases of U.S. grain, supplies are down and prices are very high. Our country is no longer a dependable source of emergency food.

Americans could do much more for the world's hungry by making a change in their eating habits. Several pounds of grain are used to produce one pound of meat. Therefore, if we were to eat less meat and rely more on grain and vegetable protein, a lot of grain would be freed for shipment to the world's poor countries. Whether Americans will do this is another matter. Just now it seems unlikely.

If we do not undertake to help, though, there will be heavy burden on our collective conscience. For this is a time of world food crisis, and Americans would do ill not to accept their full share of responsibility for meeting it.

The foreseeable emergency is great. A document prepared for the world food conference in Rome in early November says the present trend foreshadows a cereals shortage of 85 to 100 million tons a year by 1985 in the poor countries. That means more hunger; it means starvation. We must do what we can to help.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

After some early morning confusion, day should turn out to be surprisingly productive. You also stand to gain financially.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You may not have the incentive to try and accomplish the extraordinary now, but a bit of extra thought given to the future could completely change your perspective — and stimulate your ambitions anew.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

If a financial transaction is up for consideration, and you have subconscious doubts, it would be better to postpone action. There COULD be something to those hunches of yours.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You may be quite certain in your mind as to exactly how you intend to handle things, but it wouldn't hurt to get another's viewpoint. Some interesting new concepts could result.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Not a day for forcing issues or deliberately bring up controversial subjects. Roll with the punches for the time being.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Strong indications of gain through past efforts. A good period, too, for launching new enterprises. Study all suggestions carefully, however.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

No matter what activities — regular or extra-curricular — you planned for this day, you may have to mark time until others are ready, but don't chafe; use the time for reevaluating.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Some intrigue about. Don't become involved. Concentrate on your own objectives and you won't have time to get into dubious activities.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A problem now may be in handling activities smoothly, without ruffling tempers or leaving yourself open to misinterpretation. But the Sagittarian's innate diplomacy should help you cope.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Stars promise interesting developments and growth in areas that should stimulate your ambitions — and your ever active mind.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A better day for completing pending projects than for beginning new ones. Make plans for the latter, but don't launch until later in the week.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Watch finances, but don't become overly anxious about them. Just make up your mind to pursue a conservative and realistic course.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with an active mind, remarkable inner resources and strong will power, all of which are potent weapons in times of stress. You have a flair for the dramatic, which should serve you well in the theater (as actor, director or producer), in literature or as a trial lawyer. You are a born leader and will always have an enthusiastic following, so. . . .be careful where you lead! Your business acumen is excellent and, as manager of a large corporation or investment counselor, you could easily reach a position of eminence. You are also suited to public life; could reach estimable office via the law.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Nov. 4, the 308th day of 1974. There are 57 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected the 34th President of the United States. He defeated Democrat Adlai Stevenson for the first Republican presidential victory in 20 years.

On this date —

In 1520, King Christian II was crowned King of Sweden.

In 1825, the first boat to reach New York City by using the Erie Canal arrived nine days after leaving Buffalo.

In 1879, a patent for the cash register was granted to J. J. Ritty of Dayton, Ohio.

In 1884, Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected President.

In 1931, the League of Nations accused Japan of aggression in Manchuria.

In 1944, the World War Two allies announced that Greece had been completely liberated from the Nazis.

Ten years ago: The former Mayor of Saigon, Tran Van Huong, was installled as Premier of South Vietnam.

Five years ago: Two jetliners, one Nicaraguan and one Brazilian, were hijacked to Cuba.

One year ago: Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts became the first Republican Senator to publicly urge the resignation of President Nixon.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Art Carney is 56 years old. Painter and scenic designer Eugene Berman is 75.

Thought for today: There is no wisdom save in truth — Martin Luther.

Globe-girdling hunger seen

ROME (AP) — Experts say the statistics on hunger are often misleading, but they agree that a belt of hunger girdles the globe strapping a half billion people with continuous misery.

These are the people United Nations specialists say are permanently hungry, and also often suffer from the ravages of vitamin deficiency: blindness, infection, intestinal diseases.

They are unable to lead a normal life or be productive members of society. And at least two out of every five are children.

In many of the hardest hit nations there is a treadmill pattern to hunger which leaves millions with no escape, experts say. Most farmers in these nations still till their land by hand. And because they are hungry they don't have enough energy for their work and produce less food.

For example, in the United States where most farming is mechanized, the average food intake is 3,300 calories a day — 26 per cent above the recommended minimum. In Bangladesh the average daily intake is 1,840 calories — 20 per cent below the minimum recommended for that country.

"It's a vicious circle, condemning people eternally to hunger," said an Indian specialist at the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

U.N. experts say vitamin-A deficiency is a major cause of blindness in India, Indonesia, Bangladesh, Vietnam, the Philippines, northeast Brazil and El Salvador. More than 100,000 children go blind each year in the Far East, according to U.N. estimates.

Specialists preparing for the World Food Conference which opens here next Tuesday have identified the countries they believe are most afflicted by hunger.

In Asia they are Afghanistan, Bangladesh, India, Indonesia and the Philippines. In Africa: Angola, Somalia, Tanzania, Upper Volta, Niger, Mali, Senegal, Chad and Mauritania. In Latin America: Bolivia, El Salvador and Haiti. In the Middle East, the two Yemens.

The goal of the conference is to narrow the nutritional gap between the rich and poor countries with aid commitments and new investments in agriculture. The conference's preparatory committee says $50 million a year over a 10-year period would be enough to wipe out nutritional diseases.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She shouldn't fleece sleeping sheep

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl, I remember seeing my mother tiptoe into the bedroom where my father was sleeping and she'd take some money out of his pants pocket.

Now that I'm married, I do the same thing to my husband. Sometimes he misses what I took and sometimes he doesn't.

My question: Is it wrong to take money this way? I get an allowance to run the house, but sometimes it's not enough.

PICKPOCKET

DEAR PICK: If you need more money than your husband gives you, ask him for it when he's awake. To fleece him when he's asleep should make you feel sheepish.

DEAR ABBY: I will never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average, 33-year-old man, married for six years. We have one child.

One night I went out alone and picked up a nice-looking girl in a bar. Believe me, she looked and acted as nice as any girl I had ever met. She was immaculate and ladylike. That girl gave me the gonorrhea. I, in turn, infected my wife with such a severe case that she had to have a complete hysterectomy. She is only 30 years old and now she'll never be able to have another child, and she wanted one so much.

The doctor had to tell her the truth and it nearly broke her heart because she had never looked at another man, and knew it had to be my fault.

She says she's forgiven me, but I don't think I can ever forgive myself.

Abby, please tell your readers not to take foolish chances like I did. I'm not a tramp, Abby. I went out on my wife only once, and God forgive me, it was the most foolish thing I've ever done.

HATING MYSELF

DEAR HATING: I'll print your letter as a reminder to women as well as men that vereareal disease is still one of society's most serious problems. Be careful!

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 22, and married. I quit my job as a beautician because I don't like that kind of work.

My friends, neighbors, and relatives think that because I'm not working right now, I have lots of time on my hands, so they come over and ask me to do their hair-for nothing.

I'm not pushy and I hate to hurt anyone's feelings, so I go ahead and do their hair. It's a lot easier than making up some kind of excuse. Besides, I don't want any trouble.

Now I've had it. Will you please give me a good excuse to use when relatives, neighbors and friends ask me to do their hair?

RETIRED

DEAR RETIRED: You don't need an "excuse" you have a legitimate reason. Use it. Simply say: "I quit being a beautician because I don't care for that kind of work."

And if you haven't got the courage to stand up and speak your mind because you don't want "trouble" you're already in a lot of trouble!

DEAR EDITOR:

I would like to point out a few things about Income Tax! (1) It is traditionally a Progressive Tax. . . .It starts out at 1.25 per cent, then, before you know it, 1.50 per cent. . . . 2.00 per cent and so on. If you question this, just look at other towns which have inflicted upon the working people of their community a "City Income Tax". In case after case the percentage is increased.

The proposed City Income Tax of 1.25 per cent as submitted is a "Gross Wage Tax". . . . That means if passed, the city would get their cut from your pay check on the "Gross" amount of your wages, 1.25 per cent of your gross pay. It would mean they would get their cut on your "Gross" corporate profits. . . . The State gets their cut of the "Gross" and the Federal Government gets their cut on the "Gross". You are taxed directly three times on the same dollars and now the proposed "Sur-Tax" for some and immediate increase in Social Security Tax deductions. Those who DO NOT HAVE TO PAY?. . . .The bunch who always get off; the non-wage earners. . . .Also, Stock and Bond earnings are excluded from the city's submitted new tax. Who pays? The same guy who pays all the taxes. . . .The hard worker trying to earn a living, to clothe and house his family, improve his lot by working hard.

Inflation is just as hard on government as an individual. How much does our city government need in dollars and cents. . . . It should be spelled out for us. . . Not just become a new unaccountable collection agency. The city may need some money. . . . But don't put more burden on the same people who are being "crushed" by "big spenders" in Council, State and Federal positions.

Grace Methodist Church setting for wedding

Miss Julie Joyce Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Clark Thompson of Hays Rd., became the bride of Alfred E. Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Howe of Wildwood Rd.

Rev. Allen Puffenberger officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the sanctuary of Grace United Methodist Church. A half-hour of music was presented by Mrs. Garrel B. Leasure, organist.

The candelabra and gold cathedral vases of white gladioli, fugi mums and pink carnations adorned the altar. The aisle was marked by hurricane lamps trimmed with pink bows.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a long white polyester organza gown fashioned with a scalloped neckline, long puffed sleeves and empire waist. The skirt of the gown ended in a wide ruffle. Her floor-length mantilla was made of white illusion trimmed in lace as well as the cuffs and neckline of the dress. The bride carried a cascade of white miniature carnations, fugi mums, pink sweetheart roses, ivy and baby's breath.

Miss Melanie Wilkins was maid of honor with Mrs. Judson C. Thompson and Mrs. Jeffrey L. Thompson, sisters-in-law of the bride, as bridesmaids. Their matching gowns were made of light blue polyester satin bodices, long puffed sleeves and dark blue velvet skirts. Each attendant carried a colonial bouquet of pink miniature carnations, pink fugi mums, pink variegated carnations and baby's breath.

William Vince served as best man and the ushers were Capt. D.G. Thompson, Judson C. Thompson and Jeffrey L. Thompson, brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a street-length dress made of polyester with a navy skirt and red, white and blue bodice with matching jackets. Her corsage was of blue and white fugi mums. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink double knit dress trimmed in white. Her corsage was of pink and white fugi mums.

For the reception in Fellowship Hall, the bride's table featured a tree-tiered wedding cake surrounded by pink, blue and white mums. Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. A. Gene Travis, Mrs. Jack Flax, Mrs. John D. Morris and Mrs. Barney Armstrong. Mrs. D.G. Thompson presided at the guest book.

When the couple left for a trip to the Smoky Mountains, the new Mrs. Howe was wearing a heather pink pantsuit and a corsage of white mums with pink baby's breath and matching ribbon.

The new Mrs. Howe attended Maimi Trace High School and is employed at the New Craigs. Her husband, a 1972 graduate of MTHS, is employed by Mac Tools Inc.

They are now residing at 4463 St. Rt. 38, near Bloomingburg.

Maple Grove Society makes mincemeat

Maple Grove United Methodist Women met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Roy Gilmerr in Frankfort, who opened the meeting with several organ selections. Mrs. Neil Rowland offered prayer for missionaries having birthdays in October.

The ladies have completed making and canning mincemeat for this year and are now selling it at $2.00 per quart. Anyone interested may call Mrs. John Rowland at 335-6742.

The program was presented by Mrs. Harold Craven, who gave seven guideposts with which to live: Simplicity, think constructively, be grateful, give generously, be interested in others, live for today and keep close to God.

The worship table was pretty in its simplicity with an open Bible as the word of God, lighted white candle representing the light of the world, and white praying hands for the attitude of prayer.

Mrs. Wilbur Chaplin, president, conducted the business meeting, when members answered roll call with the explanation of Halloween. The group voted to keep the pledge the same for next year as this year, and to send $10.00 to the VA Hospital, Chillicothe, for patients Christmas.

Mrs. Earl Russell reported on various meetings she and others in the Society had attended recently and announced that the Maple Grove Society received first place in the poster contest in the district.

Revival will begin Nov. 12-13 at the church with the Rev. Howard Mayne as the evangelist.

A salad course was served to Mrs. Chaplin, Mrs. John Rowland, Mrs. Locie Eckle, Mrs. Marion Dawson, Mrs. Clyde Carman, Mrs. Carey Daugherty, Mrs. Neil Rowland, Mrs. Ottie Huff, Mrs. Quinn Clarke, Mrs. Earl Russell, Mrs. Craven and the hostess, Mrs. Gilmerr.

WHS Class of 1960 to plan reunion

The Class of 1960 of Washington High School will meet in the home of Mrs. Victor (Paulette Pennington) Luneborg, 307 N. North St., at 8 p.m. Nov. 26, to plan a class reunion.

All members of the class are urged to attend.

Ladies Oriental Shrine Club holds dinner

Members of the Fayette Ladies Oriental Shrine Club entertained their husbands in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grim at a dinner Thursday evening. Individual tables were centered with a Halloween theme, and the business meeting followed.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Grim conducted the meeting when a generous donation was made to the Burns Hospital for Crippled Children in Cincinnati.

The next meeting, which will be in January in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Moore, will be featured with members bringing layette items for Memorial Hospital.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Child, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Parrett, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Denen, Mrs. Malcolm Dorn, Mrs. Tom Slager, Mrs. Zoe Garringer and the Grims.

State winner in piano competition

Miss Shelley Stephenson of 886 Hanson Drive, Cincinnati daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stephenson and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Mabel Louis of New Holland, has recently won first place in the music category of the Valley Area Council Arts Exhibit for her musical composition entitled "Tornadoes." The Valley Area includes 65 schools in the surrounding area.

"Tornadoes" will be played by her in the national competition to be held at Atlantic City, N.J. sometime this winter.

She also won first place last year at Forest View Elementary School, which was sponsored by the P.T.A. Her composition "Waltz" went on to win first place in the Valley Area Competition and she later won a blue ribbon in the Ohio State competition.

Her entry, "Tornadoes" was entered in the Ohio State P.T.A. Convention held in Cincinnati in October. The composition was on display at the Convention Center.

Shelley attends Forest View Elementary School and is in the fifth grade.

Halloween party

The first project, a Halloween party, presented by a newly-formed group called 'Harmony' was a great success. With an approximate total of 85 children attending, and parents, the evening started with apple dunking and other games, held in the Farm Bureau building.

As the evening went along, a guest 'ghost' appeared, which brought forth laughter, screams and tears.

Children, who were masked, were placed in four categories: Prettiest, ugliest, most unusual and funniest. Winners were Rodney Farmer, age 9 from Belle-Aire School, the ugliest: Jennifer Barnett, age 9 from Cherry Hill, won for being the prettiest; Rickie Kellenberger, age 6 from Rose Ave. School won for having the most unusual costume; and Diane Steward, age 13 from Washington Middle School, won for the funniest category. Each was presented a silver dollar by Miss Merilyn Long.

Patrick Crocker, age 10 from Belle-Aire School won the first game of musical chair; and Sherry Haithcock, age 10 of Eastside School, won the other game of musical chair.

Donuts and cider were served.

Notices were given out at each elementary school telling of the party and donations were given by various persons, to defray expenses.

MR. AND MRS. FLOYD THOMPSON

'Open house' is planned for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson, Hornbeam Rd., Sabina, will observe their golden wedding anniversary at an "open house" from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 10, at their home. Hosts for the occasion will be their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were married in the Highland Dunkard Church by the Rev. John Garst on Nov. 8, 1924.

They are the parents of 11 children, and have 20 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

All of their friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Arts, Crafts Club makes various items

Sixteen members were present when the Arts and Crafts Club were guests of Mrs. William Lovell for the October meeting, and were instructed in the art of decorating driftwood.

A large work table was set up in the basement, which was decorated in a Halloween motif.

Mrs. Stanley Scott was the assisting hostess and both had gathered the driftwood that the members used for their project, from various parts of the country. They also provided baskets and boxes filled with all sorts of seed pods, acorns, dried flowers and weeds and the members chose what they desired. Some very interesting and original creations were fashioned.

Mobiles of plastic bottles and jars were also created and everyone felt that this meeting was one of the most interesting meeting of the year.

It was decided that the November 26 meeting would be a continuation of this one as everyone had more ideas. The group will meet again in the home of Mrs. Lovell.

Throughout the afternoon, doughnuts, cider, coffee, cookies and candy were served.

Virginia Circle

The Virginia Circle of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met in the country home of Mrs. Marvin Stockwell. Mrs. David Groves, circle leader, opened the meeting with the group repeating the Lord's Prayer and the poem, "Friendship is a Load." Roll call was answered by naming a favorite food.

Mrs. Groves was in charge of the program and talked on an article entitled, "Are You Good Enough for Heaven?" taken from Together magazine.

The November meeting was changed to Nov. 20, to be held at the church with Mrs. Fred DeMent and Mrs. Harry Allen as hostesses.

Halloween favors were at each place setting when the 10 members assembled in the dining room for a dessert course.

ELECTION DAY
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1974

I, Virtus J. Kruse wish to call your attention in regard to the election of a very important office to be filled on the above date, that of State Representative.

Having had the privilege of serving Fayette County in that capacity for a period of eight years, those years being from January 1, 1959 through December 31, 1966, I feel like I have accumulated enough knowledge to know who should represent us as we wish to be represented for the up coming two years.

I need not repeat the qualifications of the man of which I speak, for you have been well informed regarding same over the past weeks.

Therefore, I am asking you and urge you to vote for

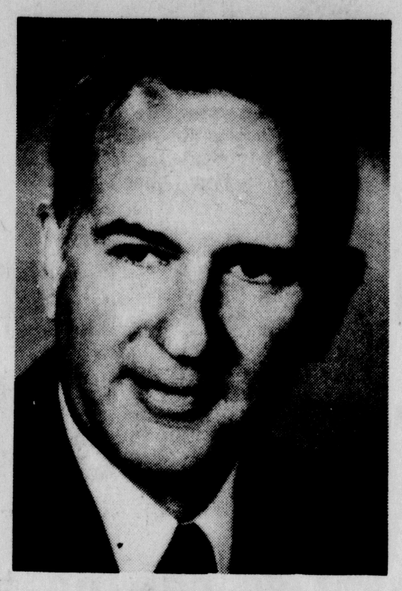
New president named by DP&L's directors

DAYTON — Robert E. Frazier, vice president of finances for the Duke Power Co., will become president of the Dayton Power and Light Co. and a member of the company's board of directors on Jan. 1, it was announced by the company today.

Robert B. Killen will continue as chairman of the Dayton Power and Light Co. board of directors and chief executive officer. Killen is presently chairman, president and chief executive officer of the Dayton Power and Light Co.

THE DAYTON Power and Light Co. board of directors took the action to provide greater executive staff depth and flexibility. This added strength is necessary because of the greater challenges now confronting the utility industry and because several recent vacancies on the executive staff were not filled.

The 46-year-old Frazier graduated from Central Michigan University in 1950 and joined the Consumers Power Co. in 1951 as an accountant. In 1952, he was employed by Arthur Andersen and Co., progressing to the position of audit manager. He joined the Duke Power Co., in Charlotte, N.C., in 1961 as assistant treasurer, became treasurer in 1967 and was promoted to vice president in charge of finances in 1971.



ROBERT E. FRAZIER

He was elected to the Duke Power Co.'s board of directors in 1972.

Frazier is active in a number of professional organizations and serves on the board of the Business Development Corp., North Carolina, and the Carolinas Hospital and Health Services, Inc.

Williamsport man to stand trial in Pickaway County

A Williamsport man has been released by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies to stand trial in Pickaway County.

Ted Riggin, 57, of Williamsport, had been in the Fayette County jail for the past six months following his arrest for passing two bad checks, in the amount of $300 each, at Steen's this spring.

He appeared in Fayette County Common Pleas Court and pleaded guilty to both charges, and Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sentenced him to six months in jail and two years probation. Since she allowed him credit for the time he had been in jail awaiting trial, the entire jail sentence had already been served. However, Riggin's troubles were not yet over.

As he was released from the Fayette County jail, officers of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department escorted him to their jail. He had been charged with passing bad checks and driving while intoxicated by that county.

Riggins was found guilty of the DWI charge and paid his fine. He has been indicted by Pickaway County grand jury on the check charge and is currently free on bond while awaiting trial.

Aristotle Onassis enters hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Aristotle Onassis has entered New York Hospital for a "routine physical checkup," the hospital says.

The hospital's administrator said Sunday that Onassis, husband of the former Jacqueline Kennedy, was listed in satisfactory condition simply because it was hospital practice to list a condition for all patients.

He said the Greek financier entered the hospital under an assumed name, "Mr. Phillips," because he did not wish "to have any unnecessary publicity."

Savings bond sales listed

September 1974 sales of Series E & H United States Savings Bonds in Ohio were $34.1 million. At the end of September, the State attained 76.8 per cent of its 1974 sales goal.

Richard E. Whiteside, Fayette County volunteer savings bonds chairman, reported September sales of savings bonds in the county were $20,211. The county achieved 60.9 per cent of its annual sales goal September 30.

Commissioners to view ditch

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners have scheduled to view Compton's Creek for a petitioned ditch improvement project Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

The prospective project is located along Old Springfield Road, south of CCC Highway-W.

Chairman J. Herbert Perrill said Monday the commissioners are occupying their time with routine business material. They have received 26 reports from county dog warden Reginald (Chink) Davis on complaints around the county.

The commissioners are also considering ways of providing funds for financing additional election costs this year in accordance with new state laws.

According to Perrill, the state has decreed that the polls remain open an extra hour, additional workers be employed and training sessions held for precinct workers, which has doubled the costs of holding an election.

City crews to continue leaf collection tasks

City street superintendent Bill Duncan has asked that Washington C. H. residents rake their leaves to the curb as soon as possible.

He said that city crews will be making their second tour of the city this week, and they would like to get as many of the leaves as possible before the weather turns colder. The leaves should be placed in the street as near as possible to the curb.

In addition, to collecting leaves, city crews will be cleaning sewer lines.

Culvert repair in Green and Jefferson townships as well as drainage work in Marion and Jefferson townships are on the county work schedule for this week. Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, said county crew will also replace the guardrail on Washington-Waterloo Road which was knocked down in an automobile accident Sunday morning.

Employes of the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County will be resetting the surveyors' markers on the U.S. 35 bypass. Berm work and surface patching are scheduled on Ohio 734, and trash crews will be operating throughout the county.

A special training session for state employes will be held in Columbus Thursday morning. The workshop will cover the correct methods of salting roadways, according to Gene Fitzpatric, garage superintendent.

Ohio Perspective

Richard Harris in uphill fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Richard H. Harris, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, is walking toward the finish line of his 1,000-mile tour of Ohio's perimeter, but he still appears to be running behind Democratic incumbent Gertrude W. Donahey.

Harris completed his 900th mile in Cleveland and is heading for Toledo on the final 100-mile leg of his walk.

He is "delighted with the response," but has been unable to shake an underdog label as a candidate who probably has the slimmest chance of victory of any Republican on the party's statewide ticket.

He is up against a well known, well-financed incumbent in a campaign that clearly lacks gut issues, and in an election year that looks promising for Democrats.

A Republican campaign official conceded, "The campaign is not shaping up around issues. She is apparently a very nice woman, but she is not as qualified as Harris. He is an administrator."

That is the major thrust of his campaign.

That same "very nice woman" had spent more than $66,600 as of Oct. 16 in her race against a political unknown. She is spending $48,000 of it on a statewide radio blitz that began last week and will continue up to the Nov. 5 election.

The 60-second spots focus on her record after the statehouse loan scandal, which was centered in the treasurer's office in 1970 under a Republican administration. Their tone, Mrs. Donahey's media coordinator said, is simply: "This is what we've done folks; we've cleaned the mess up and earned you money at the same time."

Harris has no prospects for radio or television advertising; the money just isn't there. Records in the secretary of state's office listing contributions over $25 show he has raised about $6,000. His balance on Oct, 16 was given at $169.55.

He hopes to place some newspaper ads shortly before the election to remind voters that he's the guy who hiked through their town.

The walking candidate decided to throw his hiking boots into the ring when he started hearing of complaints about delayed premium checks from the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Harris worked for the bureau for 12 years before joining a Toledo law firm last year as a non-lawyer administrative assistant.

According to Harris, about $7 million, including workmen's compensation checks, had been left in mailbags unnoticed in Mrs. Donahey's vault for more than two months, costing the state $100,000 in interest.

The charge makes Mrs. Donahey bristle. It was considerably less than $7 million, and closer to two weeks than two months, she has said. The money was in sliding filing trays that inadvertently were left undated, she said.

Mrs. Donahey, widow of onetime Lt. Gov. John W. Donahey, was the first woman elected to statewide executive office in Ohio, and she is proud of her record in office.

She emphasizes the new computer techniques she has introduced and boasts of earning more than $200 million for Ohio from interest and investments, compared to $159 million in the eight years prior to 1971.

Harris does not dispute those figures, but mentions as factors increased state revenues from the income tax and lottery and soaring interest rates.

The Harris campaign staff, which has only one full-time employe, issued a press release recently as the candidate neared the end of his "odyssey."

AUCTION

SHERIFF'S SALE

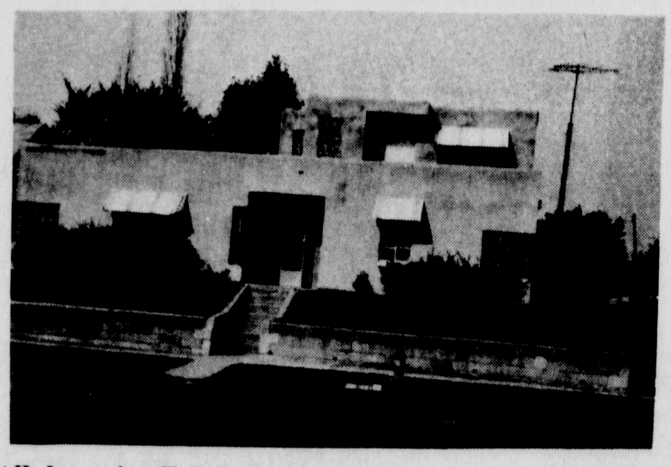
2 WASHINGTON C. H. PROPERTIES

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1974

SELLS AT COURT HOUSE - 2:00 P.M.

Tract I - Located 442 Albin Avenue, Washington C. H., Ohio, with 85' frontage and 140' depth in lot size.

Belle-Aire Subdivision has always been known for good family home locations. Lot has many trees and shrubs. The one floor plan frame residence has six rooms, which includes three bedrooms, living room, kitchen with dining area, plus another bedroom or den, 1½ baths. Gas forced air furnace, plus many other very desirable features. 2-car garage.
However, there are some rather undesirable features which are: the roof leaks, and has leaked; the inside and outside really need decorating, or in some places revamped; the wiring does need inspection and attention; the plumbing does need inspection and attention; plus other areas should be given close inspection. Maybe you are just browsing, but don't overlook this one. . . . . with this location, you could be the proudest family in town, someday. Appraised at $13,000, and must not sell for less than two thirds.



Tract II - Located 834 E. Paint Street, Washington C. H., Ohio, (on the corner at Walnut). Lot size is 46' frontage and back line is on an angle with an average of 72' in depth.

This 1½ story, 4 unit or apartment complex, has been renting for $80.00 per unit. No garage. However, now don't get too excited, as this is a masonary structure, with flat roofs and damage can be observed from the leaks over the years. Again, we suggest you inspect the wiring, plumbing, decorating, etc. After you get the deed to this investment property, it may be surprising what a few hundred dollars, and a little help from your wife, might return. Appraised at $11,500 and must not sell for less than two thirds.

POSSESSION: On passing of deeds.
INSPECTION: Call selling agents, 335-2210.
TERMS: 10 per cent down day of sale and balance of purchase price upon delivery of deed within 30 days, for each tract.
NOTE: We wish to thank you for reading this sale ad, and hope we have stimulated just a little interest and cause you to attend this sale.

Many local issues appear on ballots

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Candidates aside, Ohioans have a multiplicity of local decisions to make at the polls Tuesday— some of them close to the pocketbook.

About two dozen communities, including Cleveland—the state's largest—are asking voters to approve an increase in their city income tax.

In Cleveland and several others, the hike would be from 1 to 1½ per cent.

Others seeking one-half per cent increases include Willoughby, Newark, the village of Mogadore and Streetsboro (Portage County). New Carlisle voters are asked to approve a 1 per cent levy, while those in Napoleon have before them a one-fourth of 1 per cent tax for recreational purposes.

Two Ohio communities are going against the trend and proposing to repeal local income taxes. They are Sunbury (Delaware County) and Toronto (Jefferson County.)

Otherwise, the miscellaneous ballot issues range from proposed street improvements in Lebanon and a one-half of 1 per cent piggyback sales tax in Darke County, to expansion of the territory of the Toledo Regional Transit Authority and the proposed creation of a charter commission in Summit County.

Included in the wide range of about 200 issues are nearly 100 proposed amendments to city government charters.

At least half of those are spread out among the conglomeration of 68 municipal government units in Cuyahoga County.

Some municipalities in other areas, including Portsmouth and Elyria, want to change their presidential year primary elections from May to June to coincide with a new state primary election statute.

Candidates and personalities have drawn nearly all the preelection publicity, however. Ohio elects a governor, one U.S. senator, 23 representatives to the U.S. House, five statewide officers besides governor, three justices of the Ohio Supreme Court, 99 Ohio House members, 18 state senators and 10 members of the 23-member State Board of Education.

Besides the nearly 200 miscellaneous issues, a total of 206 new school district tax proposals are on local ballots, along with 31 requests for tax levy renewals, 58 bond issues for capital construction, and 41 levies for permanent capital improvements.

The city of Sidney in Shelby County is voting on the creation of a compensation commission for its officials, while East Palestine in Columbiana County and Orrville in Wayne County are considering the establishment of charter commissions.

Perrysburg would be included in the jurisdiction of the Toledo Regional Transit Authority under a proposal that also would impose a one mill property tax levy so pay for the services. The city of Toledo also will determine whether to expand production and storage facilities of its park water treatment plant.

At least two counties—Morgan and Noble—are deciding whether to combine their probate courts with their courts of common pleas.

Dayton voters—who approved a hike in their city income tax at a special election in September—will decide, among other things, whether their mayor should be nominated at a special election.

Elsewhere, Lorain voters will be asked to abolish their board of park commissioners; those in Millersburg, Holmes County, will be asked to okay an increase in water rates, and still others in overlapping jurisdictions will be asked to approve changes in school district boundaries.

There are about three dozen proposed changes in zoning ordinances in communities around the state, and about 30 annexation questions, most of them involving currently unincorporated areas.

Jeff PTC holds annual festival

JEFFERSONVILLE — The Jeffersonville PTC annual fall festival held Saturday was a huge success, according to Mrs. Larry O'Cull, chairman.

Mrs. O'Cull extended her appreciation and gratitude to all who made the event so prosperious.

The main event of the evening was the crowning of the royal court: prince, Jay King, first grade; princess, Lisa Anderson, fourth grade; king, Charles Brundage, sixth grade; and queen, Denise Gilbert, eighth grade.

The winners listed for the masquerade contest were: funniest — first, Glen Conn and second, Mary Jo Smith; prettiest — first, Julie Cole and second, Julie Hains; ugliest — first, Randy Fisher and second, Johnny Cole; most original - first, Ryan Higgins and second, Terri Cole.

Snow, rain hit much of nation

By The Associated Press

Snow continued to fall on parts of the Rockies today and flash floods were feared in three mid-nation states.

Travelers were advised of hazardous conditions in the Colorado mountains, northeast New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle. But the threat of more heavy snow in the Colorado and Kansas decreased, after leaving Goodland, Kan., under four inches of snow and Denver with three.

Flash flood watches stayed in effect in central and eastern Oklahoma and northwest Arkansas. A flash flood warning was issued in southwest Missouri.

Thunderstorms continued from central Texas through the middle Mississippi Valley and into western New England. Fort Smith, Ark., and Springfield, Mo., each had more than an inch of rain in the last six hours of Sunday.

Skies were clear over much of the southeast, the upper plains and west of the Rockies.

Temperatures ranged from 22 at Cheyenne, Wyo., to 76 at Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Ohio campaign nears finale

By The Associated Press

Candidates for statewide office, several keenly aware that their election contests are likely to be squeakers, campaigned down to the wire across Ohio today.

Election officials, meanwhile, were predicting an unusually heavy turnout for a non-presidential year and urged voters to study the candidates and issues before going to the polls Tuesday.

In addition to the statewide races, voters will be faced with decisions on candidates for Congress and the General Assembly, statewide constitutional issues and a variety of local questions.

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Rhodes issued a call Sunday for "Republicans, Democrats, independents and everybody who is entitled to vote to go to the polls and make their sentiments known.

"Never was it more important for the future of the great State of Ohio that her voters turn out and vote their convictions in this governor's race," the former chief executive told a gathering in Canton.

Rhodes summarized his stands on what he said were the issues.

"I will not raise taxes. I will see that the income tax goes to the schools. I will remove pressure from property taxes and I will resume an unremitting effort to get more and better jobs," he said.

"The question simply is one of whether you want more taxing and spending, and more inflationary mismanagement, or sound money management and a hold-the-line attitude in the Statehouse."

Incumbent Democratic Gov. John Gilligan said in Sandusky the gubernatorial campaign offers voters "a choice between the old way of doing business and a new era of honest politics."

Gilligan said Rhodes represents the "politics of broken promises. It is the politics of profits over people and it is the politics of the slush bucket."

The governor again criticized Rhodes for refusing to disclose his personal finances or "the full extent of his campaign contributions." He noted he has released his income tax records back to 1967 and his campaign committee has reported all money spent on his re-election effort.

"The people of Ohio don't have to tolerate the kind of politics Jim Rhodes represents and I don't think they will tolerate it," Gilligan added.

Gilligan's campaign schedule for today called for a swing through Dayton, Middletown, Hamilton and Cincinnati.

Democratic U. S. Senate nominee John Glenn, who appears to be the candidate with the least to worry about since polls give him an enormous lead over Republican Ralph Perk, planned to spend the day today campaigning in the Columbus area.

The former astronaut was to speak at Otterbein College in the morning, shake hands on a downtown Columbus street corner in the afternoon and attend a political rally in the evening.

The Columbus Dispatch reported Sunday its voting machine poll taken between Sept. 3 and Oct. 30 showed the gubernatorial race and four other statewide contests too close to call.

The other races are those between Republican Lt. Gov. John Brown and state Rep. Richard Celeste, GOP Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and State Sen. Tony Hall, Republican Supreme Court Justice Thomas M. Herbert and Clifford F. Brown and Democratic Supreme Court Justice Frank D. Celebrezze and Sheldon A. Taft.

In the gubernatorial race, the weighted projections showed Rhodes with 47 per cent of the vote and Gilligan with 46.3 per cent, with the remaining 6.7 per cent favoring independent Nancy Brown Lazar.

The poll showed Democratic Atty. Gen. William Brown leading Republican George C. Smith 66.8 to 33.2, Democrat Thomas E. Ferguson ahead of Republican Roger W. Tracy Jr. 57.7 to 42.3 for state auditor, Democratic State Treasurer Gertrude W. Donahey in front of Republican Richard Haris 63.3 to 36.7 and Glenn holding a lopsided 64.7 to 24.2 advantage over Perk.

Hall said Sunday that Ted Brown really wants to retire and is seeking re-election "only because his party asked him to do so."

Calling Brown the "reluctant candidate," Hall said in a statement:

"He doesn't want the job. I do, and I have worked hard to tell everyone all over Ohio why I want the job and what I feel needs to be done to make our elections system better. The people of Ohio should give Ted Brown his wish and retire him on Tuesday."

Tracy released his 1973 federal income tax return showing a gross income of $16,273 and a total of $2,740 paid in federal, state and city income taxes.

Tracy said all of the income was from his law practice and reported that neither he nor his wife have any income or interest in stocks, bonds or real estate.

He took the opportunity to criticize Ferguson for his reported ownership of stocks in a number of banks, saying a potential conflict of interest situation existed since the auditor sits on the state Board of Deposits.

New autos

reportedly been caused by curtailment in production of automobile and related industries around the country. The Associated Press stated American Motors just recently idled 850 workers at its Evart, Mich., plastics plant for four days and Uniroyal placed 1,000 workers on a four-day work week at its Chicopee, Mass. plant.

Ogan and Ward both said their main concerns were in the supplying of the new cars.

"Our 1975s are moving very well except we can't get them in," said Ogan. "We've delivered 25 models so far, which may be a little below the 1974 sales, but there has been no major decrease in sales."

Ward said his sales are being greatly reduced too because of short supplies of the models now in demand. "The big cars are not coming in. We can get the little, light cars but not the big ones people want to buy," he said.

"Apparently everyone guessed people would be buying the light, economy cars but they were wrong," he added.

Farmer said he believed the large trend toward buying the big model cars again was an outgrowth of the energy crisis of last winter. "The small car market has definitely taken a sharp downward trend in sales, he said. "This is due to a combination of things: one, safety, people feel the small cars are not as safe, and two, people were previously under the impression that gas may get as high as a dollar a gallon; they've realized this is not in the immediate future so this has helped them to decide to go for the larger cars," he added.

Ron Knisley, of Knisley Pontiac, noted his large car sales were also on the increase, although his total sales were down "probably 40-50 per cent."

"What cars I've sold have been intermediate and larger cars," he said. "The small cars just don't have enough room and people are used to more comfort."

Knisley brought up another intensifying problem on car dealer's lots. Because of the slow deliveries in the 1975 models, dealers are having to rely more heavily on their used car markets.

However, because the factories manufactured so many small cars in 1974, very few, if any, large '74 models can be found on the lots.

"We have no 1974s left on the lot and most of the farmers in this area would rather have '74s than '75s," said Knisley. "That way they can use the gas in their tanks for their farm equipment instead of going into town to get the unleaded gasoline."

On other lots in the area, Don's Auto Sales has no unused 1974 autos and only one that has been driven some. Carroll Halliday Inc. has one large Ford and about nine small 1974 models remaining for buyer inspection.

Billie Wison, of Billie Wilson Chevrolet, the ony other major local dealership, would not make a comment on the subject.

THE FUTURE outlook for automobile dealerships seems to be one of uncertainty. Several local dealers said they are running out of things to do without cars to sell.

According to Ward, "I still have all my salesmen but it is difficult to find things to do without cars to sell. I think once we get things lined up and cars coming in, we'll be able to sell them."

Knisley said the auto dealers are being forced to follow a "wait-and-see" attitude. "I have one salesman now who doesn't know where to go. He wants to be a car salesman but there's not enough sales to continue."

And as Meriweather concluded, "One thing we do know is it's bad and we don't know what the future holds in prices and our business."

Federal and state crime control grants have established nearly 2,000 locally planned and operated community projects in Ohio since 1971.

Secret Hunt memo comes to surface

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Watergate coverup trial said today they will recall Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to the witness stand because they have discovered that a memo he wrote five months after the Watergate break-in still exists.

The revelation prompted one defense attorney to move for an immediate mistrial. Another declared, "I have now a coverup within a cover-up."

Asst. Special Prosecutor James F. Neal said existence of the memo, dated Nov. 14, 1972, was revealed to him over the weekend by William O. Bittman, who was once Hunt's lawyer.

Bittman was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate coverup by the same grand jury that indicted the five defendants in the cover-up trial.

Hunt had testified that he and his wife had written a memo detailing the background of the Watergate break-in, including the involvement of White House officials, at a time when only seven lower-level men had been indicted and were to stand trial for the crime.

Hunt quoted Bittman as saying he read the memo to defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, an allegation denied by both Bittman and Parkinson.

Neal said that, until this weekend, Bittman also had denied in grand jury testimony and meetings with the prosecutors knowing that Hunt's memo ever existed.

Parkinson's lawyer, Jacob Stein, said he is now faced with challenging the credibility of Bittman and Hunt, both of whom have now admitted lying to the grand jury.

Stein asked for a separate trial for his client, describing Bittman's role as a "cover-up with a cover-up."

John J. Wilson, defense attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, asked for a mistrial. His request was rejected by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Before the decision to recall Hunt, the prosecutors had indicated they were nearly finished with the testimony of major witnesses and would soon play recorded evidence they say is among the most damning to be put before the jury.

Watergate prosecutors say they plan to play more than 20 presidential tapes, on which are heard only the voices of Richard M. Nixon and one or more of three of the defendants.

However, some legal preliminaries must be cleared up. The first of the tapes may be heard by the end of the week.

The disclosure that Hunt's memo still exists, and the resulting legal arguments, delayed Jeb Stuart Magruder's scheduled last day of cross-examination by the defense. Magruder, deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, has withstood most attempts so far by defense lawyers to chip away at his testimony.

Tharp renamed to commission

R.B. (Bud) Tharp has been reappointed by Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman to serve on the Soldiers Relief Commission.

Tharp, who has served on the commission for the past three years, represents veterans of World War I on the five-member panel. The appointment is for the term which expires Dec. 5, 1979.

The Soldiers Relief Commission considers requests from veterans for financial assistance. It is funded by a tax appropriation from the county commissioners. When a request is deemed justified by the commission, the amount of the financial grant is then determined and allocated.

Others serving the commission are Eddie Sexton, president, who represents Disabled American Veterans; James P. Hutton, secretary, representing the American Legion; Jack Haggerty, a World War II veteran; and Wayne Houseman, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The commission meets once each month.

Jerry Lewis cited in 3-car crash

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis was ticketed by police after he stopped to view a traffic accident and set off a three-car crash in which two persons were slightly injured.

The Nevada State Highway Patrol said Lewis told officers after the Saturday mishap he stopped after recognizing someone involved in the original crash.

Steel shipments to be near record

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Steelmakers continue to predict this year's shipments will be close to last year's record despite a "definite trend" toward fewer orders—unless there is a coal strike, Industry Week reports.

The magazine said today U.S. producers shipped a record 75.8 million net tons in the first eight months of this year. Last year's shipments totaled 111.4 million tons, and the prediction is that this year's will be between 111 million and 111.5 million tons.

But the tonnage appliance makers had been taking to clean up order backlogs has declined, following the downturn in residential construction, the magazine reported.

It added, however, that steel producers say the slippage will have little effect because the tonnage it frees can be diverted into other markets.

And all other markets, including automotive, remain strong, the magazine reported. It said steel mills are expected to operate at capacity "at least through the first quarter of next year."

Some of the market strength is attributed to manufacturers' concern that there will be a coal strike which would affect steel production drastically, Industry week said.

Should demand decline more generally, mills still will be as busy as they can be because they have deferred maintenance for some time and will have to take some furnaces out of production for repairs. "The result is that for a while, some steel companies would be losing capacity faster than they would be losing markets," the magazine said.

Steelmakers, noting domestic price improvement, are predicting steel imports will total 14 million net tons or maybe 14.5 million, the latter one million more than had been predicted earlier.

School burns at Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Classes were cancelled today at Newark High School following a fire that heavily damaged the school's sophomore classroom building.

A security man discovered the fire shortly after 1 a.m. in the home economics room of the building.

It took firemen about two hours to extinguish the blaze.

School officials said the fire destroyed the home economics room and an adjoining classroom. A second classroom and the biology laboratory were also reported badly damaged.

Heat, smoke and water damage were reported throughout the building, which has about a dozen classrooms. None of the other buildings at the campus-style school was damaged.

School officials said damage would amount to at least "several thousand dollars."

October precipitation a meager 1.80 inches

Precipitation recorded in Washington C. H. during October tumbled more than two inches below the amount for the same month a year ago, according to Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. observer.

The precipitation total for the 31-day period at Stookey's recording station, located at 134 E. Ohio Avenue, was 1.80 inches, which was 2.24 inches below the October total last year.

The over-the-years October average is two inches.

THE OCTOBER rainfall brought the total precipitation for the year to 38.80 inches. The over-the-years precipitation average is 33.26 inches through October.

Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 31 degrees on October 3 to a high of 58 degrees on October 30. Maximum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 44 degrees on October 20 to a high of 78 degrees on October 6.

There was precipitation on nine of October's 31 days, ranging from traces on October 5 and October 24 to .95 of an inch on October 15. Stookey measured one and a half inches of snow on October 20.

Here are the actual Washington C. H. precipitation figures for 1974 as compared with the established averages:

	Act.	Avg.
January	2.94	3.38
February	1.99	2.44
March	3.31	3.99
April	2.91	3.99
May	5.62	3.81
June	7.96	3.97
July	2.28	3.97
August	5.74	3.00
September	4.22	2.71
October	1.80	2.00
Totals	38.80	33.26

Californians eye gender changes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians will vote Tuesday on whether to revise the state Constitution to remove many of its references to gender.

Critics say that as the document is now worded it discriminates against women.

For instance, they ask why the governor should be referred to as "he" or "him"?

Under Proposition 11, put on the ballot by overwhelming vote of the legislature, the governor would be called "the governor."

Assemblymen would be "members of the Assembly." Congressmen would be "representatives in Congress." Workmen's compensation would be "workers' compensation."

Chairmen no longer would be chairmen. But to the relief of many, they would not be called chairpersons. "Presiding officer" would be the wording.

In all, 100 changes are proposed in eight of the 34 sections to make the 70,000-word constitution neuter.

The measure has not been a burning issue in the campaign.

Proponents of the amendment, including Anita Miller of the Commission on the Status of Women, argue that "it recognizes that both men and women have an equal opportunity to participate in the political process."

Opponents contend the proposed amendment is frivolous.

The California State Chamber of Commerce says the proposal is psychological and has no legal effect.

"It does not confer any additional benefit on any woman that she does not already possess," the chamber said.

"Absurd," said law student Timothy D. Weinland, who wrote the official argument against the proposition in the ballot pamphlet that goes to all registered voters.

"We are already burdened by too many meaningless peanalties coming from the government," he said.

Even if Proposition 11 is adopted, references to judges would remain as "he" or "his," despite the fact that California has a number of female judges.

Ohio crashes kill 12 over weekend

By The Associated Press

A dozen persons, four of them pedestrians, were killed in traffic accidents across Ohio over the weekend.

The dead also included two young people killed Saturday when their truck was struck by a train in Hancock County.

The 12 deaths this weekend compare with seven a week ago.

The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY

TOLEDO — Kristine Middaugh, 24, of Oregon, in a three-car collision on U. S. 280 in Wood County.

CINCINNATI — Alan Cox, 17, of Cincinnati, in a two-car accident on Colerain Avenue in Cincinnati.

WARREN — Patricia Hunkus, 18, Kinsman, when the car in which she was riding went off a Trumbull County road.

MEDINA — Lottie Schuman, 46, Medina, when she was struck by a car along a Medina County road.

SATURDAY

CLEVELAND — Benjamin Dortch, 68, Cleveland, while trying to cross a city street.

GALLIPOLIS — Steven J. Dickerson, 58, of Lesage, W.Va., in a two-car collision on Ohio 554 near Gallipolis.

YOUNGSTOWN — Shirley Taylor, 18, of Alliance, in a one-car smashup on U. S. 224 in Mahoning County.

FINDLAY — Bruce Harden, 17, of McComb, and Kathleen Richard, 16, of Deshler, when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a freight train at a crossing just west of McComb.

PORTSMOUTH — Orville Evans, 61, of Mansfield, when his car went out of control on foggy Ohio 239 in Scioto County, and crashed over an embankment.

FRIDAY NIGHT

WARREN — Ronald W. Kornblum, 7, of Newton Falls, when hit by a car on Trumbull County Road 99.

COLUMBUS — Steve Brodeck, 54, of Columbus, when struck by a car on a Columbus street.

Grand theft incident tops weekend reports

A personal injury and a breaking and entering were reported by Washington police today, while the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported two personal injuries, and vandalism and grand theft incidents.

A touchy situation was presented at 4:55 p.m. Saturday, when Josephine Robbins, 77, of 332 Eastern Ave., fell and was injured.

Her husband, Harley Robbins, who was confined to a chair, could not offer any assistance, so he called the Washington C.H. Police Department.

Police Captain Charles Foster arrived at the Robbins residence, but found all doors locked. He checked with neighbors who in turn tried to contact relatives, but no contact with anyone could be made.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was finally called and ended up removing a door in order for attendants from Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service to get Mrs. Robbins and take her to Fayette Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted. She is presently reported in fair condition.

A diamond ring valued at $150 and a winter coat valued at $42, were taken from the Patty Keech residence at 221 N. Fayette St., sometime between Friday night and early Saturday morning, police reported.

Her home had been entered through the rear door and ransacked, according to police reports.

Thomas N. Wilkins, 14, of 2833 U.S. 62-SW, was injured when his mini bike struck a log at the Fruitdale race track in Ross County and threw him off.

The mishap, which resulted in a fracture to Wilkins' right wrist, occurred at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. He was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Alice Kinsley, 6, Mount Sterling, fell off her bicycle at 1 p.m. Sunday, on Harrison Road in Mount Sterling, Fayette County Sheriff's Deputies reported. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated for lacerations and abrasions of the forearm and released.

A wooden latrine on the Archie F. Shadley property in Jeffersonville, was tipped over on its side sometime between 5:10 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Two Hereford calves valued at $250, were stolen from the Decil Recob farm in Mount Sterling, sometime between Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

Sheriff's deputies reported the theft occurred in a field on Rockwell Road and are investigating the incident.

Black UAW official killed in shooting

DETROIT (AP) — "It's a real bone crusher, man," says one union official of the weekend slaying of Nelson Jack Edwards, the top-ranking black officer of the United Auto Workers.

A native of Montgomery, Ala., Edwards came to Detroit in 1937 at the age of 20 and found work at the Chrysler Foundry. He later moved to Ford's Lincoln plant.

He was active in the UAW from almost the beginning and began a steady rise in the union. In 1962, he became the first black elected to the UAW's International Executive Board, and eight years later he became the first of his race to be elected a vice president of the big auto union.

Edwards, 57, died early Saturday in a burst of gunfire at a Detroit bar. Police say the shots were fired by a patron who opened fire with a pistol when he was told the bar was closing.

"He was baptized in the bitterness and hate of the South," says Edwards' administrative aide and longtime friend, Horace Sheffield. "He came north because he thought he could do something about it.

"He was a bridge between the union and the black community. As a black, his goal was ending discrimination. He saw the union as more than a machine — for Jack it was a vehicle for social change.

"I knew him when he was on the line and I knew him at the top. His hat size always stayed the same."

Police said Edwards, a confidante of the late UAW president, Walter Reuther, had been in the bar for less than 10 minutes.

They said a man they identified as Saul Burnett, 39, Detroit, was dozing at the counter of the Broadway Sportsman's Club bar when he was jostled awake and told it was time for final drinks.

Witnesses old officers that Burnett cursed, jumped to his feet and tossed a bottle towards the rear of the room. Then he drew a pistol and began firing the first of five shots.

Edwards, sitting at a table nearby, stood up, apparently to try to stop the commotion. Police said he was hit by two bullets, once in the wrist and once in the head. He died an hour later.

Burnett, a truck driver, was charged Sunday with second-degree murder. He was to be arraigned today in Detroit Recorders Court.

Pickets at grocery store want probe after arrests

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Montgomery County sheriff's office was accused Sunday of violating the constitutional rights of United Farm Workers union pickets by arresting 22 of them outside a Dayton supermarket.

"We are going to demand an investigation of the sheriff's department for the arrests and also that one of the deputies was drunk and pulled a gun," said Eliseo Medina, Ohio UFW director.

"We feel that one of our people could have been shot if we had not been passive and nonviolent," he said.

Deputies arrested about half of a group that was picketing a Fazio's market just northeast of the city limits Saturday night as part of the UFW's boycott of nonunion picked grapes and lettuce.

Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, released on $25 bond and scheduled for court appearances today.

Medina said the pickets were complying with deputies' orders to disperse when officers started arresting people at random. He said a Roman Catholic nun who was participating in the demonstration demanded three times to be arrested, but deputies refused.

Sgt. James Howard of the sheriff's office said the pickets were "clapping, chanting and raving" and refused to listen when officers ordered them to leave.

Medina said he planned to meet with church and labor leaders to arrange to "go out and picket the store again.

"We feel that we have a constitutional right to express our views and ask the consumers not to buy grapes and lettuce and neither Fazio's nor the sheriff's department can deprive us that right," he added.

Local voting

Morris, county prosecuting attorney James A. Kiger and Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Ted W. Brown is opposed in his bid for re-election to the Secretary of State post by Democrat state Sen. Tony P. Hall. But, Ted Brown is not the only Brown in the market seeking re-election.

Attorney General William J. Brown, a Democrat, seeks re-election and is challenged by Franklin County prosecuting attorney George C. Smith. The third Brown hoping for re-election is Lieutenant Gov. John W. Brown. He is opposed by Democrat Richard F. Celeste.

The two remaining state races stack treasurer Gertrude Donahey, a Democrat seeking re-election, against Republican Richard Harris, and Democrat Thomas Ferguson, who hopes to succeed his father, Joseph, the the state auditor race against Roger Tracy.

STATEWIDE balloting will also be held for a U.S. Senate seat with former astronaut John Glenn viewed as a heavy favorite over Cleveland mayor Ralph Perk, the Republican challenger.

Republican William H. Harsha is seeking re-election to his Sixth Congressional District seat in a race against Dr. Lloyd A. Wood, a Chillicothe Democrat.

Voters in the 88th District, which includes Perry, Madison, Marion, Wayne and Paint townships, will decide between Grant McDonald and Oakley Collins for a state senate seat. Democrat Myrl Shoemaker, of Bourneville, is unopposed for re-election to his 88th District seat in the Ohio House of Representatives.

A number of non-partisan candidates also appear on the ballot. They are:

Ward M. Miller and Jean Bilsten for a state board of education seat; Joseph E. O'Neill and C. William O'Neill for chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court; Sheldon A. Taft and Frank D. Celebrezze for court justice; Thomas M. Herbert and Clifford F. Brown for court justice and Robert L. McBride and Jack H. Berger for a seat on the Second District Court of Appeals bench.

Many Americans fear depression

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-five per cent of Americans are afraid the United States is heading toward another 1930-style depression, according to a Time magazine survey.

The magazine said Sunday that 46 per cent disagreed and 9 per cent were not sure of the 1,023 Americans of voting age queried by telephone early in October.

The poll was conducted for Time by the Yankelovitch, Skelly and White organization.

The magazine said Sunday that 33 per cent of the population feel themselves in serious economic distress compared to 28 per cent in a July survey, while 27 per cent are worried about losing their jobs against 25 per cent last July.

Wool and lamb producers vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wool and lamb producers began voting today in a mail referendum lasting until Nov. 15 to decide whether to continue check-off contributions to help advertise and promote their products.

The agriculture department said producers are voting on a new agreement which would be in force in 1974 through 1977 sales.

Trash, barn fires doused

Both a trash barrel and a barn were set on fire Saturday, the Washington C. H. Fire Department reported.

Firemen received the report of the burning barn at 1:55 p.m. Saturday, at the Elmer Haymaker residence on Ohio 38. Firemen were told the barn was set afire to destroy it and they in turn advised the residents of the burning laws and told them to notify the department in the future before burning anything of great size. They allowed the barn to burn under supervision.

A trash barrel was discovered burning at 2:28 p.m. Saturday in the city parking lot at the corner of Main and East streets. Firemen extinguished the flaming barrel with water.

Cards' string broken

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are no longer riding high in the National Football League after running into a Cowboy ambush.

Effren Herrera delivered the killing shot in the Dallas stronghold Sunday.

"It's nice to win one like that after losing other games on field goals," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said after his straightshooting Cowboys handed the Cardinals their first defeat of the year, 17-14 on Herrera's 20-yard field goal with four seconds left.

Before Sunday, the Cardinals had won seven straight games for a big lead in the National Conference East Division. Now, their lead is down to two games over the Washington Redskins, and more significantly, they've proved that they are not such tough birds after all.

In another of Sunday's top games, the Buffalo Bills beat the New England Patriots in a 29-28 thriller to decide the leader in the American Conference East.

Elsewhere, the division leaders in action all won. The Pittsburgh Steelers, leaders in the AFC Central, hammered the Philadelphia Eagles 27-0; the Oakland Raiders, first in the AFC Western, beat the Denver Broncos 28-17, and the Minnesota Vikings, atop the NFC Central, walloped the Chicago Bears 17-0.

In the other games, the Miami Dolphins ripped the Atlanta Falcons 42-7, the Redskins tripped the Green Bay Packers 17-6, the Cincinnati Bengals turned back the Baltimore Colts 24-14, the Houston Oilers trimmed the New York Jets 27-2, the Detroit Lions nudged the New Orleans Saints 19-14, the San Diego Chargers nipped the Cleveland Browns 36-35 and the New York Giants surprised the Kansas City Chiefs 33-27.

Los Angeles, the NFC Western leader, plays San Francisco Monday night.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach drove the Cowboys 71 yards in the final five minutes of their game with St. Louis. The Cardinals aided the drive with three costly penalties.

Staubach connected on a 15-yard pass to Golden Richards with 30 seconds to play and St. Louis was flagged for roughing the passer to put Dallas on the Cardinal five. Staubach sneaked one yard and Dallas let the clock run down before Herrera, a former collegiate star at UCLA who was signed as a free agent three games ago, calmly kicked the winning field goal to send the Texas Stadium crowd of 64,146 into delerium.

St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart completed touchdown passes of 19 yards to Jackie Smith and 10 yards to Mel Gray — the latter giving the Cardinals a 14-7 lead in the third period.

Bills 29, Patriots 28

Linebacker Dave Washington ran 72 yards with a pass interception for a touchdown, then blocked a field goal attempt with 50 seconds remaining to help Buffalo win a spine-tingling game from New England. The victory boosted the Bills into sole possession of first place in the AFC East with a 7-1 record. New England, 6-2, fell one game behind into a secondplace tie with Miami.

Washington picked off a pass by New England quarterback Jim Plunkett and sprinted down the sideline to put Buffalo in front midway through the third period.

However, the Patriots, who lost a 30-28 decision to the Bills in Buffalo two weeks ago, charged back as Mark Herron capped a 51-yard drive with a short touchdown run later in the period. John Smith kicked the conversion, putting New England in front 28-26. Led by quarterback Joe Ferguson, the Bills moved downfield to set up John Leypoldt's winning field goal from the 47-yard line with five seconds gone in the fourth period.

Steelers 27, Eagles 0

Pittsburgh's defense allowed only three drives beyond the 50-yard line and Mel Blount delivered the knockout blow with a 52-yard interception for a touchdown as the Steelers crushed Philadelphia.

Raiders 28, Broncos 17

Ken Stabler threw four touchdown passes, two each to Cliff Branch and Fred Biletnikoff, to lead Oakland past Denver. The Raiders sprinted to a 21-7 lead in the first half and held off the rallying Broncos after intermission.

Vikings 17, Bears 0

Fran Tarkenton threw two second-half touchdown passes, leading Minnesota to an easy victory over mistake-prone Chicago. The Vikings' victory snapped a two-game losing streak.

Dolphins 42, Falcons 7

Don Nottingham scored three touchdowns to lead Miami over Atlanta. Miami quarterback Bob Griese completed 10 of 15 passes for 152 yards and two touchdowns.

Redskins 17, Packers 6

Washington beat Green Bay behind Billy Kilmer's short passes and a rugged Redskins defense that closed down the Packers' running game.

Bengals 24, Colts 14

Ken Anderson passed for three touchdowns, the last one with 90 seconds remaining, to lead Cincinnati over Baltimore.

Oilers 27, Jets 22

Dan Pastorini threw a 51-yard pass to Ken Burrough to set up Willie Rodgers' winning touchdown run with 1:56 to play in Houston's victory over the New York's Jets.

Lions 19, Saints 14

Levi Johnson returned a squibbed field goal attempt 78 yards for a second-quarter touchdown and Detroit survived a New Orleans' rally to take a rain-soaked victory over the Saints.

Chargers 36, Browns 35

Ray Wersching kicked a 40-yard field goal with 55 seconds remaining as San Diego, led by the four-touchdown, 333-yard passing of Dan Fouts, beat Cleveland.

Giants 33, Chiefs 27

Craig Morton uncorked a 51-yard touchdown pass to Joe Dawkins with 4:13 left in the game to give the New York Giants a close victory over Kansas City. The Chiefs had the ball inside the Giants' one-yard line when the game ended after quarterback Len Dawson engineered a 77-yard march in eight plays.

UNSWEET PARTING — Jane Wheeler of Greeley, Colo., flies off bare-back bucking bronco during Girls' Rodeo Association World Championship competition in Spring Creek, Colo. Nearly 200 girls competed at the event.

Cinncinnati upsets Temple, 22-20

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati upset 19th-ranked Temple and Woody Hayes marked his 200th career collegiate victory in Ohio college football action over the weekend.

In the Mid-American Conference, Miami of Ohio assured itself of at least a share of the league championship, while in the Ohio Conference, Baldwin-Wallace clinched the Red Division title.

Cincinnati's upset came with only 10 seconds left in the game with Temple, which until Saturday enjoyed the nation's second longest collegiate winning streak.

Cincinnati led 19-13 going into the game's final minutes. But Temple marched 79 yards in the closing minutes and took a slim 20-19 lead with 2:24 left to play. Cincinnati then launched a desperation drive, and Dan Shepherd booted a 25-yard field goal to snatch the victory from Temple.

In Columbus, Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes claimed his 200th career collegiate victory and junior tailback Archie Griffin smashed a national rushing record as the Buckeyes demolished Illinois 49-7.

Griffin piled up 144 yards to make the game his 18th straight 100-plus regular season performance. The mark surpassed a record set in 1968-69 by Steve Owens of Oklahoma.

Miami clinched at least a share of the Mid-American Conference title with a 31-0 victory over Western Michigan. It was the 16th-ranked Redskins' fourth straight conference victory and stretched their unbeaten string to 20 games.

In Toledo, star quarterback Gene Swick passed through a thick fog for 148 yards to lead the Rockets to a 44-14 victory over Northern Illinois. Though both are MAC teams, the victory does not count in conference standings because Northern Illinois does not play enough MAC teams yet.

In other MAC games, Ohio University followed the running and passing of quarterback Rich Bevly to a 33-22 victory over Bowling Green. Kent State smashed Marshall 35-7 in a non-conference game.

Among major independents, Akron scored on a 92-yard aerial bomb in the closing minutes to defeat Indiana State 22-21, while Dayton was nipped 28-25 by Central State. In Cleveland, Willie Martinez threw for three touchdowns to lead Oberlin to a 25-18 victory over Case Western Reserve.

In the Ohio Conference, Baldwin-Wallace won a berth in the league championship game at Berea Nov. 16 and a chance for a NCAA division playoff invitation by defeating Otterbein 35-22.

Other Red Division games saw Muskingum downing Wooster 21-3 and Marietta whipping Heidelberg 30-19.

The OC Blue Division still is undecided, but Wittenberg remains on top of the standings with a devastating 51-0 victory over Ohio Wesleyan. Mount Union stayed in contention with a 30-21 triumph over Denison.

In the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference, Defiance downed Taylor, Ind., 14-3, while in the President's Conference it was John Carroll 19, Thiel, Pa. 7 and Washington & Jefferson, Pa. 10, Hiram 6.

Elsewhere, it was Ashland 35, Waynesburg, Pa. 7; Capital 40, Franklin, Ind. 6; Edinboro, Pa. 22, Kenyon 21; Georgetown, Ky. 20, Bluffton 12; Ohio Northern 17, Findlay 15, and Youngstown State 13, Eastern Illinois 3.

Anderson's passing bests Colts' blitz

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Let me tell you about the blitz," said Coach Paul Brown of Cincinnati. "Teams that live by the blitz sometimes hit big with it, and sometimes get hit big by it."

On Sunday, it was Baltimore that unleashed the red-dog, and three times Bengals' quarterback Ken Anderson collared it for touchdowns.

In the second quarter, Anderson attacked the blitz with TD strikes of 77 yards to Isaac Curtis and 27 yards to Essex Johnson.

And with Cincinnati holding a slim lead late in the game, Anderson again read the Colts' defense to perfection and flipped a 45-yard scoring strike to Curtis to ice a 24-14 victory.

"We saw some weaknesses in the Baltimore defense and exploited them," Anderson summed up. "We wanted to run more but they shut us out on the ground. We had to pass."

The No. 3 passer in the National Football League coming into the game, Anderson had a field day against the Colts.

He hit on 17 of 21 throws for 297 yards and always seemed able to find receivers and keep drives going. The four-year veteran from Augustana College also wound up as his team's leading rusher with 62 yards on six carries.

"I'd rather pass," Anderson explained. "But if the hole opens up, I'll run it."

Cincinnati, now 5-3, jumped to a 17-0 halftime lead on Anderson's two TD passes and an 18-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann. The Colts blocked two other Muhlmann field goal tries, from 23 and 40 yards.

Baltimore's offense, practically nonexistant in the first two quarters, suddenly sprang to life after halftime.

The Colts took the second half kickoff and drove 79 yards, with Lydell Mitchell scoring on a six-yard run.

The play proved costly for the Colts, however. Quarterback Bert Jones suffered a sprained right shoulder and left the game. Spokesman later said Jones may miss the team's game against Denver next Sunday.

Marty Domres, Jones' replacement at quarterback, later directed a 90-yard march capped by Mitchell's one-yard TD plunge to narrow the deficit to 17-14.

Cavaliers edge Suns; win 104-101

By The Associated Press

Easy-going Bill Fitch has faced plenty of strange events during his four years as the only coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers, a perennial National Basketball Association loser. Now, he has seen everything.

"It was a peculiar basketball game," said Fitch, known for his sense of humor, after Cleveland edged the visiting Phoenix Suns 104-101 Sunday night. "Both teams played so unusually."

"We played a hell of a game in the third and fourth quarters," said Fitch about the effort by the Cavaliers. "And then, all of a sudden, I looked up and we were losing the freethrow contest."

Cleveland had rolled to a 94-82 lead with less than six minutes left, but Phoenix — outscored 31-23 in the third period — went ahead 101-100 with 1:16 remaining by sinking eight foul shots.

In an off-handed remark about the officiating, Fitch said he wanted to check the films in order to "really see what happened."

Keith Erickson's four straight foul shots gave the Suns their temporary lead before Bobby Smith put Cleveland ahead 102-101 on a decisive 15-foot jump shot from the corner with 58 seconds to go.

The Cavaliers, who have won five games and lost four, were led by Austin Carr's 27 points. Phoenix, 3-5, was led by Erickson's 19.

In other NBA games Sunday, Golden State beat Portland 109-100, Buffalo defeated Los Angeles 124-101, Chicago topped Kansas City-Omaha 86-79 and Seattle downed Milwaukee 10189.

Elyria Catholic wins AA cross country tilt

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Elyria Catholic again is the state Class AA high school cross country champion.

The school easily won its second straight title with 60 points chalked up by Bill Stetson's fourth place divisional finish, followed by Jeff Brizes in 9th, Brad House in 10th, Bob Schmidt in 15th and Lee Korvan in 21st place.

Findlay captured the Class AAA championship with 103 points and Plymouth took Class A honors with 87.

Pony teams honored

Miami Trace football coach Fred Zechman was the featured speaker at the annual Pony League football banquet, Saturday evening. The banquet, which was sponsored by the Jaycees, was held in the cafeteria of the Washington Junior High.

Zechman, who could guide the Panthers to a share of the South Centra Ohio League crown with a victory over Unioto this week, also brought his tri-captains Tom Riley, Jeff Sagar and Jay Mossbarger to the banquet. Zechman spoke to the audience on the efforts made and the years of work involved in playing varsity football.

Each of the Panther tri-captains also addressed the audience. Riley related on what it takes to play football at the high school level, Sagar spoke on coming up through the Pony League program and Mossbarger reviewed the 8-6 Friday night victory over Washington Court House. All three players came up through the Pony League football ranks.

Approximately 100 players attended the banquet. Pizza was prepared and delivered for the event by Pizza Hut.

All trophies were paid for by the new K-Mart sporting goods center. Championship trophies were presented to Domenico's Dividends and Frisch's Big Boys, who were co-league champs with 3-0-1 records.

Daryl Stewart served as Pony League commissioner. Dale Butler and John Marcum were co-chairmen for the banquet.

Other contributions were provided by Sagar Dairy, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Meriweather Dodge.

Mount Union wins

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Led by Bob Lunn with a time of 26:35, Mount Union runners finished in the first four places to give the school a lopsided victory in the 40th Ohio Conference Cross Country Championships Saturday.

Top teams post impressive wins

The time for college football comparisons is here.

Is Ohio State better than Oklahoma? Is Michigan better than Ohio State? Is Alabama better than all of them?

Texas, ranked 12th, is "a lot better" offensively than toprated Ohio State, Coach Dave Smith of Southern Methodist said Saturday after his club bowed to the Longhorns 35-15. Five weeks earlier, SMU lost to Ohio State 28-9.

Alabama is "better than Florida," Mississippi State's Bob Tyler said after his 17thranked team absorbed a 35-0 licking at the hands of the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide. State's only other setback was a 29-13 loss to Florida, also five weeks ago. Saturday, No. 11 Florida ended fifth-ranked Auburn's unbeaten season 25-14.

"I don't see a heckuva lot of difference between their defenses; they're both fine," Colorado's Bill Mallory said in comparing ninth-ranked Nebraska and No. 2-rated Oklahoma. Nebraska throttled Colorado 35-15 Saturday while Oklahoma trampled the Buffs 49-14 two weeks ago.

Throwing comparisons — and another opponent — to the winds, Ohio State did nothing to diminish its No. 1 standing. Archie Griffin set an all-time record by rushing for more than 100 yards for the 18th consecutive regular-season game and the Buckeyes trounced Illinois 49-7, making Woody Hayes one of the few coaches to reach 200 victories.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma whipped Iowa State 28-10 — it was 28-0 until the final two minutes — and No. 3 Michigan struggled past Indiana 21-7.

Southern California, rated sixth, had to come from behind to tie California 15-all but the rest of The Associated Press Top Ten all prevailed.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame rallied for a pair of fourth-period touchdowns and shaded Navy 14-6, No. 8 Texas A&M tripped Arkansas 20-10 and 10th-ranked Penn State edged No. 15 Maryland 24-17.

Besides Florida and Texas, 16th-ranked Miami of Ohio was the only other member of the Second Ten to win. The Redskins clobbered Western Michigan 31-0.

But Rice toppled No. 13 Texas Tech 21-7, Texas-El Paso stunned No. 14 Arizona State 31-27, Washington bombed No. 18 UCLA 31-9 and Cincinnati nipped No. 19 Temple 22-20. San Diego State and Wisconsin, tied for 20th, both lost, the former to North Texas State 14-9 and the latter to Michigan State 28-21.

Ohio State's Griffin rushed for 144 yards and two touchdowns, and Cornelius Greene ran for 127 yards and one touchdown and passed for another 127 and two scores.

Oklahoma maintained its half-game lead in the Big Eight over Nebraska and Missouri — a 52-15 winner over Kansas State — as Elvis Peacock and Grant Burget ran for touchdowns and Steve Davis passed to Joe Washington and Tinker Owens for two more. The Sooners, though, were held to 198 rushing yards, by far their lowest of the year.

Michigan's Gordon Bell came off the bench and rushed for 159 yards and two second-perid touchdowns as the Wolverines remained tied with Ohio State atop the Big Ten.

Five Alabama players — Robert Fraley, Calvin Culliver, Richard Todd, Randy Billingsley and Ray Sewell — scored on short runs against Mississippi State as the Crimson Tide opened a one-game bulge over Florida and Georgia in the Southeastern Conference race.

Florida chewed up Auburn's vaunted defense for 324 yards on the ground, with Jimmy DuBose smashing inside for 143 and Tony Green running wide for 78.

Southern Cal trailed California 12-0 before starting its comeback. The Trojans caught up in the third period when Pat Haden sneaked across from a yard out and then flipped a two-point conversion pass to Jim Obradovich.

Notre Dame trailed Navy 6-0 until the final period, when Tom Clements tossed a five-yard pass to Pete Demmerle and Randy Harrison raced 40 yards with an intercepion.

Texas A&M's entire backfield was on the sidelines with injuries at one point so sub fullback Jerry Honore took over and scored twice against Arkansas, once on a 60-yard gallop.

Nebraska's Dave Humm threw two scoring passes against Colorado while freshman Monte Anthony rushed for 157 yards and John O'Leary tallied twice.

Jeff Hite, benched earlier in the season, raced 79 yards with an intercepted pass against Maryland and scored again on a 21-yard dash after he stole a lateral on a kickoff return.

Texas' Marty Akins led the Longhorns past SMU by firing his first touchdown pass of the season and scoring once himself. The perennial champs remained one game behind Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference scramble.

Tommy Kramer scored one touchdown and passed for another as Rice upset Texas Tech for its first triumph.

Texas-El Paso, which failed to win a game last year, notched victory No. 3 of 1974 by shocking heavily favored Arizona State as Bobby McKinley threw a first-period touchdown pass and scored twice himself in the final quarter. The defeat dropped the defending champion Sun Devils into a secondplace tie with idle Arizona in the Western Athletic Conference, one-half game behind 3-01 Brigham Young.

Sherman Smith scored twice, helping Miami of Ohio clinch at least a tie for its second straight Mid-American Conference title. Robin Earl, a 250-pound tight end until a couple of weeks ago, rumbled for 152 yards and one touchdown as Washington continued its jinx over UCLA in Seattle, where the Bruins haven't won since 1958.

Dan Shepherd's 25-yard field with 10 seconds left — his third of the game — lifted Cincinnati past previously unbeaten Temple. North Texas State scored twice in the first period on Ken Washington's 25-yard pass to Vance Jackson and David Deaton's 26-yard interception and held on to beat San Diego State.

FILLS THE BILL

This older well maintained home will fill your needs as it offers: a large living room with an open fireplace, a formal dining room, a large kitchen with loads of wall cabinets and working space plus a pantry and storage room for your deep freeze, a nice size bedroom, a den or TV room or an additional bedroom and a full bath all downstairs.

Upstairs off the hallway are two nice size bedrooms with loads of closet space, and a full bath.

The basement affords 220 electric hookup for your washer and dryer, a new hot water heater, a gas hot air furnace, plus much additional work or storage space.

This all carpeted home with its larger rooms and decor will give you the restful feeling of living in a home not just a house.

Let us show you this home being offered at $24,900 today — tomorrow might be too late, since this type home is not offered on the selling market everyday.

HAPPY BLUE BELLES

The Happy Blue Belles met in Belle-Aire School with nine members present. After saying the Pledge of Allegiance, the group enjoyed refreshments served by Angela Everhart. During the social hour we recited the Bluebird Wish.

Roll call was given by Loretta Self and dues were collected by Jody Shepler. Each member told how she was going to dress for Halloween as she paid her dues.

Mrs. Barbara Wyatt, assistant leader, showed us how to make an owl refrigerator decoration. Mrs. Janice Boswell, leader, assisted and we completed these during the meeting.

Everyone then enjoyed a play period outdoors until time to go home.

The next meeting will be Nov. 11 and Debbie Forsha will bring refreshments. Mrs. Boswell reminded us of the candy sale in November.

Those present were Julie Boswell, Melissa Climer, Angela Everhart, Maria Frogale, Stephanie Hatmacher, Jody Shepler, Loretta Self, Jackie Sue Smith, Amy Wyatt, Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Wyatt, Amy Boswell and Wesley Wyatt.

Judges ponder new Boyle trial

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Three Delaware County judges will hear arguments Dec. 19 from the lawyer representing convicted murderer W.A. "Tony" Boyle, the former president of the United Mine Workers Union who is seeking a new trial in the 1969 Yablonski slayings.

A jury convicted the 72-year-old Boyle last April of arranging the hire of gunmen to kill UMW rival Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski.

Yablonski, his wife, Margaret, and daughter, Charlotte, were found dead in their beds in Clarksville, Washington County, Pa.

Boyle presently is in the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., where he is serving a three-year term for unlawfully spending union funds during the 1972 presidential election.

George Foreman wants rematch

PARIS (AP) — Boxer George Foreman, who lost his world heavyweight crown last week to Muhammad Ali, says he is ready to fight Ali again "for nothing."

"I think that in Kinshasa the best athlete was beaten," said Foreman, speaking on a television show about the title bout in Zaire.

"I am prepared to meet Ali again and for nothing," he said. "I'll have no rest until I meet him again. Then I'll retire."

Foreman and Ali each earned $5 million for the fight. Ali has said he has no immediate future plans, but he disclosed after the fight he was offered $10 million to box Foreman or ex-champion Joe Frazier.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♠	Dble
2 ♦	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	2 ♠

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

I seldom report phony bids in this column, one reason being that readers might get false notions about how to play the game and so cause their partners and pocketbooks endless suffering.

But some players get a kick out of practicing such shenanigans and, in fact, the vice — if I may call it that — is not unknown in the very highest circles.

This hand occurred in a match between Italy and Great Britain. The irrepressible Boris Schapiro, with an eye on the vulnerability, overcalled the Italian South's diamond bid with a spade on three to the ten.

It is hard to criticize this whimsy, since it proved highly successful when the Italian pair — Chiaradia and Forquet — stopped at two spades, making four. Regardless of how, why or where the Italians went wrong, there is not the shadow of a doubt that the psychic was effective.

There must have been something irresistible about bidding spades with the 10-7-3, for lo and behold, when Avarelli and Belladonna held the East-West cards for Italy at the other table, the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
3 ♦	Dble	3 ♠	Dble
Pass	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
5 ♦	Dble

Here, however, the British North-South pair smoked out the psychic and got to four spades despite Belladonna's three spade bid. They would have made four spades for 620 points, but Avarelli decided to sacrifice at five diamonds, which was doubled.

Five diamonds went down four — 700 points — which was only a slight loss to par, but, in conjunction with what had occurred at the previous table, the Italian team lost 530 points on the deal.

So Britain clearly won the battle of the psychics.

The Vitamin E Kick

My husband is on a vitamin E kick. Not only does he take large amounts of it every day, but he's become the neighborhood's leading advocate of vitamin E. He constantly tries to induce people to join him on his vitamin E binges.

Mrs. H.G., Pa.

Dear Mrs. G.:

Your husband is not alone in his enthusiasm. The vitamin E craze is now in its upswing.

Adherents make bizarre claims for vitamin E—claims that are not substantiated by scientific studies on nutrition.

These are some of the claims: Vitamin E is good for arthritis. Vitamin E will control psoriasis, eczema and other skin problems. Vitamin E will prevent male baldness. Vitamin E increases sexual virility. Vitamin E prevents wrinkling of the skin.

There was a time, in fact, when vitamin E was thought to be effective in the treatment of anginal pains due to coronary artery heart disease. A definitive study later showed that "there does not appear to be any clear evidence that vitamin E is effective in the treatment of any form of heart disease." These studies were reported at Duke University School of Medicine and the Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City.

Vitamin E is necessary as a part of a well-balanced diet. It is found in large quantities in vegetable oils, whole grain foods and leafy vegetables.

For people who are known to have a deficient diet, supplementary vitamins are important, including vitamin E.

The Federal Drug Administration states that "Vitamin E has not been proven scientifically to have any of the miraculous effects being claimed for it."

Fortunately, excessive quantities of vitamin E do not seem to be harmful. On this basis, I suppose that the only valid criticism of your husband's vitamin E fling is in terms of wasted money.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism--A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. THE BETTER HALF — By Barnes

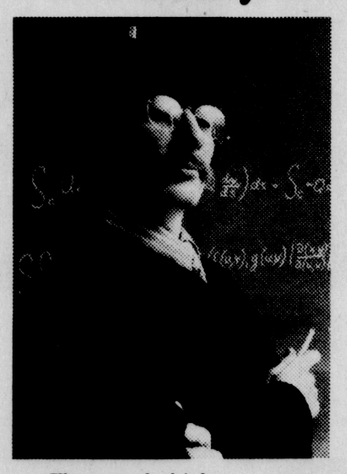
"I decided to marry him the day I beat him in a high school debate."

A little simple arithmetic about a Math major.



The cost of a higher education is getting higher. In fact, you could end up spending close to $20,000 to put your child through college.

So maybe you should consider U.S. Savings Bonds. They're one of the most dependable ways to build funds for an education.

All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Then an amount you specify is set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

Say your child is 3 years old now. If you buy a $75 Bond a month through Payroll Savings, by the time he's 18, you'll have $16,048 tucked away. A solid sum to get him started. See? A little simple arithmetic can add up to a lot.

Make the chances of your child's college education more secure. Join the Payroll Savings Plan now.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4¼% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Officers probe 16 weekend traffic accidents

Two autos were demolished in an accident which resulted in the injury of three persons, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported; along with a second accident-injury, in which a young Fayette County woman was fortunate to escape with her life. Washington C.H. police reported a rash of accidents, in which two people were injured.

SHERIFF

SUNDAY, 2:40 p.m. — A car driven by Isaac S. Stewart, 70, of 1342 Grace St., was demolished when it turned left from Ohio 41-S onto Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, in front of an oncoming auto driven by Gareth C. Evans, 17, of 509 Hickory Lane.

Evans and his passenger Marvin J. Collins, 16, of Ohio 41, were taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital. Evans was treated for abrasions and lacerations of the chest and Collins was treated for pain in his right arm. Both were released.

Stewart's passenger, his wife, Catherine E. Stewart, 71, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated for a fractured ankle and abrasions of the face and right elbow. She is presently reported in satisfactory condition.

Stewart was cited by sheriff's deputies for failure to yield. Evans auto was also demolished in the mishap and a fence owned by Albert C. Caplinger, Ohio 41-S was also damaged.

6 a.m. — A car driven by Carla A. Pickell, 22, of 4504 Ohio 207, traveled off Washington-Waterloo Road, one-tenth mile southwest of Hess Road, struck a guardrail and came to rest between a culvert and a large tree.

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Don Cox reported Miss Pickell apparently fell asleep at the wheel. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and treated for facial lacerations and then released. A fence owned by Charles E. Bell, 1159 Campbell St., was also damaged in the accident.

5:43 a.m. — A car driven by Norman A. Garringer, 20, Rt. 2, traveled off Greenfield-Sabina Road, a half mile west of New Martinsburg Road intersection, and struck a fence owned by Joe Milure, Washington-New Martinsburg Rd.

Damage to the Garringer auto was estimated as moderate.

5:21 a.m. — A cow owned by Howard Spencer, U.S. 35-S, was struck and killed by a hit-skip motorist on U.S. 35, two-tenths of a mile west of Hoppes Road. The animal was valued at $300.

SATURDAY, — An accident at the intersection of Main Street and Biddle Avenue in Bloomingburg, involved cars driven by Roger E. Smith, 20, Bloomingburg, and Victor Hart, 70, Bloomingburg. Damage was minor.

FRIDAY, 10:40 p.m. — An auto driven by Harold D. Shonkwiler, 17, Rt. 5, backed into a parked car owned by John M. Smith, 948 Stuckey Rd., in the Miami Trace High School parking lot on Ohio 41-N. Damage was slight.

ACCIDENT-INJURY — This car driven by Carla Pickell, 22, Ohio 207, traveled off Washington-Waterloo Road, through a guardrail and down into a culvert at 6 a.m. Sunday. The young woman was able to crawl out of the wreckage and go for help at the farmhouse located in the background (left). Pictured also is investigating Sheriff's Deputy Don Cox, who reported the girl apparently fell asleep at the wheel, when the mishap occurred. She was treated and released for facial laceration at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Kennedy raps accident articles

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says some of the articles published in The Boston Globe last week about his 1969 Chappaquiddick Island auto accident contained charges which are "ugly, untrue and grossly unfair."

The Globe published a series of five articles, which included a tape-recorded interview with the Massachusetts Democrat, concerning the accident that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

In a letter published Sunday in the Globe, Kennedy also criticized the allegation that he had intended to take Miss Kopechne for a walk on the beach, not to her motel as he had contended.

"It is regrettable in the atmosphere of doubt and suspicion which enshrouds us as a people that the truth cannot compete with the unnamed sources, the groundless suggestions and the speculation which is nurtured by articles of sensationalism," he wrote.

Globe editor Thomas Winship said the newspaper did not rely on just a single source in a twomonth investigation of the Chappaquiddick incident. He said the team of writers which put the story together "carefully considered the integrity and knowledgeability of its sources before publishing any information provided by them."

In a television interview broadcast during the weekend, Kennedy attributed the renewed interest in the 1969 accident to the post-Watergate mentality that "festers now in our society."

The comments, in an interview with WBZ-TV newsman Steve Nevas, were taped Thursday and broadcast Saturday night.

Flood insurance made available

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Flood Insurers Association has approved two Ohio cities and one village for lowcost flood insurance.

The NFIA approved the insurance for the cities of Bellevue and Fairchild and the village of Manchester.

Damage from flooding is not covered in standard property insurance policies.

The flood insurance is subsidized by the federal government in communities which have taken precautions to minimize possible flood damage.
